BULLETIN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Oct. 17.—President Washington Luis today authorized the Bank of Brazil to issue 300,000 million reis (worth about $30,000,000) of additional currency to meet the cost of fighting the revolution. The government will deposit $4,860,000 in gold and credit bonds as security.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Rout of the rebel troops and capture of their positions in battle at Itarare in the state of Sao Paulo was reported today by federal government sources.

The federals said that the rebels at 3 a. m. yesterday made a violent attack against Sao Paulo troops in the entire sector. The rebel infantry and cavalry were supported by artillery, but the federals said their shell fire was ineffective.

Barbed Wire Guards Trenches.

The federals withstood the first attack. They claimed to have caused heavy casualties in the compact bodies of rebel infantry and cavalry that tried to take their trenches, which were protected by barbed wire entanglement.

Shortly after the first attack, the federal artillery went into action, obliging the rebels to withdraw leaving their dead on the field. Federal airplanes kept up constant raids and dropped bombs on the attackers. Some airplanes flew farther south and bombed rebel troop trains at Jaguariahiva station.

Seize Enemy Lines.

At about midday, after nine hours of fighting, the rebel fire slackened and the federals made a violent counter attack, taking the enemy's trenches and driving them back in disorder.

The federals say they captured many prisoners, from whom they learned that the rebels were finding it difficult to obtain provisions and ammunition, so that their artillery could not go into action until yesterday.

Rebels Use Green Troops.

The captured prisoners were badly clothed, hungry and barefoot. Many were said to be civilians from the state of Rio Grande do Sul without military training. They suffered heavy losses through advancing in compact groups against the federal machine gun fire.

The federals said that at one point, where an opening had been purposely left in the barbed wire entanglements, the rebels who tried to crowd through were raked by fire from hidden machine guns. They also quote the prisoners as saying the attack was made at Itarare because the rebel commanders had failed to break through the Sao Paulo frontier anywhere else.

A special train arriving at Sao Paulo this morning brought 300 prisoners from Itarare and from Ourinho also. Ourinho is in the state of Parana and about 80 miles northwest of Itarare.

[Rebel communiques issued yesterday admitted fighting at Itarare, but claimed victory.]

Reject Negotiations.

Federal sources asserted tonight that the Brazilian government had not ordered peace negotiations with the revolutionaries and would not consider any proposal for separation of the country.

This presumably was in answer to Gen. Miguel Costa, commander of the rebel vanguard on the Sao Paulo-Parana front, who is reported to have ordered the government to give up.

Northern Insurgents Advance.

PORTO ALEGRE, Brazil, Oct. 17.—A revolutionary headquarters bulletin today said Gen. Juarez Tavora at the head of 10,000 men has captured the city of Aracaju, capital of the state of Sergipe. Gov. Manuel Dantas had fled to an unknown destination. Gen. Tavora is preparing to march on Bahia.

Warship Ordered to Brazil.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 17.—(AP)—For the first time in two years an American warship was steaming today toward a Latin-American republic to protect, if necessary, American lives which might be endangered in revolutionary activities.

Ordered several days ago to Trinidad from Guantanamo, the cruiser Pensacola started down towards the Brazilian coast today on instructions from Washington. The cruiser's orders are to touch at three principal ports, Belem, Pernambuco, and Bahia.

Violent Quake Shakes Chile; Houses Topple

SANTIAGO, Chile, Oct. 17.—(AP)—A violent earthquake, which apparently shook the entire Andean slope of Chile, this morning caused at least one death and a score of injuries.

Apparently the quake caused widespread damage to buildings, and it is believed the casualty list may grow when all communities are heard from.

The one death reported was that of a woman, a hospital patient, who left her bed in panic and died as she attempted to flee outdoors with others. Another woman at the same place suffered a broken leg. Six other persons were slightly injured.

Many Buildings Destroyed.

Much material damage was wrought in the town of Llai Llai, hardly a house escaping injury. The postoffice was nearly destroyed, large stores were damaged, a main street was closed by the falling of a masonry wall, and several houses were obliterated.

In Santiago the frightened inhabitants fled to the parks. Walls were cracked and cornices fell from a number of buildings.

Some injuries were reported at Valparaiso, although most of them were said to have been caused by accidents in the panic rather than by the quake itself.

Rumblings Accompany Quake.

The quake was a violent shock, accompanied by deep rumblings. The seismographic observatory of El Salto said the principal movement lasted 40 seconds, with the tremor attaining an acceleration of 260 millimeters a second.

It was understood tonight that telegraphic communication had been restored throughout the country, although one newspaper reported no news had been received from south of Concepcion and north of La Serena.

Reports of some damage were received from the towns of Los Andes, San Felipe, La Ligua, Talca, Concepcion, Angol, La Calera, and Callao.

Two Quakes in Japan.

TOKIO, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Two fairly heavy earthquakes were felt early today on the western part of Hondo island. The shocks occurred at 6:32 and 6:36 a. m., and were strongest in Ishikawa and Fukien prefectures. Osaka, Kyoto, Nara, and Nagoya also felt the quakes. No casualties were reported, although many buildings were slightly damaged and telephone and telegraph communication interrupted.

HILL OVERTURNS NEARING END OF AUSTRALIAN HOP

BATAVIA, Java, Oct. 18 [Saturday.]—(AP)—Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith, racing against time, and Flight Lieutenant C. W. Hill, on an airplane dash from England to Australia, left Sourabaya at 5 a. m. today for Atamboea, island of Timor, in the Malay archipelago.

Lieut. Hill overturned in his airplane between Koepang and Atapoepoe, probably in so doing robbing himself of his opportunity to beat Bert Hinkler's 15½ day record for a flight from England to Australia. Hill was not injured.

Lieut. Hill was to have taken off on his last hop of the flight from Atamboe.

Plan Great Reception.

PORT DARWIN, Northern Australia, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Finish of the great air race between Lieut. Hill and Commander Kingsford-Smith from England to Australia is being awaited here with intense excitement. Hill had been expected Saturday, and Kingsford-Smith, who did not start from London until four days after Hill left, is expected Sunday morning. A reception is being planned for the flyers which will rival that given Amy Johnson, British girl flyer, who earlier this year flew from England.

THE WEATHER

Wintry Wave Brings Frost, Snow to City

The weather bureau forecast last night that Chicago and the surrounding territory will be gripped over the weekend by the prewinter chill which swept down from the northwest yesterday, bringing the season's first killing frosts. The temperature here, which reached a maximum of 46 degrees at noon yesterday, dropped to 31 degrees at 2 o'clock this morning, according to unofficial thermometers.

Cloudy and slightly colder weather was forecast for Chicago today, with clear and continued cold tomorrow.

Chicago had its first snow of the season yesterday, although the fall was too light to record officially at the weather bureau. No record was established, however, since snow has been known to fall here as early as Oct. 11.

Snow in Central States.

Snow was falling last night over parts of Wisconsin, Minnesota, and upper Michigan. Freezing weather was general as far south as Missouri and Kansas yesterday, while at Quincy, Ill., ice formed and garden crops were ruined, although the official minimum temperature recorded was 33, one degree above freezing.

A cold north wind sent the mercury down to 7 degrees below freezing in Eau Claire, Wis., yesterday morning. There were snow flurries there throughout the afternoon.

Six Men Lose Lives.

Six men lost their lives and many automobile parties were marooned in a blizzard which swept the mountain states and parts of the Canadian west. In the outskirts of Regina, Sask., seven men in an auto were trapped in a snow drift and five of them were frozen to death. In Great Falls, Mont., Benedict Ummoefer died in a snowstorm which swept the temperature down to 7 degrees.

Workers Rescued After Fall Into Caisson Pool

Four workmen building foundations for the new outer link bridge at East Illinois street narrowly escaped death late yesterday when a hoist supporting a platform on which they were working in a seven foot steel caisson gave way and plunged them into 30 feet of water at the bottom of the 80 foot shaft. Mathew Fox, 36 years old, 4707 Wrightwood avenue; Alfred Erickson, 4309 Fullerton parkway; John von Allman, foreman, 611 Belmont avenue, and Martin Gleason, 8243 Luella avenue, the victims of the accident, were rescued by other workmen.

GRAND JUROR DOES HIS OWN SECRET WORK

Seeks Facts About Stolen Gang List.

The detective bureau was disturbed last night when a man who said he was a member of the grand jury appeared shortly after 10 o'clock and demanded the right to make an investigation of the theft from the bureau of a secret list of hoodlums.

After defying efforts of several policemen to prevent him from entering the inner offices, the visitor finally convinced the police of his identity and was permitted to make an examination of the desk of Patrolman William Balswick, who dictated the list, and also took samples of the writing of the two typewriters in Balswick's office.

Unknown to Prosecutor.

Assistant State's Attorney William A. Rittenhouse, who is in charge of the grand jury investigation, was reached at his home and said that he knew nothing of the matter and that if such an investigation had been undertaken by the jurymen it was without his knowledge. The name of the juror who visited the bureau was kept secret.

Assistant Chief of Detectives Lawrence Rafferty, however, said the juryman had shown proper credentials. He was escorted home in a police squad car.

Rafferty said later that his visitor had criticized him for permitting newspaper men to come into his offices in quest of crime news.

Grand Jury Starts Action.

During the day the jurors had questioned witnesses on the disappearance of the secret list. But reports from the jury room indicated that little more progress was made by the jurors than was made by the city council committee or by Acting Police Commissioner Alcock, who has conducted his own investigation. The list was found under a Capone bondsman's pillow in a south side hotel some time ago.

Commissioner Alcock, Capt. John Ryan, former deputy chief of detectives, and Patrolman Balswick were all questioned by the jurymen during the day and each is reported to have repeated their previous versions of the affair. This was to the general effect that the names of forty hoodlums was placed in an unlocked desk and disappeared over night.

Check Marks Found.

Patrolman Balswick has stated that he drafted a new list from memory in which he inadvertently left off the names of several gangsters. When the original list was found under the bondsman's pillow in a raid on a Capone haunt, there were check marks in front of the names omitted in the new police list.

The grand jury has not yet completed its investigation, it was reported, and intends to summon the stenographer, John Lane, Monday. Lane acted on Balswick's and Ryan's orders.

Almost as much attention was paid by the jurors during Alcock's examination, it was said, to the shift of six captains who are kept in idleness in an unused station on North Halsted street.

Capt. John Stege, former chief of detectives, is one of the men stationed there. The commissioner was reported

Her Gambler Husband Shot in Peoria Fray

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 17.—[Special.]—Mrs. Cora C. Garrison, 37 years old, was killed and her husband, Clyde Garrison, owner of a gambling house, was wounded this evening by machine gunners who trapped them in the rear of their home in what is believed to have been an attempt to kidnap Garrison for ransom.

One of the gunmen was shot down by Garrison, but was taken away by his companions. The gunmen were believed by authorities to be Chicago or St. Louis gangsters who were trying to "muscle in" on the Peoria gambling racket.

Surprised in Own Yard.

The murder of Mrs. Garrison and the wounding of her husband occurred about 6:30 this evening. Garrison and his wife met downtown near the Windsor, his gambling house. They drove home and placed their automobile in the garage. As they walked toward the rear entrance of their house two men leaped from the bushes, one holding a sub-machine gun, the other a pistol.

"Don't move; I've got you," warned the machine gunner.

Garrison whipped out his revolver before the man had finished speaking and fired one bullet after another until his revolver chamber was empty.

Machine Gunner Replies.

One man dropped, but the one holding the machine gun let out bursts of bullets that dropped Garrison in his tracks. He continued firing and caught Mrs. Garrison from the side. A bullet through the right ear killed her instantly. Another missile lodged in her hip. Garrison was shot four times above the right knee, but not seriously wounded.

As Mrs. Garrison fell, the machine gunner aided his fallen companion to his feet and walked with him to a car parked in an alley in the rear of the Garrison home, and close to the home of Sheriff Grant F. Minor. There were two men waiting in the machine, which sped away.

Sheriff Minor was the first to reach the scene. He summoned several deputies and Night Captain William Conrad of the Peoria police. Both declared after several hours of investigation that the shooting was the work of St. Louis or Chicago hoodlums.

"We know who the gangsters are that pulled this job and expect to have them under arrest by morning," said Capt. Conrad.

Two Previous Kidnapings.

Officials were satisfied that kidnaping and not robbery was the motive. Garrison, it is known, is the proprietor of the Windsor, one of the three largest gambling resorts in Peoria.

To support the abduction theory, it was pointed out that only last September Frank Dougherty, part owner of the Empire baseball pool and gambling house, was kidnaped by gangsters and held prisoner five days before being released.

He paid no ransom, so far as was learned. Two months before his partner, William O. Urban, was kidnaped, held captive three days, during which time $100,000 ransom was asked. He was freed after paying $40,000.

Easy Picking for Hoodlums.

Gambling in Peoria is said to be wide open under an alleged city-county "protection alliance."

The easy money has attracted "muscle men" from other cities. A number of Chicago racketeers have come to Peoria recently because of Chicago police pressure on gangland since the Lingle murder last June.

HOOVER ACTS TO HELP CHECK UNEMPLOYMENT

Cabinet Committee to Study Relief.

Good Fellows Act

Chicago Good Fellows demonstrated their interest in the campaign to save families yesterday when they began sending in their applications. Checks for $100 began arriving at the Good Fellow bureau in Tribune Tower as payments for the first month of family saving. Groups of persons were being formed to assume the task of saving a family and many business men's lunch groups were organized as Good Fellow clubs to contribute. Those who sent their $100 checks declared that the next check for $100 would follow on the same day next month. Business leaders seized upon charitable enterprises as a means of abolishing hard times and of restoring the normal prosperity of the country. Details on page 2.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 17.—[Special.]—President Hoover today took cognizance of a serious unemployment situation. The President announced the appointment of a committee to formulate plans, for submission to him, for "continuing and strengthening the organization of federal activities for employment during the winter." The action was taken following discussion of conditions in this morning's semi-weekly cabinet meeting.

The committee is composed of Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont, Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of War P. J. Hurley, Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde, Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, and Gov. Eugene Meyer of the federal reserve board.

Three Fields Suggested.

Three fields of federal activity which the President suggested to the committee that it might properly canvass are:

1. Coöperation with the governors and employment organizations of the states and local communities.

2. Development of methods by which national industries and public utilities may relieve the unemployment situation.

3. Direct federal employment of labor in construction of public works.

"It will be remembered that ten months ago we set up such arrangements which have continued since that time and which have contributed greatly to reduce unemployment," said President Hoover. "At that time the governors of many of the states established strong committees for action in relief and most of these organizations have shown a high record of real accomplishment.

Conditions Vary in States.

"The present conditions of organization vary greatly in different states. In the great majority of industrial states the governors have on their own initiative taken steps to organize or develop or further strengthen their organizations for the forthcoming winter.

"During the last few weeks I have been in communication with some of the governors in development of methods by which the federal government can further supplement assistance to their organizations. The cabinet committee will further these conditions with governors and state agencies and we will again seek the coöperation of our business leaders and our national industries which we have had on so generous a scale during the last year.

"We shall also review the federal situation of public works and the situation in construction among the national industries together with other methods by which we can continue to be of assistance.

Illinois Action Praised.

"The initiative of the various governors and local authorities in preparation for the winter is well indicated by the action of the governor of Illinois, who recently organized a state committee; reorganized efforts by the mayor of Detroit; the committees created in New York; the extraordinarily effective organization in the state of Ohio, and at many other points throughout the country—all of them indicating a strong feeling of local responsibility and determination to meet the situation.

"As a nation we must prevent hun-

The Weather Man Agrees It's a Good Time to Buy Overcoats

Sometimes there are four. Sometimes there are three. Cases are known where there are as few as two. But regardless of number, a man's coat must have buttons. When short lapels are the thing, the button-makers are glad because they probably will have a chance to sell four buttons where they sold only three or two before.

Not many four button coats are seen today, however. Style seems to be running to longer lapels, clamped shut twice or three times at the most. Why, nobody knows. It's just the style.

This is true as regards the coat that goes with the pants. In overcoats it's something else again. No matter how much style you pack into an overcoat, to fulfill its primary function—keeping you warm—it must have its full quota of buttons.

Inspection of the current offerings of overcoats in Chicago stores reveals no economy in buttons. The overcoats do reveal a lot of style and a lot of capacity for providing warmth when you want it. Now is a good time to investigate the overcoat situation.

ger and cold to these of our people who are in honest difficulties."

It became known during the day that the President discussed general economic conditions last night with Bernard Baruch of New York, who was a dinner guest, and that in addition to his talk with New York Stock Exchange officials he has held conferences with a number of business leaders recently, including A. P. Sloan of the General Motors corporation.

New York $1,000,000 Fund.

New York, Oct. 17.—[Special.]—The board of estimate after an executive session of nearly five hours today decided to add more than $5,000,000 to the city's tentative budget for 1931.

Of that amount the board voted to devote $1,000,000 in a lump sum "for the relief of unemployment, the method of its allotment to be determined later by the board of estimate."

The board also decided to grant increases of about $1,000,000 each over the tentative budget figures to the following departments: The police department, the department of sanitation, and the bureau of child welfare.

CHURCHES JOIN DRIVE

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Chicago's churches have leaped into action to meet relief needs of the city's poor. Response to calls by the Salvation Army, United, Catholic, and Jewish charities is not impeded by sectarian or racial lines. Presbyterians, Lutherans, Baptists, and others are girding themselves to coöperate with accredited agencies to help banish the dread of a hungry winter for thousands. Dr. Joshua Oden, Chicago Church federation leader and pastor of the Irving Park Lutheran church, declared there is no need for suffering here this winter if the churches can be shown the most effective way to help.

"When I opened my TRIBUNE and saw that the Good Fellows are gathering again," said Dr. Oden, "I felt no doubt that great numbers of church folk as well as church societies would enroll and offer large gifts through their facilities to the great central relief agencies."

Church Group to Meet.

Following the appeal of THE TRIBUNE to the executive committee of the Chicago Church federation, a special meeting of the industrial relations commission of the federation has been called. James Mullenbach, chairman of the federation commission, in a letter received yesterday by commission members, spoke of new "developments in connection with the situation which should be given immediate consideration by the commission." The meeting will be held Monday noon at the Marshall Field tearoom. Mr. Mullenbach called the churches "the organized conscience" of the city.

Closer Bond to Charity.

Closer coöperation between the Presbyterian churches and the United Charities was promised at a meeting of the Chicago presbytery held at Olivet Institute church. Following an appeal by John F. Gilchrist, chairman of the United Charities fund, the social service committee submitted a resolution of coöperation which was quickly and unanimously adopted by the presbytery. Mr. Gilchrist appealed for "man power" from the churches as well as money. The resolution commended the plan suggested by the United Charities leader, which provides that each pastor secure ten workers from his congregation to aid in soliciting funds.

Among those of various faiths who have agreed to present the need of funds for United Charities through the churches are John D. Allen, president of the Episcopal Church club; Clifford W. Barnes, president of the Sunday Evening club, Orchestra hall; the Rev. Dr. Henry Seymour Brown, David R. Forgan, Angus S. Hibbard, the Rev. Dr. Henry Kowert, James L. Houghteling, John R. Montgomery, Joseph R. Noel, Harold H. Rockwell, W. A. Rogers, the Rev. Dr. O. A. Geisemann, Donald S. McWilliams, C. J. Howell, H. A. Wheeler, Howard Goodman Albert Bremicker, Sedgwick S. Vastine, George R. Wilson, and James B. Wootan.

Cancel Banquet; Will Aid Poor.

The Armour Plant Executives' club yesterday canceled plans for its annual banquet and announced that instead $2,000 would be given to help the needy. The United Charities and the Associated Catholic Charities will get $500 each, and $1,000 will be given to the Armour Employes' Christmas Cheer fund, which supplies food and clothing to hundreds of needy families in the stockyards district.

GOOD FELLOWS' CHECKS POUR IN TO HELP NEEDY

Many Calls for Aid Also Are Received.

Good Fellow checks, ranging from $2 to $320, poured through the mails to THE TRIBUNE yesterday. Another stack of letters contained coupons, offers of individuals or groups to care for a needy and deserving family this winter. Telephones were busy receiving offers of aid.

Chicago is giving.

The Chicago Council of Social Agencies and its two hundred affiliated charitable organizations were in the field with their trained investigators, making their final inquiry before submitting to the Good Fellows their selection of the one hundred families most urgently in need of food, clothing and shelter.

Families to Receive Aid.

This first block of one hundred families will come under Good Fellow help next week. Other hundreds of families, now without funds for buying bare necessities, soon will be provided with money to pay the grocer, the cobbler and the coal man.

D. F. Kelly, State street merchant and civic leader, last night gave his opinion on the practical value of the Good Fellow movement to this community.

"The Good Fellows are putting money in circulation," he said, "and that's all that is needed to break these dull times. A destitute family getting a monthly allowance of $75 is not going to hoard anything. They'll spend, and the city generally will benefit.

"There is nothing that will drive away the gloom like giving. It not only cheers those who give and those who receive, but it also peps up business and makes us all happier."

The offers of assistance and the donations in checks were not tabulated last night. The response to the call for Good Fellows exceeded anticipations and the office force as originally organized was unable to cope with the business. Acknowledgments and instructions to the Good Fellows will be issued next week after a new and larger administrative force is organized over the week-end.

Many Appeals for Help.

Appeals for help came as well as the offers of assistance. The Good Fellows can not take care of all of these requests. Their task is a specific one, that of tiding destitute families over the winter. There are 75,000 of these families, according to the most reliable estimates, mostly women, children and aged people.

However, there are so many calls for other aid that THE TRIBUNE next week will establish a service which will direct requests for help to the proper charitable agency.

A telephone in the Good Fellow department, shortly after the lunch hour yesterday, spoke of the spirit of the times. In the forty minutes after 1:30 p. m. there were thirteen calls from office workers who had organized their fellow employés in a Good Fellow club while at lunch, ogering to take care of one or two families during the winter.

Girls to Give Money.

"The girls over here," said one voice, "are going to give a dollar a month each. That's only $23 a month and not enough to care for a family. But is it enough for us to be Good Fellows?"

They are Good Fellows, all right, they were told, and they'll receive reports from THE TRIBUNE on where their money will go.

A Protestant minister called to ask if a church society could form a Good Fellow club. It's going to be done tomorrow.

An advertising agency mailed a check for $100 and announced that the employés had voted to donate one per cent of their salaries for the rest of the winter.

A check for $320 came from an automobile man who said he wanted to know the family that's going to live this winter on his gift, but does not want the family to know him. His request will be granted.

The Girl Scout troop of the West Pullman school mailed a Good Fellow coupon, volunteering to care for a family through the winter, preferably one with children in the school.

Gives Baby Blankets.

A woman called, saying she had some baby bed blankets but that she no longer has a baby. Her offer will be turned over to the proper agency.

Another call was from a widowed mother who is sick and has no money to feed or clothe her children. Her case was turned over to the Chicago council of social agencies. If the council decides that she is among those most urgently in need of help, the Good Fellows will give it.

If you want to help the Good Fellows mail the accompanying coupon, indicating what you and your friends can do through the winter for one of the 75,000 families that are in need.

STARTS A FUND FOR UNEMPLOYED "WHITE COLLAR WORKERS"

Frank G. Logan, retired banker and art patron, proposed a fund yesterday to aid the unemployed of the "white collar brigade," who, he said, have been overlooked in plans for unemployment relief. To start the fund, Mr. Logan pledged a donation of $3,000, to be disbursed at a rate of $500 a month over a period of six months.

"Among the very thoughtful and practical suggestions to aid the needy, I have seen little mention of the white collar brigade, which must number thousands because of the dimishing call for such work in these depressed times," Mr. Logan said.

Gov. Emmerson's committee and other groups are mobilizing to create work for laboring men through public and private building projects, Mr. Logan pointed out, and such philanthropists and William Wrigley Jr., have contributed money to feed and shelter the homeless unemployed. Mr. Logan stipulates that his gift be administered otherwise than through an agency receiving a commission for its work,

ALCOCK IS COOL TO WAR AGAINST CAMPAIGN SIGNS

Enforcement of the city ordinances prohibiting the posting of political literature on trolley poles and electric light standards must wait until felonies such as murder, rape, burglary and robbery have been disposed of, Acting Police Commissioner Alcock said yesterday. Civic organizations have agitated in recent weeks for the removal of the campaign posters that have been hung or pasted on poles in the loop.

"I am too busy with the prevention of serious felonies to pay much attention to the posting of campaign literature which is a comparatively minor offense," said Alcock. "Besides I have not enough policemen to detail any number of them to prevent the signs from going up."

Despite the plea by Commissioner of Public Works Wolfe to candidates not to post any more of their pictures the loop is still littered with them.

IDLE MONEY BLAMED BY VICE PRESIDENT FOR UNEMPLOYMENT

Springfield, Mo., Oct. 17.—(AP)—Unemployment and business depression in the United States were attributed to idle money by Vice President Charles Curtis in an address tonight.

Speaking for the second time since he invaded the west to urge reelection of a Republican house and senate, the Vice President said the effect of world-wide trade depression will be overcome in this country as soon as the nation's money gets to work.

Reviewing past depressions, Vice President Curtis said practically all of them have occurred under Democratic rule. He pointed to statements of Lloyd George, British Liberal leader, to show that the present depression and unemployment exist in all of Europe, except France.

Many Are Slain as They Defend Homes.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

The story of prohibition enforcement as told in the casualty list given out recently by the prohibition bureau in Washington, giving the alleged total of 154 killings, contains narratives of some heroic action on the part of agents and beleaguered citizens, actions in which three or four persons were killed during single encounters.

In one paragraph the death of three members of the Strong clan in Kentucky is related as follows:

"Facts of the Case—On March 28, 1921, Prohibition Agents Guy Tuggle, Roy W. Easley, W. H. Green and Willis B. Saylor, with possemen, arrived at the home of George Strong on Middle Fork, 25 miles north of Harlan, Ky., near Asher, for the purpose of searching same for liquor. One of the possemen was shot through the head and also in the breast. The shots came from the Strong house. The agents returned fire and after the firing ceased on both sides found the Strong, George Strong and Mrs. Strong had been killed.

2D PROSECUTION OF SAME DRY LAW CASE DENOUNCED

Mobile, Ala., Oct. 17.—[Special.]—Double prosecution for one violation of the prohibition laws was denounced by Judge Robert T. Ervin of the federal court today when he was called upon to sentence Fred Schaeffer.

Declaring he did not approve of state officers bringing a case into federal court when they had failed to get a conviction in the state court, the judge declined to accept a plea of guilty after the defendant had been acquitted in the state court.

Judge Ervin, in another case in court recently, expressed disapproval of double prosecution in dry cases, declaring he believed it a violation of the spirit of the constitution, if not the letter.

Alex Birch, district attorney, explained that he viewed it as his duty to file a charge against a person when evidence was presented to him in violation of the law, regardless of whether the case had been handled in another court, but Judge Ervin refused to alter his decision.

BANDITS SEIZE MONEY FROM WOMAN'S DRESS

Four bandits, who were so thorough that not even a nickel was left behind to telephone police, yesterday robbed Patrick O'Toole and his wife of $200 in their restaurant at 113 West 18th street.

Two of the bandits went directly to Mrs. O'Toole and seized $173 from the bosom of her dress, then dashed a glass of water in her face when she screamed and fainted.

Demanding the "rest of the money," the bandits then bound O'Toole and locked his wife in the basement while two of the men searched the apartment on the second floor, but found nothing. They escaped with about $30 more from the cash register.

RUMANIA JAILS 97 IN ROUNDUP OF SOVIET SPY RING

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Wholesale arrests have been made here in what is purported to be a gigantic espionage ring, with Russia the benefiting country. Thus far 62 men and women have been taken in custody here and reports are that 35 others were under arrest in the provinces.

Government authorities retained a reticent attitude, but unofficial reports are that police, in raiding the center of the ring's activities, found a complete telephoto station and many photographs of military value. Documents and other papers seized are reported to have been written with a chemical ink. One group of conspirators escaped by automobile and motorcycle to Sibiu.

The injured students include James Murray, 21, Batavia, N. Y.; Thomas Dunn, 18, Pittsburgh, and William Walsh, 20, Montclair, N. J.

TRIBUNE BRINGS NEEDY JOBLESS TO NEEDED JOBS

Call Sally Joy Brown and Do That Work Now!

To stimulate trade generally and get jobs for competent workers now unemployed through no fault of their own, THE TRIBUNE today throws open its personal service bureau as a clearing house for jobs.

Sally Joy Brown will be in charge. The service is available to all. There will be no charge.

Around every home there lurks some chore, neglected by all the family because they've been too busy or, mayhap, too indolent or unskilled.

About most offices and business plants there lies some task, manual or clerical, which the boss decided to have done last April and, with the April rush of orders, let go until fall and now purposes to forget until next year.

A Man for the Job.

Why not have that neglected job done now? Sally Joy Brown, through the facilities of THE TRIBUNE, will find a man or woman fitted for the task; a person of experience in the line required, one unemployed for some time and hence more eager to please.

The job may need the services of a skilled tradesman. Perhaps you've been planning for a long time to junk those old bookcases with the glass windows and array your library on neat, built-in shelves beside the fireplace.

The volumes would be in closer reach there and the built-in shelves, so popular now, would certainly improve the appearance of the living room, you've told yourself. Call Sally Joy Brown. She'll place you in contact with a cabinet maker who will build those shelves on contract estimate or by a reasonable hourly wage.

Why Not Fix It?

And the matter of repairs. Has that cellar window above the coal bin been fixed? Does the kitchen door hang a bit awry, letting in a cold draft above the threshold? And those closet doors, which the mistress of the house sputters about because they stick every time the weather gets damp.

Call a carpenter through Sally Joy Brown. If you make up a list, there's probably enough odd jobs to keep him busy for an afternoon. With those jobs done, the household will be relieved of much petty annoyance this winter.

Then there are the fixtures. Those extra shelves which would make the pantry so much more convenient. That unsightly lamp cord, which you hung on hooks across the kitchen ceiling to the pantry. Why not take it down, replacing the extension lamp with a neatly enameled light fixture in the pantry?

How About An Extra Room?

Consider the condition of the attic and the cellar. Wouldn't this be a good time to order that wallboard and build that den or children's playroom you've had in mind so long for the sunny corner of the attic? A call to Sally Joy Brown will bring a carpenter builder, who will make estimates, order materials, and complete that extra room within a week.

And that corner stowed with ashes and barreled junk in the basement. A full day's drudging will be necessary to clean the cellar and that's why you've shirked. You can take that worry off your mind. Telephone Sally Joy Brown to send a man. She will find one happy at the chance to earn a few dollars at the job you think so irksome.

Outside also there are jobs to be done probably. If those sagging front steps and that broken slab on the sidewalk are left unrepaired, some not too friendly caller may lose footing there some night and present you with a damage suit.

The shrubbery in the front yard needs attention, too, before the final freezing up. If those roots are properly mulched for the winter, you won't need to buy new ones in the spring. There are no doubt hundreds of men, handy at gardening, who would be grateful for work for a week, three days, or even for an afternoon.

At the shop: Couldn't that yard be made far more sightly by employing a crew of three for a week? They could haul away that junk, rake up the cinders, and sow grass seed, which would improve the appearance of the plant fifty per cent with its greenness next spring.

In the office: Perhaps there's an inventory needed. It's been neglected until now because experts in that line demanded such high wages. Many clerical workers of experience need jobs badly now and that inventory could be done, perhaps, for two-thirds your original estimate.

Charity in Effective Form.

Social workers say the most effective charity relief is providing the needy one a job. Here, then, is a chance and, if the suggestion of "charity" does not appeal, consider that you, as an individual, are stimulating trade and hence helping turn the tide back to prosperity.

There are thousands of undone tasks in Chicago. Chairs to be repaired or reupholstered, screens to be taken down and stored, yards to be raked, furnaces cleaned, rugs renovated, and storm doors hung. These are but a few and, no doubt, by tomorrow morning Sally Joy Brown will have heard of thousands of others.

If you have one that needs attention, a telephone call will bring a willing worker. Call Sally Joy Brown.

N. Y. BUSINESS WARS ON BRIBERY RACKET; COSTS 150 MILLION YR.

New York, Oct. 17.—(AP)—New York business men today began organization to curb a "racket" said to cost them about $150,000,000 a year.

The "racket" in question is the taking of bribes by buyers and other commercial employes for throwing business to certain firms.

As a preliminary measure, the conference on commercial bribery resolved to print from 150,000 to 200,000 copies of the statute which makes the offering or acceptance of such bribes a crime punishable by fine or imprisonment.

A CAPONE BEER HUSTLER TELLS HIS DAILY TOIL

Arrest Reveals Life of Frank Lawler.

The life of a Capone beer runner, his rise in the social scale, his encounters with graft-hungry policemen, his profits and his losses, and the daily routine of his duties, were revealed yesterday, in somewhat sketchy fashion, with the arrest of Frank Lawler.

Lawler, who says he is a cousin of John K. Lawler, sanitary district trustee, was born at Garfield boulevard and Wentworth avenue 32 years ago. Poverty struck his family and he quit school at the third grade to peddle newspapers.

As he grew older he became an automobile mechanic. He didn't last at this technical task, and became a chauffeur at $25 a week and board. To this duty he dedicated himself until two years ago.

He Joins Capone Gang.

Lawler had married Elseta, the daughter of old Jim Cartwright, a house painter, also restrained to the simplicities of life.

The Lawlers had a struggle for existence.

Then Frank fell in with gamblers, and finally earned a berth in the Capone mob. And the picture changed.

Special Assistant State's Attorney Charles F. Rathbun and Pat Roche, chief investigator for State's Attorney Swanson, whose detectives arrested Lawler and took Elseta along, searched the pair, questioned them, and examined the papers found in their possession. And therefrom springs the new scene of the state of the Lawlers.

Cash and a Hotel Suite.

Lawler had $1,000 in currency in his pockets. His wife had $200. Four safe deposit boxes rented by the pair yielded $6,000 in currency, and a note for $3,000 given to Lawler a few days ago.

The couple had moved from the little room they shared to the Sovereign hotel, at Kenmore and Granville avenues. For the winter they had moved into a spacious suite at a leading loop hotel, where they were arrested.

Diamonds shone from the fingers of both, and receipted bills from a reputable jeweler attested to their worth. Mrs. Lawler bought expensive furs and paid cash, and a fashionable modiste modeled her gowns. A Michigan boulevard tailor fitted out Lawler, resplendently. The couple toured about in an expensive sedan.

The Daily Toil Outlined.

Now as to the daily toil. It began, inconveniently, at 3 a. m., when Lawler arose, taxied to his garage, and rolled out the sedan. He journeyed to Dearborn and 22d street, waving to the policemen en route, and at his destination met a large and fast motor truck, covered with tarpaulin. Barreled beer for the thirsty populace was the cargo.

The truck had come from one of the Capone breweries, but Lawler protested yesterday that he had no idea where the breweries were. An ingenious system, by which the minimum of "squawks" is assured, is operated by the gang, it was explained, whereby one man drives the truck from the brewery to a selected point, where it is taken by another driver, and a convoy, and only the first man ever knows the location of the brewery. Still another crew meets the second, and the third crew makes deliveries.

"They don't tell us anything," Lawler said.

Lawler, following his daily task, swings his sedan into line behind the truck.

"If the 'G' [federal agents] comes up," said Lawler, explaining the intricacies of his duties, "I try to warn the truck driver to go back. If coppers stop us, we carry a roll of bills for that."

Of course, said Lawler, no policemen had ever stopped him. But in the spinet desk in his room the investigators found a paper on which an accounting of what appeared to be a day's business had been made. It showed the delivery of 125 barrels of beer at $55, total $6,875, and the subtraction from this of "expenses" of $5,953. An itemized account of the "expenses" follows:

Joe [for beer]	$4,000	Ice	$ 30
Knockover	320	Adolph	400
Joe S. P. C.	220	Squad	50
Frank	55	Squad	50
Church donation	27	Empty plant	30
Collect	175	Squad	50
Johnnie	50	Knockover flivver	60
Al	50	Tires, etc.	263
Kelly	60
Clarence	60	Total	$5,953

The "squad" items were taken by Investigator Roche to mean payments to roving police squads. "Joe S. P. C." might mean a south parks "copper," Roche said. A "knockover" means an approach and a threatened arrest by policemen.

Lawler was a bit vague as to his duties if any of the sterner gentry known as hijackers, set upon the fleet he was convoying. But in a closet of his quarters was found a shiny sawed off shotgun of the latest repeating variety, and a box of shells, loaded not with buck shot, but with slugs.

"O, I never carried that," protested Lawler. "I never would want to shoot anybody. I found that gun and the cartridges in a suitcase behind my car when I was out to the Thornton dog track one night. I just kept it."

Owner of a Roadhouse.

Lawler then confessed to the ownership of the Niles Center Sea Food house in Niles Center, in which Father Cartwright, having forsaken the brush and the paint can, holds forth as manager.

The prisoner denied knowing Al Capone, but he admitted a close acquaintanceship with Jack and Harry Guzik, and with Ralph Capone.

"I oughta know Ralph," lamented Lawler. "I lost enough money on his bum race horse tips."

Sanitary Trustee Lawler said last night that he had never heard of the prisoner before.

"The only cousin I ever had by the name of Frank Lawler," he said, "died twenty years ago. But this man may be a son of his. My cousin was married twice and I did not know whether he had left any children until after this arrest today I telephoned relatives and found that my cousin did have a son named Frank. I never saw him in my life and never heard of him before today."

THREATEN TO BLOW UP HOSPITAL CARING FOR DIAMOND, GANGSTER

New York, Oct. 17.—[Special.]—An anonymous threat to blow up Polyclinic hospital where Jack ["Legs"] Diamond is recuperating from the four bullet wounds suffered Sunday moved the police to extraordinary precautions to protect the notorious gangster this afternoon.

Fifteen policemen and detectives were assigned to duty in and around the hospital wing in which Diamond is stationed. Two of these will be constantly on guard in the patient's room, others just outside his door, others still in the yard below and another squad on lookout posts on roofs commanding a view of the patient's window.

EXTRADITION OF STANTON SIGNED BY EMMERSON

Gov. Emmerson yesterday signed extradition warrants authorizing the state of Wisconsin to take Danny Stanton, public enemy, and Edgar Smith, assistant public enemy, out of this state. They are under charges in Waukesha county, Wisconsin, of the murder of Jack Zuta, another public enemy, and if their removal is not blocked District Attorney Herman Salen of that county said they will face a Wisconsin court early next week.

Attorney Thomas D. Nash, representing the two, who have been in custody here for two weeks, said he will go into court today, however, to fight against their enforced departure. He wants an opportunity, he said, to dispute the evidence against Stanton which, so far as has been made public, consists of the statement of Col. Calvin H. Goddard, ballistic expert, that a gun found in the joint possession of Stanton and Smith was used in the murder of Zuta.

Under the law, before a person may be extradited he must be brought before the chief justice of the Criminal court and appraised of his right to a court decision on the validity of the removal order. Attorney Nash said he would avail himself of that opportunity.

QUARREL OVER GIRL IS BLAMED FOR SLAYING

Police Told of Threats Made by Rival.

"Because of a girl" was the only explanation police had yesterday for the murder of Howard R. Smith, alias Roy Bell, aged 22, whose body was found yesterday morning in an alley back of 1971 Southport avenue. He had been shot five times.

The girl's name is Betty Mastro and she is 14 years old. She ran away from her home at 1225 West Erie street on Sept. 14 and for a few weeks she had lived at the Lake View hotel, 739 Belmont avenue, with Smith. They were known there as Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bell.

Girl Tells Her Story.

Police finding the body went to notify the "widow." They obtained the address through a hotel receipt in the clothing. After a bit of questioning "Mrs. Bell" gave her name as Helen Torino and said she was 17 and that she had lived with William Le Mar at 670 Sheridan road before she went to share Smith's hotel room. Le Mar was furious, she said, and threatened to kill both of them.

In the investigation that followed police arrested John Griffin and Albert Walsh, friends of Smith. They said they were living with two sisters named Love at 509 Deming place and that until recently Smith lived there with a girl named Helen Green. Detectives then went to 3820 Lowe avenue, where they found Mrs. Frances Esposito, a divorcée, and Miss Lucille Trent, who lives at 2926 Shields avenue, and the two women were taken to police headquarters for questioning about their knowledge of Smith and his affairs.

Started on Crime Career.

Smith was starting on a career as a holdup, the detectives learned. He had been arrested last February for the theft of an automobile, but was freed without trial after four months in jail. His attorney, Miss Charlotte Slavitt, said he had inherited $5,700 after his release from jail and he had spent it all.

The police were hunting Le Mar as the killer, but after Miss Mastro told the truth about herself there was some suspicion that perhaps some of her relatives had killed Smith.

GRAPE DEALER IN BROOKLYN VICTIM OF TWO GUNMEN

New York, Oct. 17.—[Special.]—Two gunmen fired four shots tonight into Giovanni Anselmo as he stood in front of his grape stall in the Gravesend district of Brooklyn. His son, Thomas, saw the gunmen fire and witnessed their escape in an automobile. Anselmo was hit three times in the back and one shot shattered his left eye.

At the hospital he told Capt. John J. Ryan of the detective bureau that he did not know who had shot him, but the police believe that there may be some connection between the assault on him and the murder a week ago Monday of Carmine Piraino, son of "The Clutching Hand."

Census Easy in His Town; Total Population One Man

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 17.—(AP)—Maryland's smallest town and possibly the world's is Arundel-on-the-Bay, near here. The complete figures for the recent census disclosed today. It has one official inhabitant, Capt. John Wells, who is the caretaker for the town of 45 dwellings, a summer resort.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Stanley Bonk, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Joseph Grant, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Joseph Coakly, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary; Robert McCoy and Charles Davis, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary by Judge Peter Schwaba.

GRAND JURYMAN GIVES DETECTIVE BUREAU A SHOCK

Makes Own Inquiry on Lost Gang List.

as having told the jury that there are now more captains than stations and that at some future time, when he has more men and posts, the captains may be put back to active duty.

During the day more action was taken in the drive against hoodlums. Late in the afternoon when "Big Earl" Herbert was held to the grand jury without bail for the murder of Thomas Bonner, Judge Lyle ordered him to a cell after Chief of Detectives Norton told of a positive identification of Herbert as the murderer by the widow, Mrs. Bonner. Bonner was killed July 10 in his home at 7353 Yale avenue.

The gangsters appeared in court with two attorneys, John H. Johntry and Louis N. Blumenthal, whose efforts in behalf of their client led to a spirited joust between them and the court.

Since Mrs. Bonner is ill and was not in court as a complaining witness the lawyers sought to declare the hearing illegal on the grounds that Norton's report of the identification constituted only hearsay evidence. Judge Lyle held the evidence was valid and suggested that the defense put Herbert on the witness stand. "Innocent men want to talk," remarked the court. "This man is one of the worst murderers in Chicago."

Prisoner Puts in a Word.

Herbert was hunched before the bench, covering his face with his hands to baffle photographers.

"The identification by Mrs. Bonner was positive," volunteered Chief Norton and at this Herbert leaned toward Assistant State's Attorney Frank Mast and whispered, "Tell him to tell the truth," motioning toward Norton. Mast repeated the remark to the judge.

"Just a cool, calm, deliberate killer," said the court. "If he doesn't deny this charge himself, I'll not waste more time.

Blumenthal and Johntry again objected to the "hearsay" evidence which drew this remark from the court, "I'll pay no attention to counsel for a man charged repeatedly with murder."

"What is the philosophq of hasty reasoning?" asked Blumenthal.

"That is the philosophy of 'held to the grand jury without bail,'" countered Judge Lyle and wrote that disposition on his docket.

"Lincoln defended murderers," retorted Blumenthal.

"But his murderers talked," said the court. Herbert was led to jail.

James "Fur" Sammons, who had his $50,000 bond, which was set by Judge Lyle on vagrancy charges, reduced to $5,000 by the Supreme court at Springfield on Thursday, was still in the county jail last night. The "big shot" hoodlum, whose criminal record extends back 30 years, was unable to furnish the $5,000 bail.

3 Rob Paxton Postoffice; Speed for Chicago in Car

Paxton, Ill., Oct. 18 [Saturday].—[Special.]—Three men, believed to be Chicago gangsters, early today robbed the postoffice here of cash and stamps of an undetermined amount and escaped toward Chicago in a coupe. Sheriff Harry Curtis of Ford county, who set out in pursuit of the robbers, notified the Chicago detective bureau.

SANITARY CASES RESUMED; STATE ACTS FOR TRIAL

Placed on Criminal Court Docket for Monday.

The first move in more than a year to take the so-called sanitary district cases to trial was made yesterday when First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup asked that they be placed on the trial call. The entire batch of sanitary district cases will appear on the docket of Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court for Monday.

Prosecutor Northup denied that the report of the September grand jury pointing out that these cases have never been prosecuted prompted the action of yesterday. He said that it always had been his intention to take the cases to trial this fall, but that he wanted to wait until after election so as to prevent any assertions that politics was behind the prosecution.

Trial Judge Is Sought.

If the usual procedure is followed it will be long after election before any trials are started. The first move on Monday will be to try to get the attorneys to agree on some judge to act in the trials. If this cannot be done the cases will be assigned arbitrarily by the chief justice.

Following the assignment of the cases to a judge the defense is expected to make the usual technical motions to quash the indictments, for a bill of particulars and other similar motions. It usually takes several weeks before such motions are finally disposed of and the way is cleared for the calling of a jury into the box.

Two Sets of Indictments.

Both sets of cases—those brought by the special prosecutors under Frank J. Loesch and the one new indictment obtained by Northup after he took exclusive charge of the investigation—are scheduled to appear on call Monday. It could not be learned yesterday what the prosecution will do with the Loesch indictments, which name many more defendants than those appearing in Northup's indictment.

The defendants in the Northup indictment are: T. J. Crowe, former president of the sanitary district board; James Whalen, John J. Touhy, Frank J. Link, John K. Lawler, and August Miller, present trustees; Edward J. Kelly, chief engineer; John K. Miller, Timothy L. Connolly, and Martin Edelstein, minor officials.

Both indictments charge conspiracy to pad the district pay rolls and juggle contracts.

WOMAN DIES BY POISON.

Miss Jennie Bootan, 47 years old, 1810 Wesley avenue, Berwyn, committed suicide by swallowing poison in her home yesterday afternoon. She had been in ill health two years.

SEEKS TO FORCE FOUR RAILROADS TO PROVIDE JOBS

$14,000,000 Relief Work Asked by Alderman.

A move to provide $14,000,000 for unemployment relief by compelling four railroads to begin work immediately on construction contracts with the city, some of which have been in default for 18 years, was launched yesterday by Ald. Albert J. Horan [29th], chairman of the city council committee on track elevations.

Ald. Horan announced he had requested the presidents of the Pennsylvania, Chicago and Western Indiana, Milwaukee, and Nickel Plate roads to be present in person or by proxy at a meeting of his committee next Wednesday. The railroad executives, the alderman said, will be asked to state their attitude towards the defaulted contracts and, in view of the present unemployment situation, to pledge themselves to fulfill the contracts this winter.

Would Force Roads to Act.

"If their attitude proves as dilatory at the Wednesday meeting as it has to date," Ald. Horan said, "I will call a special meeting of the council and ask that the city's police powers be invoked against the defaulting railroads. The time to start these jobs is now."

The defaulted contracts, Ald. Horan explained, are incorporated in ordinances through which the railroads, in exchange for the privilege of crossing a public thoroughfare, agreed to depress the street and elevate their tracks. Some of these ordinances were passed as far back as 1912.

"It will be easy to prove by accident records of the police department that many of these crossings are a menace to public safety," the alderman said. "This proved, the city council may direct the police commissioner to station an officer at each crossing and bring every train to a full stop as a safety measure. This step I shall recommend unless the railroads come to terms."

Wants Committee Named.

In connection with his drive for railroad construction, Ald. Horan has suggested a committee to cooperate with Gov. Emmerson's unemployment commission, which meets on Monday at the Hotel La Salle. Several railroad presidents, the alderman pointed out, will attend, thus providing the committee an opportunity to ask the railroad men whether they purpose to delay further the track elevation program.

The executive committee of the Association of Commerce yesterday approved the organization of a central committee of 25 to remedy unemployment, assure elimination of waste, confusion, and possible racketeering in charity relief, and to sponsor a census of Chicago's unemployed.

On the committee, the personnel of which will be announced on Monday by Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Association of Commerce, will be six representatives of the association, six from the Chicago Council of Social Agencies, two to be appointed by the mayor, two by the county board, and the remaining nine to be selected by the sixteen original appointees. The committee will limit its activities to Cook county.

Woman Robbed in Home Is Under Doctor's Care

Mrs. Florence Smith, 5555 Everett avenue, who was robbed of $10,000 in jewelry and money by two armed men who forced their way into her apartment on Thursday, was still under medical care last night as a result of her experience. She was gagged and apparently drugged by the robbers. She was found unconscious later by a maid.

GIRL DISAPPEARS

JEAN MARSHALL.

Despite widespread police search, no word had been heard last night of Jean Marshall, 16 year old Senn High school junior. William A. Klapp, a boarder in her father's home at 1339 Foster avenue, left Wednesday, supposedly for his home at Madison, Mo., according to Horace Marshall, the girl's father. Thursday night Jean failed to return from school and a note was found later saying she was going to Missouri.

JIM AND TIM FIND SAMARITAN ROLE WASTED

Two hours of labor which Policemen James Crowley and Timothy Dunn gave to eight colored youths in an effort to start an automobile which the Negroes had stolen was revealed yesterday when Judge Charles F. McKinley sentenced the eight to 30 days in the Bridewell.

The boys had stolen the car from Mrs. Marie Zemar, 9205 Houston avenue, and it had stalled at 92d street and Commercial avenue. Policemen Crowley and Dunn, with coats off, were starting on their third hour of work on the balky motor when Sergt. Martin Keenan and his squad car were attracted to the gathering and began asking questions which led to the arrests.

The prisoners, all between 17 and 19 years old, are: Larney Thornton, 447 East 40th street; Roy Carter, 512 East 44th street; Roy Rounds, 703 East 46th street; John Giles, 2828 Calumet avenue; Walter Goodwin, 3242 Vernon avenue; Floyd Sturlin, 4042 South Dearborn street; Howard Roberts, 4243 Calumet avenue, and U. S. Grant, 3327 South Park way.

ENDS HIS LIFE WITH GAS.

John Roman, 38 years old, ended his life with gas yesterday in his home at 2937 South 48th court, Cicero. He was believed to have been despondent over unemployment.

LOCKPORT WILL OBSERVE 100TH BIRTHDAY TODAY

Lockport will celebrate the 100th anniversary of its founding today with a parade, pageant, football game, and other ceremonies.

The city was founded in October, 1830, by Armstead Runyon, and was known as Runyontown until it became an unimportant point on the old Illinois-Michigan canal six or seven years later. It then assumed the name of Lockport.

The parade today is to start at 1:30 p. m. and will include floats depicting the city's progress. A tribe of Winnebago Indians will participate. Preliminary ceremonies were held last night at the dedication of the $250,000 addition to the city high school, which was built as a memorial to Lackport's world war veterans. Maj. Gen. Milton J. Foreman was the speaker.

SEAPLANE KILLS WOMAN IN BOAT, THEN FLIES ON

Pensacola, Fla., Oct. 17.—(AP)—Close physical inspection of more than fifty seaplanes was made at the naval air station here tonight in an effort to throw some light upon the killing here late today of Mrs. Anne Lee Edgecomb, mother of five children, and serious injury of Alfred G. Simmons, her fishing companion. They were struck by an unidentified plane as they fished from a boat in the bay.

Simmons, at a hospital tonight, said the seaplane landed close by the boat and taxied toward it. A pontoon struck his craft, he said, despite the fact that he was endeavoring to get out of the way.

Mrs. Edgecomb was killed as the plane crashed into the boat. Her head was struck by the plane's propellor.

The plane got up momentum again, Simmons said, and flew away before he could get the number.

MINNEAPOLIS CHICAGO ST. PAUL

SIX MUNICIPAL JUDGES LOSE IN BAR PRIMARIES

Lyle Is Defeated; Runs 16th on List.

Six of the ten sitting Municipal court judges lost in the primaries held among members of the Chicago Bar association. Of the forty-six judicial candidates on the ballot for Nov. 4, eighteen were adjudged not qualified for the bench. The results of the poll, which was held Wednesday, were released yesterday.

Judge John H. Lyle, campaigner against public enemies, ran sixteenth in the field of twenty-four, of which twelve are to be elected, and was second low on the vote on qualifications. The other five are Judges Herbert G. Immenhausen, Albert B. George, Joseph L. McCarthy, George A. Curran, and Max Luster. All but Judge George had been condemned recently in the report of the association's committee on candidates.

Judge Jonas Is High.

Judge Edgar A. Jonas ran high with 2,241 votes and was followed by the remaining three sitting judges, Charles F. McKinley, John J. Lupe, and Harry F. Hamlin in the order named. This is the third time Judge Jonas has led in bar polls. All of the sitting judges are Republicans. Chief Justice Harry Olson won by a margin of 1,370 to 1,075 from John J. Sonsteby, his Democratic rival.

Probate Judge Henry Horner and County Judge Jarecki received high votes against their opponents and on the question of qualification. Of the twelve nominees for vacancies in the Superior and Circuit courts Municipal Judge Howard Hayes received the highest vote. Other winners are James J. Kelly, Le Roy Miller, Rudolph F. Desort, Ross C. Hall, and Joseph Burke. Alfar M. Eberhardt and Harold P. O'Connell won recommendations for the two vacancies in the Municipal court.

A total of 2,566 ballots was cast at the primaries. Of these 30 were thrown out because the lawyers who cast them failed to vote properly. The primary was conducted on a different plan than previous primaries. Because the association's board of managers felt that neither of the parties had nominated a sufficient number of properly qualified candidates, attorneys were asked to vote on the fitness of candidates as well as to indicate their preference between opposing candidates.

12 Republicans "Not Qualified."

Of the eighteen candidates who were voted as not qualified twelve are Republicans and six Democrats. On this vote the lawyers concurred for the most part with the recommendation of the committee on candidates.

In the following list, showing full results of the primary, the names of those who won the Bar association indorsement are in capitals. Asterisks precede the names of sitting judges. Party affiliation is designated by [D.] for Democrats and [R.] for Republicans. The first set of figures gives the vote for office and the last two columns give vote on qualification.

ECZEMA ALMOST UNBEARABLE

Resinol Heals

"Some time ago eczema broke out on my leg. After weeks of special treatment, during which time the itching and burning was so severe I could hardly stand it, I was told nothing more could be done for me. A friend of mine urged me to try Resinol Ointment, which I did. I am happy to say it healed my leg completely and I have never had any breaking out since. My husband also used Resinol for a rash on his hands with the same excellent results. We are never without it in our home." (Signed)—

Crusaders and Women Tell Results of Prohibition Poll

Two organizations yesterday made public the results of separate polls among the candidates for representatives in congress at the election next month. The polls pertained to the repeal of the 18th amendment and to the modification of the dry laws.

One of the polls was conducted by the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform and the other by the Crusaders. They were patterned after THE TRIBUNE'S recent poll, and their results, while not so comprehensive, showed very little change in the attitude of the candidates as expressed in THE TRIBUNE'S poll.

16 Favor Repeal.

Of the 53 principal candidates for congress throughout the state, 16 replied to all three polls in favor of repealing the 18th amendment. Five additional congressional candidates had expressed this sentiment to THE TRIBUNE. The 16 candidates are;

William H. Dieterich [Dem.], Beardstown, and Walter Nesbit [Dem.], Belleville, nominees for representatives at large; Michael C. Walsh [Dem.], second district; Harry P. Beam [Dem.], fourth district; Frank V. Kara [Rep.], fifth; Adolph J. Sabath [Dem.], fifth; James T. Igoe [Dem.], sixth; Leonard W. Schuetz [Dem.], seventh; Peter C. Granata [Rep.], eighth; Fred A. Britten [Rep.], ninth; Elmer P. Schaefer [Dem.], eleventh; Richard J. O'Halloran [Dem.], twelfth; Edwin S. Carr [Dem.], sixteenth; C. S. Schneider [Dem.], seventeenth; Dr. Ed M. Irwin [Rep.], twenty-second, and Charles A. Karch [Dem.], twenty-second.

Calls Silence Significant.

In a statement making public the Crusaders' poll, J. Russell Forgan, commander of the Chicago division, said: "We are not disappointed because some of the candidates did not answer our questionnaire. The very reason of our existence is that for several years many of our politicians have evaded the prohibition issue. We believe this evasion of this most important question is a direct slap at representative government."

Mr. Forgan said the silence of some of the candidates "indicates intimidation from the Anti-Saloon league."

The Crusaders also sent their questionnaire to Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican senatorial nominee, and to James Hamilton Lewis, the Democratic nominee for senator. Mrs. McCormick made no reply. Mr. Lewis expressed himself in favor of repeal.

The results of the Crusaders' poll of candidates for the state legislature have not been tabulated.

The Women's Reform organization made public the following list of state legislative candidates who had "stated in writing" that they favor repeal of the Illinois search and seizure act and would, if elected, work for its repeal:

The women's organization, while not indorsing the candidates, said that it hoped all candidates who were worthy of public confidence and stood for repeal of the dry laws would receive the support of the voters in their districts.

PROTESTS LANE PUPILS' TRIBUTE TO GEN. R. E. LEE

Grant Beebe, principal of the Lane Technical High school, yesterday received a letter from S. F. Stewart, patriotic instructor of the George A. Thomas post of the G. A. R., in which Mr. Stewart deplored the sending of a wreath by Lane students to be placed on the tomb of Robert E. Lee, confederate general. The occasion was the sixtieth anniversary of Lee's death, observed in Lexington, Va., on Oct. 12.

Mr. Beebe said: "The wreath was sent by one of our classes and did not concern the rest of the school. According to one account, the act was said to represent the sentiments of 6,200 boys. That is not true."

In his letter, Mr. Stewart wrote: "Gen. Lee was appointed to the confederate staff one month before he resigned his commission in the Union army. He received his confederate appointment on March 15, 1861, and resigned from the northern forces on April 20, 1861. He is not worthy of such an honor as the Lane students extended to his memory."

COUNTY BOARD CANDIDATE HAS A PRIVATE ZOO

L. W. Ferguson Lover of Great Outdoors.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Bear taming is one of the pastimes of Lawrence W. Ferguson, coal dealer and sportsman, who is one of the Republican candidates for county commissioner. Outside his office windows at 3443 Addison street he has his own menagerie with four raccoons and two bears, Buster and Dynamite.

The bears are survivors of four cubs which he brought down from the Wisconsin woods, and eight or ten years ago, when they were younger and the claws were less rough on the clothing. Mr. Ferguson was wont to take his daily dozen by wrestling the bears, a training that perhaps might come in handy enough on the county board.

Goes in for Fishing.

Many visitors are attracted to the private zoo, but nowadays the chauffeur does the wrestling when the children are to be entertained, while Ferguson goes in for fishing, duck hunting, and pheasant shooting as less strenuous diversions. The walls of his office have trophies of the chase, antlers and heads. There are tarpon and a dolphin over his filing cases, and dogs are running all over the place. All his life he's been a great out of doors man.

Mr. Ferguson, they all call him "Larry" at headquarters, was born 55 years ago in Leroy, Ill. He went to the public schools at Bloomington, where he was a schoolmate of Richard Henry Little of "A Line o' Type or Two," and Sidney Smith of "The Gumps." He came to Chicago, an orphan at 14, and got a job at $5 a week as office boy in the office of the general manager of the Pullman company.

Worked for Senator Davis.

He went into the coal trade, and in 1902 was made western manager of the Davis Colliery company by its owner, Senator Henry Gassaway Davis of West Virginia, who at the age of 82 was nominated by the Democrats at St. Louis in 1904 as candidate for Vice President and running mate for Alton B. Parker. Davis had immense wealth, but he was known for tightness, and Washington dispatches at times called attention to his appearance in the senate with his suspenders hitched to a shingle nail. He died in 1916 at the age of 93, leaving some $60,000,000.

Mr. Ferguson went in the coal business for himself in 1907. He is a director of the Sheridan Trust and Savings bank and the Elston State bank, and is a former president of the North Shore Trust and Savings bank.

This is his first entrance into politics. He was brought into the campaign by a group of business men, and he says he has no factional alignments. He is rated as a man of ample means, and Ferguson is one of the group of candidates which declares it wants a chance to help in building Chicago.

Loves Fishing and Golf.

Hunting, fishing and golf are Ferguson's chief pastimes. He has a summer home at Lake Chetak up in northern Wisconsin where he spends three or four months a year, and he is an enthusiast on the development of the forest preserves. He used to do a lot of yachting and his membership card in the Chicago Yacht club is No. 39, and he is also a member of the Illinois Athletic club. He is a member of the Izaak Walton league and has been active in the league's work for the protection of fish and game and the conservation of the great outdoors.

WOMAN PAYS FOR POKE AT BAILIFF WITH AN APOLOGY

Mrs. Alice Labee, 23 years old and red haired, spent a few hours in jail yesterday because she used her fists outside the courtroom of Chief Justice Harry A. Lewis of the Supreme court.

Mrs. Labee was in court to aid her sister, Mrs. Winifred Fischer, with whom she lives at 508 North Springfield avenue. Mrs. Fischer had obtained an injunction to restrain her husband, Charles, from molesting her.

On leaving the courtroom Mrs. Fischer passed her husband in the corridor. She swung once to his jaw. William Clare, bailiff to Judge Lewis, stepped up to settle the dispute. Mrs. Labee, declaring it was a private fight, swung at Clare and smashed his glasses. The judge sentenced her to six months in jail for contempt. Later the judge dismissed the sentence and placed her on probation when she apologized to the bailiff.

Democrats Prepare Chicago Windup of Lewis' Campaign

BY PARKE BROWN.

In accordance with its plan to hold one big meeting a day for James Hamilton Lewis instead of sending the senatorial nominee chasing around to half a dozen small meetings every night, the Democratic county committee yesterday announced a series of gatherings for the final two weeks of the campaign beginning next Wednesday.

It is intended in this way, announced Ald. Sheldon Govier, chairman of the committee on halls and speakers, to give each section of the city an opportunity to hear the candidate at length.

The Meetings Scheduled.

Th eschedule of meetings so far arranged was as follows:

Oct. 22—Chicago Stadium; for wards 20 to 38, inclusive.
Oct. 23—Bryn Mawr High school; for wards 7, 8, and part of 9.
Oct. 24—Schurz High school; for wards 39, 40, and 41.
Oct. 25—Hotel Sherman; luncheon of Illinois Women's Democratic clubs.
Oct. 27—Woodlawn Masonic temple; for wards 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, and 10.
Oct. 28—Fenger High school; for wards 9 and 19 and the township of Calumet.
Oct. 29—Loyola auditorium; for wards 45 to 50, inclusive.
Oct. 30—Stockyards pavilion; for wards 11 to 18, inclusive.
Oct. 31—North Side Turner hall; for wards 42, 43, and 44.

On the Monday before the election there will be a meeting for residents of Evanston and the north shore towns for which the hall has not yet been selected. The two open Saturday evenings probably will be used for other suburban meetings. One meeting for colored voters probably will be added.

Indorses Miss Sears' Candidacy.

James Mullenbach, a member of the school board and formerly superintendent of the Municipal Lodging house and the Oak Forest infirmary, yesterday issued an indorsement of Miss Amelia Sears, Democratic nominee for the county board.

James A. Kearns, candidate for reelection as clerk of the Municipal court, received an indorsement of the work of his social service department by Chief Justice Harry Olson and more than a score of Republican associate judges who have sat in the Court of Domestic Relations, the Boys' court, and the Morals court.

This move was an answer to the recent charge of a number of social workers supporting Joseph L. Gill, the Democratic nominee, that Kearns' employés in social service work were selected for political reasons only.

DRAINAGE BOARD PUTS BOND NEEDS AT $120,000,000

$20,000,000 Required in the Next Year.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

It is the judgment of the present drainage trustees, after several months of forecasting income and expenses and estimating costs of contemplated projects, that $120,000,000 in bonds will be needed to comply with the federal government's orders on disposal of Chicago's sewage.

The total cost of the required projects is more than $182,000,000, according to present estimates. After considerable study with the engineers and lawyers, the trustees state they have been unable to devise any way of paying $120,000,000 of this cost except by bonds.

$42,560,000 Now on Ballot.

None of these bonds is submitted for approval of the voters on Nov. 4. The bond issues of $42,560,000 to be passed upon at that time are sponsored by the city, county, state and Lincoln park commission. No representative organization has questioned the desirability of the projects for which it is proposed to issue these $42,560,000 in bonds, although some organizations have recommended that action on some of the bonds be deferred under present conditions.

The drainage trustees decided to defer until next spring the submission of bonds for popular approval. Several reasons prompted this decision, but the board pleaded that it desires the views of the five new trustees to be elected next month. They take office early in December, and will be forced to act shortly thereafter or run the risk of getting into trouble with the federal government.

Staggering Sums Required.

The United States Supreme court has limited the amount of water the drainage board can take from Lake Michigan to dilute the sewage which flows into the drainage canal. To comply the city must treat its sewage, and it requires staggering sums to construct the treatment plants and build the sewers which will transport the sewage to the plants.

To meet the requirements laid down by the United States Supreme court and the war department the district's engineers estimate that the district will require $20,000,000 a year for six years, starting Jan. 1, 1931. On Jan. 1 it is anticipated that the district will have less than $7,000,000 in cash available for these purposes.

President Elmore and the other trustees deem it imperative that a bond issue be submitted to the public for approval next year. Whether the amount will be $20,000,000 or $40,000,000 remains to be determined by the new board.

Governor Answers Critics of Tax Amendment Proposal

Gov. Emmerson made direct reply yesterday to criticisms of the proposed tax amendment to the constitution, upon which the electorate will pass judgment Nov. 4.

The governor questioned the accuracy of the information which opponents have given the public on certain phases of the question. He also presented certain facts in direct conflict with data given by opponents of the amendment.

One of the principal charges against the amendment is that it means that the legislature will pass an income tax, and that an income tax would be just an added burden instead of a relief from present taxation.

Would Remove Restrictions.

"The amendment," said the governor, "means that the present restrictions in the constitution on taxation would be removed to such an extent that the legislature could adopt a modern taxing system. The amendment does not impose an income or any other kind of a tax, but because opponents predicate much of their opposition upon arguments against the income tax, I will discuss it briefly."

The governor insisted that the starting point was the present distribution of taxes on property. He said that for the last complete tax year, 1927, real estate represented 73 per cent of the total property assessment of the state; tangible personal property, 13.8 per cent; railroads, 8.6 per cent, and intangibles only 4.8 per cent.

"Too large a part of the burden is placed upon real estate and too small a part on intangibles," said the governor.

Tells About Kentucky Tax.

"Kentucky in 1917 adopted a low rate on intangibles. When Kentucky took that action there was only $68,000,000 worth of stocks, bonds and other intangibles on the tax books of the state. Under the sane provisions of this tax, a total of $1,110,000,000 in intangible property is now being assessed.

"But the most interesting feature of this tax revision is the reduction in the average tax rate. Before the new law went into effect the average rate was $2.24. Now that the hidden wealth has been brought to the light and assessed, thus distributing the burden, the average rate has been decreased to $1.55—on of th lowst in the country.

"Under the proposed tax amendment to be voted on Nov. 4, a like system could be inaugurated in Illinois. Cutting the rate to such an extent means a reduction in taxes. The amendment does not impose an income tax or any other specific method of taxation."

"But suppose the legislature did adopt an income tax system?" the governor was asked.

Discusses Wisconsin System.

"We will take that supposition," he replied. "Opponents most frequently cite Wisconsin as an example of the income tax, and then charge that an income tax is only another added tax. Wisconsin adopted its income tax in 1911. The records of the Wisconsin tax commission show that real estate in 1910 bore 69.5 per cent of the total cost of state and local governments. In 1929, under the income tax, the burden on real estate had dropped to 57 per cent of the total taxes—a reduction of 12.5 per cent.

"Another state frequently cited by opponents is New York. That state adopted a personal income tax in 1920 and a franchise tax of 4.5 per cent, based on net earnings of corporations in 1918. In New York there has been a reduction of 10 per cent in the proportionate amount of all taxes paid by real estate."

"What about the charge that an income tax drives industries from the state," was the next query.

Replies on Industrial Tax.

"In Wisconsin and New York," replied the governor, "industry pays a higher income tax than in any other states of the Union. A fair measure of industrial growth is the total amount of wages paid. In the five years between 1924 and 1929, this estimated total in Wisconsin increased 42.5 per cent. In New York in the same period the increase in the total was 42.3 per cent. But in Illinois the total increase in wages and salaries was only 38.1 per cent."

"Another measure of industrial prosperity is supplied by the federal income taxes. During the same five years, from 1924 to 1929, the income tax collections in New York increased 47 per cent, in Wisconsin 37 per cent and in Illinois but 35 per cent.

Cites U. S. Figures.

"Apply another measure supplied by the bureau of internal revenue. For the period between 1922 and 1927, the net income of all corporations with main offices in Wisconsin is shown to have increased 73.2 per cent. During the same period the next income of New York corporations increased 62.7 per cent; while in Illinois the increase was only 30.9 per cent.

"In other words, in Wisconsin and New York, which tax incomes, the net growth of industry was more than twice what it was in Illinois during the same five-year period."

JUDGE J. B. DAVID NAMED TO STATE APPELLATE BENCH

Will Fill Vacancy Caused by Holdom Death.

Superior Judge Joseph B. David was promoted to the Appellate court bench for the First Chicago district yesterday by the State Supreme court. The high court announced that Judge David would fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Jesse Holdom.

In his new position Judge David will act as a reviewing judge of all misdemeanor cases up for appeal from the Municipal and Criminal courts, as well as of civil litigation.

David Declines to Comment.

Judge David declined to comment on his new assignment. He is expected to take up his duties within the next week. He started this court term as one of the Criminal court judges, and last month led his associates in the number of cases disposed of.

The judge has several times been the storm center in criminal cases. He was upheld by the Chicago Bar association for his actions in practically forcing the prosecution to drop murder charges against Lieut. Philip Carroll and other detective bureau members.

Granady Murder Recalled.

Lieut. Carroll and his associates were indicted for the murder of Octavius Granady, colored opponent of Morris Eller for ward committeeman of the 20th ward at the primary of April, 1928.

Judge David is a Democrat and has served 14 years on the Superior court bench. He was born in Louisville and came to Chicago in 1881. He was admitted to the bar in 1885 after studying law in the office of former Judge Philip Stein. He is 66 years old.

Case of Alleged "Brains" of Fleagle Gang Up Today

Removal proceedings will be heard in federal court today to send Dr. George O. De Moss, alleged "brains" of the notorious Fleagle gang, whose leader, Jake Fleagle, was killed in Branson, Mo., Wednesday, to Tracey, Cal., where he is wanted on a charge of robbing a postoffice. The loot taken was $28,000. Dr. De Moss was arrested in Streator, Ill., several days ago, and held in bonds of $50,000 by Commissioner Thomas E. White at Ottawa.

SOCIALISTS BACK CABINET'S PLAN TO SAVE GERMANY

Believe Bruening Safe in Vote Today.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 17.—The German political parties today outlined in the reichstag their attitudes toward the program to save Germany which Chancellor Bruening submitted yesterday. The Socialists, although they are opposed to the Bruening cabinet, declared they would accept the chancellor's plan provided that he help the 130,000 metal workers, who are on strike against a cut in wages. Political circles believe the Socialists will vote for Chancellor Bruening in the final vote tomorrow on a bill authorizing a foreign loan of $125,000,000, and thus save the cabinet.

Interest today was centered in the maiden speeches of the Fascisti, the second largest strongest party in the reichstag. The public is anxious to know which way the Fascists are moving—whether they are obeying the orders of their chief, Adolf Hitler, and will work as law-abiding citizens, or whether they will line up with the communist policy for confiscation of property.

Fascists Join Strike.

Gregor Strasser, Fascist, made a blood curdling speech, but it failed to clear the situation. It was larded with demagogical bits for all political creeds.

Many of the big employers who supported and financed the Fascisti, hoping they would weaken the ranks of the communists, were declared to be sorely disappointed this morning when the Fascists ordered their men to join the metal workers' strike and branded strike breaking as treason to the workers' cause.

Labor leaders pointed to the example of Henry Ford, who today granted wage advances ranging from 2½ to 7½ cents per hour to the employés in his Berlin assembly works. German automobile manufacturers declare Mr. Ford is well able to afford this generosity, since only employés of the assembly works are involved and thus the influence on production costs are negligible.

Sporadic Rioting During Day.

There was sporadic rioting in the Wedding district, the danger center of north Berlin, throughout the day. Koeslingstrasse, the scene of last night's fighting, was isolated today by strong cordons of police after communists attempted to hold up traffic there. The police cleared the street with baton charges, and temporarily restored order, but later the disturbances were renewed. A score of arrests were made.

The communists are now organizing a campaign for a general strike. This morning the Reds tried to start trouble among Berlin's milk wagon drivers. A communist deputy, Greta Mildenberg, was caught in the act of helping turn over a milk wagon. She was arrested.

PLAN TO SEIZE EUROPE

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 17.—The revelation of an alleged bolshevik plot to enlist the support of Fascist Italy and the German Hitlerites for an attack on France, after which these three allies would virtually divide Europe between themselves, was contained in a letter by Arnold Rechberg, German industrialist, published today in the radical paper, L'Ere Nouvelle.

Declaring that many Hitlerites have been taken in by Russian arguments, which attempt to show that the French army has been critically undermined by Red propaganda, Herr Rechberg describes in detail the bait which he says the soviets dangled in front of the German Fascists.

How Plan Would Work.

Russia and Germany, according to the alleged bolshevik plan, would simultaneously attack Poland, occupying the whole country and stamping out the Polish nation. France, naturally, would come to the aid of her ally, but the combined German and Russian forces would not divert their attention from Poland until its conquest was completed, allowing the French to cross the German borders. If necessary, the French army would be permitted to occupy, without resistance, most of western Germany. Then the reichswehr and Red army, having crushed Poland, would hurl their forces against France, while Italy would cut off the retreating army with a sudden flank attack.

Herr Rechberg declares that this scheme is taken seriously by many Hitler followers, who do not realize that Russia's only aim is to get the capitalistic powers fighting among themselves. He regards such an alliance between the Reds and the Fascists as a danger to peace.

Letter Creates Sensation.

Publication of the letter has created a sensation here. A military alliance between Germany and Russia is one of the favorite bugbears among nationalist propagandists here, and Herr Rechberg's name carries considerable authority.

Herr Rechberg always has favored a rapprochement with France. Once it was charged that Raymond Poincaire was dickering through him with the German government in regard to a military alliance between the two countries in exchange for a revision of the Versailles treaty. The French finance minister, Raynaud, had several secret conversations with Herr Rechberg which created a sensation a couple of years ago.

Oh, Boy! Rheumatism Went Like Magic

Is Able to Walk and Goes Back to Work

A German Specialist's office, always crowded with Rheumatics seeking relief, made it necessary to put up his Nurito prescription for the benefit of the public. It is now on sale in local drug stores on a positive guarantee. Those who have tried everything without benefit will find Nurito the most startling discovery of recent times. For the pains of Rheumatism, neuritis, neuralgia, sciatica or lumbago, the relief is quick and sure. Strange as it may seem, this quick-acting remedy contains no opiates or narcotics. It is absolutely safe. Harmless even for children. You can prove this with one package. There is no use in wasting effort with anything that doesn't stop your pain. And if it does that you know you are going to get well. Get a package today. If the very first two or three doses do not drive away the most intense pain, your money will be instantly refunded.

SEIZE CARLOAD OF LIQUOR IN RAILWAY YARDS

Special prohibition agents under Alexander Jamie late yesterday seized a freight car load of assorted liquors valued at $25,000 in the yards of the Baltimore and Ohio railway at 63d street. The booze, billed as "bottles" from Jacksonville, Fla., was consigned to a reputable Chicago firm whose name the agents withheld.

Jamie said the firm was notified of the arrival of the car and that officials of the company said they knew of no car consigned to them. The agents believed the liquor was intended for the Capone syndicate.

Five north side saloons were raided by dry agents yesterday and six men and one woman were arrested. The raiders seized Theodore Bonk at 2332 North Damen avenue; Steven Mizerex and his wife, Mary, at 1946 North Leavitt street; Walter Boklacki at 2110 North Damen avenue; Jake Wallenhorn and Frank Von Tatnen at 3345 North Western avenue, and Mike Poklacki at 2121 North Hoyne avenue.

STEALS TRUCK; ABANDONS IT.

A thief who is believed to have been looking for liquor yesterday stole an American Express company truck at Edgewater and North Ashland avenues, then abandoned it nearby at 1628 Olive avenue after taking two packages valued at $165.

LONDON BURGLAR GETS 10 YRS. FOR CARRYING A GUN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 17.—John Cox, 28 year old shoemaker, was sentenced to ten years in prison by Justic Wright today for firing at two police officers attempting to arrest him after a burglary. Cox emptied his pistol at the policemen but the shots went wild.

"Police officers engaged in their duties require the protection of the law against attempts to intimidate or incapacitate them by the use of firearms," the court declared. "It would be an unfortunate thing for the country if the use of firearms became common. I hope the sentence will have some effect in deterring others from carrying loaded revolvers."

London bobbies are unarmed and the two officers, Sergt. Frederick Muggridge and Constable John Bertram, continued to chase Cox, although he was firing point blank at them. They finally overpowered and disarmed him.

Report Giant German Plane to Start Ocean Hop Nov. 3

AID FROM LONDON HALTS SKID OF SPANISH MONEY

Political Parties Prepare for Hot Election.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Spain, Oct. 17.—Following the government's long delayed call for national elections for the chamber of deputies on Dec. 21, financial aid from London today succeeded in halting the protracted depreciation of the peseta. In a late rally the peseta gained a full point, closing around 10.20 to the dollar.

The decision to speed up the elections marks the king's determination to yield to public opinion, which is demanding to know how long Gen. Berenguer's interim government is going to continue the seven year dictatorship in open violation of the constitution.

Senate Election Delayed.

Nomination lists must be published twenty days before elections, so the names of the candidates must be agreed upon and announced by the end of November.

The election of a senate is not expected before February or March because of curious complications, including the monarch's right of naming a certain number personally, the Roman Catholic church's prerogative in selecting representatives and the intelligentsia's safeguards for posts in the upper house.

17 Republican Parties.

Spokesmen from several factions making up the Republican group of parties, which number 17, have announced their intention of refraining from taking part in the elections. The leaders assert that the balloting will be "framed up," and that they will not stand a chance. The Socialists, Liberals, and Conservatives, making up about 15 parties, are preparing vigorous campaigns.

The sudden strengthening of the peseta today is considered to have been brought about by confirmation of reports that the government has secretly arranged short term credits in London to support the currency.

U. S. BUSINESSMAN 'TALKS' HIMSELF OUT OF A DUEL

Affair with Latin Is Settled.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, Oct. 17.—Recourse to soothing words instead of swords, pistols or other weapons of controversy has enabled Alfred Huston, resident representative of the Guggenheim interests of New York, to refuse honorably the challenge of Don Francisco Huneeus to a duel.

The quarrel started over an article which the latter wrote criticizing the new $375,000,000 nitrate combine in Chile. Señor Huneeus, a well known Chilean writer and brother of the Chilean ambassador to London, accused the Guggenheim interests of sponsoring the big combination—called the Cosach—to save itself at the expense of Chilean national economy.

Huston Takes Offense.

"The Cosach," he wrote, "becomes responsible for Guggenheim debts amounting to more than $100,000,000, and starts life with this handicap. With the Guggenheims in control of our premier national industry the danger of foreign intervention arises in the case of labor troubles in the mining zone. Therefore, the government should retrace its steps before the final measure is taken."

Mr. Huston, supported by the government newspaper, La Nacion, which pointed out errors in Señor Huneeus' attack, took exception to the article and a "personal incident" ensued.

Affair Settled "Honorably."

With a true Latin sense of injured sensibilities, Señor Huneeus immediately sent two representatives to Mr. Huston to make arrangements for carrying the dispute to the field of honor.

But after a conference the seconds returned to Señor Huneeus, and it is understood that the differences will be settled "honorably" without the principals having to resort to violence.

H. HOCHSTEIN, ELLER AID, GETS JOB IN CITY HALL

Another Ally of Barrett Is Also Replaced.

The shifting of city hall jobs with the approval of Mayor Thompson, according to reports, continued yesterday in a way not noticed since 1927 when the mayor took office for his third term. The changes presented a contrast to the comparative retirement of the mayor during the last two years and aroused more comment regarding his reported intention to run again for office.

In yesterday's appointments Harry Hochstein, a lieutenant of City Collector Eller, was named chief deputy inspector of weights and measures by City Sealer Daniel Serritella. He was sworn in immediately as successor to William F. Cluett, 60 year old veteran of the bureau, who died on Thursday.

Indicted for Vote Frauds.

Hochstein was indicted in 1926 for Twentieth ward vote frauds by a special grand jury and was arrested during the judicial election of 1928 when he was found carrying two revolvers. He was city morals inspector during Mayor Thompson's second term and under Gov. Small was assistant chief fish culturist for the state and later secretary for the Illinois industrial commission.

The chief deputy's post is a civil service position and pays $3,600 a year. Serritella said the appointment of Hochstein is for sixty days and that probably a civil service examination would be held for the job within two or three months.

"Ordinarily we wouldn't be in any rush to fill a position so soon after the incumbent's death," said Serritella. "But with conditions as they are today I think any job should be filled immediately after it becomes vacant."

Kucharski Replaces Zientek.

The other appointment of the day was in line with the mayor's fight on followers of County Reviewer Charles V. Barrett, which started on Tuesday with the ouster of John A. Pelka as commissioner of compensation. As his first official act the new commissioner, Charles Vavrik, appointed Felix F. Kucharski, Republican committeeman of the Thirteenth ward, as superintendent of compensation to replace Joseph Zientek, a Barrett lieutenant.

Mr. Cluett, who had been in the city sealer's office for 38 years, died at the Norwegian-American hospital following an illness of two months. Funeral services will be held Monday with burial at Rosehill cemetery.

RUBBISH CAN WINS $500

JAMES HERMAN.

James Herman, 6824 Jeffery avenue, a third year student in the Art institute, yesterday received news that he is the winner of the $500 cash prize offered by the New York Academy of Medicine for the design of a rubbish can which would at the same time be useful and attractive. The contest was inspired by a desire to replace the unattractive containers now in use.

Herman's device is a small metal basket, without a top, which may be attached to a lamp post. The basket is equipped with rain drain holes, painted two shades of green, with corrugated ribs down the sides. It is cylindrical in shape. Mr. Herman said this is only the start of a career in fashioning modernistic furniture and lighting fixtures.

26% HUCKINS GIVEN 7 YEAR PRISON TERM

Judge Sets Appeal Bond at $15,000.

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Oct. 17.—(AP) Elmer S. Huckins of Hancock, Wis., today was sentenced to a maximum of seven years in the state penitentiary at Fort Madison on his conviction on a charge of obtaining money by false pretense from Elwood Royster of Cedar Rapids.

Previously Judge John T. Moffit overruled a motion by Huckins' attorneys for a new trial, and after pronouncing sentence the attorneys announced they would file an appeal.

Fixes Appeal Bond at $15,000.

Judge Moffit set the appeal bond at $15,000, which Huckins furnished. Before his trial recently Huckins was free on bond of $10,000.

Huckins' son, George E. Huckins, now has an appeal before the State Supreme court on his conviction last March on a similar charge preferred by Emil Levsen of Springville, Ia., former major league baseball pitcher. The Supreme court is expected to rule soon.

Business Deals Still Puzzle.

The conviction of both the father and son grew out of the operation of a mysterious business venture which investors testified at the trials paid dividends of 26 and 52 per cent.

At neither trial was the exact nature of the business revealed. The state introduced testimony that the Huckinses had told investors they held the exclusive rights for the sale in wholesale lots of so-called defective cigars and that the immensity of th ir business required that they obtain additional capital at once. The profits, the investors quoted them as saying, were quick and large, and made it possible to pay the high dividends.

FEDERAL GRAND JURY AT FREEPORT INDICTS 92 ON RUM CHARGES

Freeport, Ill., Oct. 17.—[Special.]—What government officials planned as the largest roundup of makers and dispensers of contraband liquor in the history of northern Illinois was under way tonight when a force of deputy marshals invaded Winnebago county and vicinity to serve bench warrants on the ninety-two persons named in a blanket indictment returned by a federal grand pury this afternoon.

Despite the secrecy with which the list of names was guarded, it was understood many accused liquor vendors fled to escape possible service.

The jury that reported to Judge Charles E. Woodward this afternoon has been in session several times since April and on a previous occasion returned a blanket indictment against twenty-five alleged bootleggers of Rockford, most of whom have since been arrested and released on bail. Several so-called big shots, however, are understood to have made a getaway before officers arrived with warrants.

That Rockford was the source of of the liquor supply for virtually all of northwest Illinois is the belief of prohibition officials who for months have been investigating illicit traffic there.

STAMPS OF THE NATIONS

A NEW PRIZE OFFER!

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE will pay

$10,000

IN CASH PRIZES FOR BEST ANSWERS!

Just Put These Stamps Together and Name the Nations They Represent. This Offer Is Open to Men, Women, Boys and Girls Everywhere!

HAVE you started this interesting new $10,000.00 Prize Game—"Stamps of the Nations?" It's fascinating—instructive—educational! It will familiarize you with many foreign countries, their geographical location, their people, etc.

Just cut the stamps apart, put them together properly and name them.

You can start with Sets Nos. 1 and 2 printed here. They will count. Then get Set No. 3 IN FULL COLOR IN TOMORROW'S Chicago Sunday Tribune.

The Chicago Tribune will pay 673 Big Cash Prizes for best answers.

Just Follow These Simple Rules:

1. Every Sunday for 14 Sundays, the Chicago Tribune will print a set of 3 composite "Stamps of the Nations." Each set of stamps, when cut apart and assembled properly, will make complete stamps. The public is invited to put the stamps together and name the countries they represent. The Chicago Tribune will pay $10,000.00 in Cash Prizes for the best answers! See Prize List.

2. The composite stamps must be cut apart, assembled and pasted or pinned together. Below each stamp must be written the name of the country it represents. A total of 42 stamps will be printed—3 each Sunday for 14 Sundays. IMPORTANT! Hold all stamps until you have the complete set of 42. Then send them to "Stamps," Chicago Tribune, Postoffice Box 1539, Chicago, Illinois.

3. This contest is open to everyone—men, women, boys and girls—except employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families. It does not matter where you live.

4. You pay nothing. Just prove your skill.

5. All stamps must be in by midnight 21 days after Set No. 14 is published. Each entry should be sent by First Class Mail, Postage Prepaid. Entries with insufficient postage will be returned by the Postoffice Department. A letter must be sent with your entry giving your name and address and telling the name of your favorite Stamp and why you like it best. Letters must not exceed 50 words.

Contestants may send as many sets as they wish, but no contestant will be entitled to more than one prize. No entries will be returned.

6. The judging will be based upon the accuracy of putting the stamps together, correctly naming the countries they represent, neatness and merit of the accompanying letter. Elaborate entries will receive no greater consideration than the most simple entries. The prime requirement will be accuracy. Therefore any school boy or girl has the same chance to obtain a prize as any man or woman.

7. School Teachers Note: To interest School Teachers in encouraging their pupils to enter this instructive and educational game, the Chicago Tribune will award 5 prizes of $100.00 each to the teachers of public, parochial or private schools of grammar or high school grades, whose pupils rank highest among the winners. Teachers! This new game will familiarize your pupils with many foreign countries. Help them win!

8. You need not purchase the Chicago Tribune to compete. You may copy or trace the stamps from the Tribune and assemble the stamps from the copies you have made. The Tribune may be examined at any of its Offices or at Public Libraries free of charge.

9. The judges will be a committee appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Entrants agree to accept their decision as final. In case of ties a duplicate award will be given each tying contestant.

Don't miss this opportunity to win a big Cash Prize. Cut apart the two sets of stamps printed here. Put them together and name the nations they represent. Read the clues below the stamps. They will help you.

Get Set No. 3 IN FULL COLOR with tomorrow's Chicago Sunday Tribune. Save all the stamps until you have the complete 14 sets. Then send them in.

OHIO CANDIDATES, NOT PLATFORMS, ARE WET OR DRY

Prohibiton Lively Issue Just the Same.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Columbus, O., Oct. 17.—[Special.]—Although the Ohio Democrats nominated a wet candidate, Robert J. Bulkley, for United States senator they did not adopt a wet platform. They were willing to—nay, eager—but they were confronted with a slight embarrassment. They had nominated for governor, George White, a dry, so they were compelled to devise an amphibian plank on prohibition.

This they contrived to do by declaring for law enforcement but inveighing against violation of the personal rights of citizens and of the "sanctity of the home," which in this Volstead era has come to mean freedom from the invasions of liquor snoopers.

The Republicans, who had nominated Senator Roscoe Conkling McCulloch a bone dry, contented themselves with indorsing the law enforcement plank of the Republican national platform adopted at Kansas City.

Candidates Less Ambiguous.

The issue was joined, however, by the utterances of the candidates.

"My record on this question in and out of congress is well known," said Senator McCulloch. "As a congressman representing the sixteenth congressional district of Ohio, I voted for the resolution submitting the eighteenth amendment to the states and for laws providing for enforcement. I stand unequivocally where I have always stood. I am for prohibition. We must take no backward step on this important moral issue."

Mr. Buckley immediately declared for repeal of the eighteenth. He is discussing the issue in every campaign address, speaking from the same platform as Mr. White, who does not touch upon the matter in his talks. Senator McCulloch, in his speeches discusses everything but prohibition.

"National prohibition," says Mr. Bulkley, "is an issue which cannot be ignored. Believed by many to be responsible for a shocking increase in crime, it presents an immediate critical problem pressing for solution. It must be met with a new, sober, tolerant, constructive attitude. There must be willingness on all sides to forget past acrimonious differences in an effort to agree on forward steps leading to a more adequate solution of the age old problem of liquor control.

Declares for State Control.

"I believe our federal constitution must be amended so as to restore to the states full power to determine their respective policies concerning the control of alcoholic beverages, the federal government retaining the power and the duty to prevent interstate and international shipments in violation of the laws of any state.

"These are my reasons:

"1. Our constitution, established to preserve liberty and popular government, reserves to the states the right to control matters touching intimately the habits and customs of the people. This fundamental principle is contradicted by any constitutional provision which involves the federal government in the difficult and controversial question as to how far any government may rightfully go in regulating the habits of the individual. This contradiction is the more dangerous if it creates the necessity for a federal police to enforce such regulation.

"2. The vastness of the area of the United States and the diversity of races and of social and moral opinions among a population of one hundred and twenty-five million people make it impracticable to apply the single rule of prohibition throughout the nation. No similar attempt has ever succeeded in all the history of the world.

"3. Ten years' experience has made federal prohibition enforcement a national scandal, responsible for unprecedented corruption and crime, and for the diversion of vast wealth from legitimate channels to criminal classes as a reward for defiance of law."

Mr. Bulkley goes on to say that the surrender by the states to the federal government of their sovereignty with respect to liquor control "was an error which is proving to be a costly one." This error not only has led to the creation of a federal police force encroaching upon the proper function of state governments, but has a marked tendepcy to reduce the power and prestige of state government. This is a dangerous course to take, asserts Mr. Bulkley, who cites in this connection the bar association speech of Chief Justice Hughes warning against the disintegration of the whole theory of the government established by our constitution.

Federal Enforcement Fails.

Mr. Bulkley also calls attention to the statement of the department of justice on taking over prohibition administration in which it was admitted that in states that have repealed their enforcement acts there are "grave deficiencies in enforcement" which the federal government cannot remedy without effective state coöperation.

"The confession that the federal government alone cannot enforce the law is just another way of saying that a law not supported by public opinion cannot be enforced among American people," Mr. Bulkley continues. "Prohibition is perhaps successful in certain parts of our country where public opinion approves it, but there are vast communities in which it has not been enforced and cannot be enforced.

"This confession made by the department of justice last June was again emphasized by an official radio broadcast Aug. 28 when Assistant Attorney General Youngquist declared that effective enforcement of prohibition by federal agencies alone was an utter impossibility. His address was an appeal for greater coöperation by state and municipal authorities.

$40,000 LIEN FILED ON DAUGHERTY HOME FOR BROTHER'S BOND

Columbus, O., Oct. 17.—(AP)—A lien for $40,000 was placed on the home of Harry M. Daugherty, former attorney general of the United States, by the Franklin county recorder on orders from the clerk of Fayette county.

The lien resulted from the signing several days ago by Daugherty of a bond for that amount to obtain release of Mal S. Daugherty of Washington Courthouse, his brother, who is under indictment on 57 counts of misbandling of funds of the defunct state bank of which he was the head.

The lien was filed in accordance with the new Ohio criminal code, which requires the filing when a person makes bond for another.

PER CAPITA DEBT FOR ILLINOIS IS $20.22, U. S. SAYS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 17.—[Special.]—Per capita indebtedness of the state of Illinois is somewhat above the average of the 48 states, but considerably below that of many of the states. This is shown today in financial statistics of the states for the year 1928 issued by the census bureau.

The per capita debt of Illinois is $20.22, which was an increase from $19.33 in 1927 and 34 cents in 1917. The average of the 48 states in 1928 was $13.39, while in 1927 it was $12.32 and in 1917 $6.39.

The state with the largest per capita indebtedness is North Carolina with $53.61. Others with a greater per capita debt than Illinois include Arkansas with $43.98, Oregon with $36.85, Delaware with $36.14, West Virginia with $33.08, Rhode Island with $26.76 Maine with $26.20, California with $22.42, South Carolina with $22.17, New York with $21.42, and Alabama with $21.19.

The per capita tax levy on general property, which averaged $3.25 among all the states in 1928, was $3.56 in Illinois, $8.11 in Michigan, $3.92 in Iowa, $3.71 in Indiana, and $3.54 in Wisconsin.

The per capita tax levy on state governments which average $10.98 among all the states in 1928 was $7.13 in Illinois, $12.66 in Michigan, $10.41 in Wisconsin, $9.53 in Iowa, and $8.79 in Indiana.

Miniature Course Golfer Gets So Excited He Dies

New York, Oct. 17.—(AP)—The excitement of playing Miniature golf proved too much today for Thomas J. Watt, 55, retired contractor. He dropped dead of a heart attack after finishing the first hole on a links in West 50th street.

WOMAN KILLED, POLICEMAN HURT BY AUTO TRUCK

Mrs. Grace Ryan, 66 years old, of 3600 South Halsted street, stood on the curb at Canalport avenue and Halsted streets late yesterday, waiting for a chance to cross the street through the heavy traffic. Patrolman Michael Nash, on duty at the intersection, offered to help her. When they were half way across the street a large truck, driven by James Zahn, 1940 String street, veered around the corner and struck both of them. Mrs. Ryan died soon after being taken to the county hospital.

Nash suffered a broken ankle and several fractured ribs.

Rachel Diane Lippincott, 10 year old daughter of Harry W. Lippincott, Chicago attorney, was being driven to school by her mother yesterday when their car collided with another driven by Mrs. H. J. Freyn of 55 Indian Hill road, Winnetka, and overturned at Oak street and Locust avenue, Winnetka. The girl's chest was crushed and she died two hours later at the Evanston hospital. Mrs. Lippincott was not injured.

These two deaths raised the Cook county motor toll for the year to 820.

HEFLIN'S SON FINED $10 IN POLICE COURT; ADMITS BEING DRUNK

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 17.—(AP)—J. Thomas Heflin Jr., son of United States Senator J. Thomas Heflin of Alabama, was fined $10 and costs in police court here today on a charge of being drunk and disorderly. He was released from jail a few hours later when his fine was paid.

Heflin was arrested in a downtown hotel shortly after last midnight and, failing to furnish bond, he spent the rest of the night in jail. He was arraigned this morning and entered a plea of guilty.

Police did not send him to the city stockade as they had been advised relatives from Lafayette, Ala., were en route here to pay the fine and costs, $12.

His arrest was made on complaint of a hotel detective who told officers the young man was creating a disturbance. Heflin admitted his identity, after first giving the name of "J. Thomas" of Atlanta. He said he had been released yesterday from a hospital at Smyrna, Ga.

PROMINENT MEN DISCUSS LOW FARM INCOME

Two nationally known men yesterday commented on the poor returns farmers have been receiving for their products. Sam H. Thompson, president of the American Farm Bureau federation, in a radio address declared that if farmers had been getting a fair share of the national income for the last 10 years business would not now be suffering from a depression.

Senator Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa, in a visit to the Chicago Mercantile exchange, pointed out in an address to the traders that while one-third of the population of the United States lives on farms, less than one-tenth of the national income goes to the farmers.

"Farmers gross around $12,000,000,000," he said, "compared to $60,000,000,000 grossed by manufacturers, which means that the farmer receives only about $700 a year as a wage, taking into consideration the number of persons working on farms." The senator discussed the need for establishing a means by which the farmer could be assured a price for his products which would insure a fair return on his investment.

NEW MARMON 8's

at these tremendous savings

OUR recent clearance of surplus stocks, due to the tremendous concessions we made, went over so big that we were unable to accommodate all the people of this city who wished to take advantage of our unusual offers.

To meet that demand, therefore, we wired for another allotment of cars from the factory.

We are glad to announce that it has now arrived and that those who were not able to find the exact model or style they desired may be able to do so now. In addition, we cordially invite people who have not yet investigated these values to do so at once, while the new shipment is still intact.

All Marmons in this sale are strictly 1930 models, fresh from the factory, guaranteed for a full year, and bearing all the important improvements recently made.

THE GANGSTER UNDER VOLSTEAD.

The distinctive feature of the prohibition era in the United States has been the rise of the gangster. A new criminality, widespread and successful, was born with the eighteenth amendment and has been nourished by the Volstead act. In pursuit of the rewards which prohibition has offered crime the gangster has used murder and corruption. He has grown wealthy and has attained a sort of sovereignty. He has stopped the administration of criminal justice and obtained immunity. He has degraded politics and pushed it down to lower levels.

Crime in the United States has become a spectacle of disorder observed everywhere abroad as an indication of a fundamental weakness in the American republic. Murder, unpunished, has become so common that it appears as one of the American social processes. Police have been corrupted and federal service has lost its reputation for inviolability. The liquor traffic has become one in murder as well as intoxicants, and the American gangster with new made wealth rides across the American scene as its dominating figure.

This condition of affairs is the result which ten years of prohibition have given the country. It is the direct consequence of granting the federal government the police power to suppress the trade in intoxicating beverages. It has not suppressed the trade, but has only changed its character from bad to worse and added the new criminality to it.

Both the cities and the country districts of the country are appalled by the conditions they know exist and cannot change. Chicago has been given the worst reputation, but every city in the country has the same evil, and no other has attacked it with so much determination.

Lawless trade in liquor offers such great profits that eager gangsters step at once into the shoes of murdered gangsters and their killings recruit rather than reduce the ranks of the killers and corruptionists. The communities have learned to expect no relief from extermination and they have not been encouraged to believe that any will be had from law.

Cause and consequence are hooked together and with the one continued the other must follow. The Volstead law is the mother of this criminality and the two will endure together. The act makes the criminal willing to risk his life for the money it will give him and the public official willing to risk his reputation and his liberty. If the remedy were in the situation itself some proof of it would have been given by now. If criminality were a phase through which prohibition might be expected to pass before it reached a firm foundation it would now be out of such difficulties or would be seen to be coming out. The contrary is true. Each year the criminality becomes worse and people perceive more clearly than ever that they cannot leave the source of infection untouched and be relieved of the illness.

The cause is federal prohibition, which states as law something which is not enforced as law because it lacks the general acceptance required by law. The Volstead act is a wealth producer for organizers of criminal gangs. They depend upon it. They could not exist without it. Crime in American cities is fed and protected by it.

The relation of the crook to the cause is being perceived more clearly every day, and that explains the rising protest, reflected in political action, against a continuance of federal government control in this field of social regulation. The experiment has been made. The results are apparent. There are bigots, zealots, and enthusiasts willing to go on in spite of dreadful consequences, but people of moderate minds will prevail in the end.

ROAD WASTE.

The director of the Chicago Motor club urges the completion of 870 miles of 40 foot pavement leaving Chicago in eleven arteries before the Century of Progress exposition opens. That is something worth accomplishing, but we venture to add an appendix. The roads we have are not used to nearly their maximum efficiency because of careless and inconsiderate driving. Drivers of cars do not keep to their lanes and those who are loafing along block those who have need to go faster. This slows traffic unnecessarily and really makes a broad road no better for the time being than a narrow one.

We quite realize that to reform driving customs is a harder job than getting roads built. As Mark Twain said, "There is such a lot of human nature in the world," and the task of making humans aware even of their own interests, to say nothing of the interests of fellow men, is endless and enormous. But something can be done and should be done. The enterprising organizations concerned with motoring can do much. Rules of the road should be more definitely defined and more persistently advertised. Also the police, which so often punish fast or careless driving, might assist in educating drivers to respect the rules. We do not think this education should be brusque or unreasonable. It will be more effective in the long run if it is tactful and considerate of unintentional error. But there is nothing more obvious than that we are not getting a proper benefit from the wide roads we have and will not get it from those we are planning and taxing ourselves to build unless we mend our driving habits and manners. A campaign of public education, backed by intelligent discipline by the authorities, will save much of this great waste.

WHY A NAVY.

The people of the United States are now going through an unpleasant experience brought about in substantial measure by the falling off of American exports. We are getting a lesson in the meaning of foreign trade to every American—the farmer, the mechanic, the merchant, the professional, the employer and the employé, the dweller on the coast and the dweller in the heart of the continent, the rich and the poor, the strong and the weak. Our foreign trade is far from paralyzed. It has only been reduced, cut by percentages which would not seem to most of us very serious. Yet the result has affected the whole people and many of them very harshly. The reasons for this misfortune are mainly or immediately economic. But the same or worse results could be brought about by other reasons; for example, by war, not only a war in which we ourselves are engaged, but a war between other powers in which we are not.

We are often told that the United States is self-sufficient. In the sense that we could not be starved out this is true. But in the sense that our industry, our standard of living, our prosperity is concerned we are far from self-sufficient. Just as a reduction in our foreign trade through economic causes has and may often again reduce our prosperity and result in widespread suffering, so the interruption or cutting off of our commerce and of commodities required by our industry and by our people through war will cost us heavily. President Hoover stated this forcibly in his campaign speech at Boston a year ago. "We might survive as a nation," he said, "though on a lower living standard and wage, if we have to suppress the 9 or 10 per cent of our total production now sold abroad. If this happens, we must stagnate and degenerate in civilization. . . . We could not run an automobile, we could not operate a dynamo or use a telephone were we without imported raw materials from the tropics. . . . Today we are the largest importers and the second largest exporters of goods in the world. . . . Our total volume of exports translates into employment for 2,400,000 families. . . . And, in addition to this, millions more families find employment in the manufacture of imported raw materials." Henry Cabot Lodge, writing for the magazine Fortune, says that if we were going to school today and being properly taught we should see that the United States is a country producing more than it consumes, but also requiring constantly increasing imports of both crude materials and foodstuffs. "We should learn that one-quarter of our essential raw material imports come from within a 1,000 mile radius of Singapore, which itself is 12,000 standard miles from New York; that the United States today imports more foodstuffs than it exports, that its food exports are a little more than twice those of the British isles, and that its total imports are more than four-fifths of its exports." Our external trade, he points out, is as world-wide and as great as that of any other country and our exports are greater than those of any one nation and may be said to support, directly or indirectly, one-tenth of our population.

American prosperity on anything like the scale we have achieved is dependent on our ability to guard our commerce and our communications from avoidable interruption. That is, in large measure, the task of the navy, and it behooves us to keep this in mind when we are told by interested foreigners or our own theorizing opponents of preparedness that we are self-sufficient and are wasting our money on our navy. A strong navy is not a guaranty against war or its consequences. But neither are treaties and pacifist policies. There is no guaranty against war save a transformation of human nature. But a weak navy is an ever open temptation to national misfortune and a strong one a substantial insurance against it.

Editorial of the Day

"FLASH VOTING."

[New York Evening Post.]

There are no wearisome roll calls in the lower house of the Wisconsin legislature. When a vote is to be taken the speaker turns a key on his desk and announces, "Roll call!" Thereupon every member in the room presses one of three buttons on his desk, thereby registering either "Yea," "No," or "Present but not voting." In the gallery on a large board are the members' names, plainly visible. Before each name a white light, indicating "Yea," or a red light, indicating "No," flashes on as the member touches the corresponding button on his desk. Thus the progress of the vote can be easily followed.

On the speaker's desk are two indicators. On one of them the needle moves forward as the "Yea" votes are registered. On the other the needle acts similarly for the "No" votes. When both needles come to rest the speaker inquires, "Has every one voted?" The question is a warning to a member who has just arrived, just waked up, or just realized the desirability of changing his mind about which way to vote or whether to vote at all or not. After a pause the speaker says: "If so, I declare the roll call closed." He then locks the machine by reversing the key on his desk. This motion also produces a photostatic copy of the roll call, showing the vote of every member and the total.

What of it? For one thing, the time consumed in roll calls at the last session of the legislature, which by the old method would have amounted to about 145 hours, was about twenty hours. This saving of time is also a saving of the taxpayers' money, since a session of the legislature costs about $1,000 a day. Then there is almost never a challenging of the correctness of the vote as announced, while in former years such challenging was frequent. Moreover, as Alice Kelly of the Wisconsin legislative reference library notes in the October issue of State Government, the rapidity with which a vote is taken by the "flash" system makes it desirable for a member who wishes to avoid a record of numerous absences from roll calls to spend most of his time on the floor. This enforced attendance, in turn, gives him a better knowledge of what is going on and frequently leads him to take a more active part in the consideration of measures.

MODERN YOUTH.

The pretty young kindergarten mistress had been telling her pupils all about the winds, their power, different effects, and so on. "And, children," she went on, enthusiastically, "as I came to school this morning on the top of the bus something softly came and kissed my cheek. What do you think it was?"

"The conductor!" cried the children, joyously.—Exchange.

CHAUFFEURS AND GLASSES.

In a test of 77 faculty members of the University of Illinois who drive university automobiles six were found to need glasses for long distance vision. It was recommended that twelve were not to drive without wearing glasses, and two were so nearsighted as to be below the minimum vision recommended by the committee on physical standards for drivers of motor vehicles of the section on ophthalmology of the American Medical association. Two were color blind and two were found to be in no physical condition to assume the responsibilities of a chauffeur. The university does not permit members of its student body to have automobiles with them at school. Had this examination of the eyes been extended to the entire student body it might have thrown some light on the need of a driver's license law.

The health service of the university made a special point of investigating all students who were on probation because of poor scholarship. They were anxious to determine how much of a factor in poor scholarship were disease and physical defects. In addition, they desired to improve scholarship wherever medical or surgical service gave promise of doing so.

On the first point the conclusion was: In a few instances uncorrected defects were discovered which were undoubtedly contributing to the student's unsatisfactory class standing. In the greater number of cases it was apparent that the student's poor health was not responsible for his low grade. At least 95 per cent of the medical records would indicate that poor scholastic standing must be attributed to causes other than ill health. In the cases where it seemed to be advisable operations were done or other treatments were given and the scholarship improved.

Again, the report shows that women have more diseases and disorders than men, although they always have lower death rates. The men had a heart disorder rate of about two and half per cent; the women, of six to nine per cent. About thirty-five to thirty-six per cent of the men had some foot disorder, while with women the percentage range was seventy-five to ninety-two. The lung abnormalities of women were two or three times as numerous as those of men. However, the women always took better care of their teeth. In general physical development the women excelled. Nineteen per cent of them scored excellent. The best the men could show was less than two per cent excellent.

MAY HAVE TO CONTINUE.

S. V. R. writes: My mother, past 50, thin and very active, has diabetes. She developed a great thirst. Some one told us that was a sympton of diabetes and examination showed that was her trouble. She had 3½ per cent sugar. Her weight dropped from 118 to 102 pounds. She is now on a carefully balanced diet and she takes insulin. She now weighs 115 pounds and feels well. Will she have to take insulin for the remainder of her life?

REPLY.

Probably so.

LIE AND GOSSIP HABIT.

R. writes: Are not lies and gossip a form of mental aberration?

REPLY.

Healy has a class of disorder which he calls pathologic lying. He says this is a social disorder and not primarily a mental one, though it does influence the quality of the mind. A tendency to malicious gossip probably belongs in the same class or one nearly related.

WHAT VITAMIN G IS.

E. K. writes: I would appreciate your giving a short talk on vitamin G. What foods are known to contain this vitamin?

REPLY:

That part of vitamin B complex which prevents and cures pellagra is sometimes called G. Goldberger called it P-p and most people call it the pellagra part of B complex. Among the foods rich in this protective substance are yeast, wheat germ, lean meat, eggs, canned salmon, peas, beans, and milk products. In milk the vitamin is found in the skim rather than in the fat. The staple vegetables contain some of it.

GOOD FELLOWS.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—[Legal Friend of the People].—We are 8 girls who formed a club two years ago and now have seventy dollars in the treasury. This does not seem enough to start charity work, so we thought we could increase it by running a card party or a dance annually. Upon applying for a park auditorium we were asked what charity we were giving it to. We wish to give baskets of food to poor families at Christmas time. 1. Must we have a charter to run a public affair? 2. Would we run into any other difficulties?

L. B.

1. No, but if you wish to use park facilities, you will have to comply with the park rules.
2. None occur to us.

WEEDS AND GARBAGE GONE.

Chicago, Sept. 13.—[Friend of the People.]—The lot on the corner of 69th and Ada streets is a disgrace. It is full of everything from garbage to old auto bodies. Also, the weeds around here are so high that the people walk in the middle of the street at night. E. W.

Report is made that condition of lot at the corner of 69th and Ada streets has been remedied and notices served throughout the neighborhood to refrain from further dumping. Householders in this vicinity are all equipped with regulation containers for accommodation of refuse output.

Weeds have been cut in the parkway space and along edge of sidewalk on Ada street.

DEFERS INTEREST PAYMENT.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Would I encourage serious difficulty by deferring the payment of an interest note on a mortgage to Nov. 30 which falls due on Nov. 26? 2. Are there any advance steps to be taken as protection?

C. B.

1. The creditor could institute foreclosure proceedings which would involve substantial court costs, ultimately chargeable against you.
2. Ordinarily it is preferable to employ a broker to sell your equity or to settle with the creditor rather than permit foreclosure charges to accumulate.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

A LADY BUMPED ME WHEN WE MET.

A lady bumped me when we met,
Crushed my fenders up like pie crust;
Scratched my paint of lovely jet,
Made my windows into dry dust.
"Oh, so sorry," the lady sighed,
"I've been driving since last spring;
I can stop and turn and twist and glide,
But I never can stop the doggoned thing."

A small child bumped me when we met,
Knocked my car into the ditch;
I'd liked to spank him where he set,
Or larruped him with a hickory switch.
"Don't you be sore," the brat did bawl,
"And I don't like to hear you scold,
I'm mighty smart to drive at all,
You see, I'm only six years old."

And old guy bumped me when we met,
Such a crash I never heard;
I said some things I since regret,
But I never ruffled that old bird.
"That's jest too bad," he finally said,
"I didn't hear yuh toot yer horn,
I'm deaf and hain't right in th' head,
An' been stone blind since I was born."

A farmer bumped me when we met,
I asked him where he learned to drive;
He gave me a look I'll not forget,
I'm thankful yet I'm still alive.
"That's somethin'," he said in tones of steel,

WELL, THE CITY is broke again and policemen and firemen and teachers and all the rest of 'em will have to wait and wait for their money, although their families would like to keep right on eating and wearing clothes. Now, again we will have to urge that captive whale down in the soap lot under our window for mayor. He could keep on being exhibited at so much per head and the money would go to the city treasurer. Vote for the whale for mayor!

SAYS SNOWSHOE AL TO THA DOOK.

To tha Duke of Pakrak, care Anti-Saloon League—Dear Dook: So you want I should apologize for socking you below the belt with my trusty typewriter, huh? Well, I ain't apologizin' to any palooka who calls me up an' inquires 'When are you folks comin' over for supper some night?" an' then hangs up quicker'n hell so I can't tell him. If I ever locate where you live, your icebox will be emptier than a haunted house for a couple days afterwards. You have another copyrighted remark which positively strangles me and I am referring to "Us will have to get together some evening an' wade through a couple rubbers o' bridge." I have been told that your wigwam is so dam full o' booby prizes that the living room now looks like Aisle Fourteen of Mr. Woolworth's famous Wedding Gift establishment. However, I ain't so good myself, either. The other night I got mixed up an' tried to meld eighty kings. My dear wife got so vexed that she smacked me till I was a mere stain on the rug. However, Dook, if us ever gets together it will have to be at your house because I can't very well invite you over to our igloo. We live in one o' these hotel-type dumps where all the apartments are along one big corridor, an' the walls between these rabbit hutches must be made of tissue paper because every morning I can hear the Swede next door combing his hair. In fact, last night as my wife was sitting in our front room an' I was sitting in our kitchen reading over her shoulder (yeh, it's a big place) she suddenly says to me, "Who lives in that fourth apartment down the hall?" an' I says "A Mr. Nelson" an' she says "Well, for gawd's sake go down there an 'ask him to stop rattling that newspaper!" Honest, Dook, I couldn't sleep last night because a guy twelve apartments away was eating crackers. The other evening I dropped a dime on our parlor rug an' everybody in the building fell outa their chairs and started crawling around on their floors. So you can imagine what would happen if you an' the Duchess ever rang our doorbell. Everybody in the 136 flats would rush to the speaking tubes an' squawk "Hoozit, pliz?" Fella, if you an' me ever started whispering soiled stories the family at the other end of the hall (which is a block long) would 'phone for the cops. Goodaby——

A MAN WAS ARRESTED yesterday for mistaking a railroad track for a state highway and speeding merrily down it until he was stopped by a railroad block signal red light. "Hey," yelled the motorist to the signal man up in the tower, "hurry up and change (hic) to green light, I can't stay thish (hic) spot all day." The police got him off the tracks just in time to let a passenger train thunder past. Indeed, and indeed, it is a good thing in these days of so many autos that the dreadful saloon has been closed. And indeed, yes!

I MISS YOU SO.

I miss you so . . . sometimes at dusk it seems
That I must slip away to search for you;
That I must take a road and walk and walk,
Star-mist in eyes and slippers drenched in dew,
Until I find you somewhere far beyond
The memories that fill my dream-strewn heart.
Or when I take a city street, as I must do,
Indifferent loneliness around, I start
Because I hear your voice, your laugh,
See some one's hair that grows as yours would grow,
And think it must be, must be you, my dear;
And yet it never is . . . I miss you so.

THERE WAS a little snowfall yesterday. All summer and not a drop of rain, and now winter hasn't yet begun, and already it's started snowing. Still, we are confident that Mr. Legge and the Farm Board will soon have nature acting more reasonably.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 18, 1914.

PARIS. — The allied armies have prevented the Germans from advancing along the coast and have defeated their object of seizing the French channel ports. Dunkirk is surrounded by a vast territory which is easily inundated and a message from the battle front says the area will be flooded if necessary to stop the German advance. The allies today advanced rapidly and British troops carried Fromelles, southwest of Lille.

LONDON.—Four German torpedo boat destroyers were sunk off the Dutch coast by ships from the British fleet. The German crews, totaling about 400 men, with the exception of 31 made prisoners of war, were lost.

WASHINGTON.—The administration war revenue bill, levying approximately $100,000,000 additional taxes to meet the emergency caused by the war in Europe, was passed by the senate, 34 to 22.

CHICAGO. — Significant symptoms of an upturn in business as a result of the needs of war in Europe were observed yesterday in Chicago as well as in St. Louis, Boston, Philadelphia, and other sections. In Chicago the packing houses are running practically full capacity.

CHICAGO.—"The detective bureau is so rotten, and has been from time immemorial, that it leaves a stench in the nostrils of any one who has any lingering sense of honesty, and the higher you go the rottener it gets. I'm going to clean out the detective bureau. I have evidence against at least a dozen detective sergeants." State's Attorney Hoyne made this statement last night almost on the eve of what promises to be an exposure of collusion of the police with criminals that will surpass in scope anything of the kind in the history of the city.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 18, 1900.

HAZLETON, Pa.—The last barrier to a settlement of the great anthracite miners' strike has been broken down, and from present indications a formal order from union headquarters telling the men to return to work will come within a few days. The victory belongs to the workers, for not only are all their demands formulated at the Scranton convention granted but the operators have agreed to pay the increase in wages for six months, which takes it beyond the date set by the men, April 1. The total cost of the strike to date is estimated at $12,300,000 and the amount of wages lost by the miners at $4,180,000.

BERLIN.—The Kolnische Zeitung asserts that Prince Hohenlohe has tendered his resignation as imperial chancellor and that it has been accepted. The same authority says that Emperor William has designated as the retiring chancellor's successor Count von Bülow, minister of foreign affairs. Disapproval of the kaiser's drastic policy in China is said to have been the cause of Prince Hohenlohe's resignation.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 18, 1880.

CHICAGO.—The schooner David A. Wells foundered in the storm of Oct. 16 four miles off the crib, and its crew of eight men, including Capt. John Thierkauff, perished. Nothing has been heard from the Goodrich line steamer Alpena which left Muskegon and Grand Haven on Oct. 15 for Chicago with a fair passenger list. W. S. Benham, editor of the Grand Haven Herald, and his wife were among the passengers.

PARIS.—A meeting of Bonapartists, hostile to Prince Jerome Napoleon, adopted a resolution summoning him to renounce his candidature and recognize Prince Victor Napoleon as heir to the throne. The meeting was very riotous and blows were exchanged.

ST. LOUIS.—Mrs. Julia D. Bates, widow of Edward Bates, attorney general in the cabinet of President Lincoln, died here.

OMAHA.—Evangelists Moody and Sankey held their meetings in this city today under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. with an immense attendance. They start for San Francisco tomorrow.

A HUMANITARIAN.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—A disabled veteran of the air service, I came here at the time the air races were on [Sept. 1] and since that time have been unable to find work. I stayed at the Y. M. C. A., then at a $3 a week room and eventually to a flop on a newspaper on Wacker drive, unable to get food or even earp a cup of coffee. Yesterday I had the good fortune to pass bills all day for $3 and I immediately paid for a cheap [$2.25] but clean room and got 50 cents of laundry and spent the balance for soap and socks.

This evening as I came up Wabash I saw a few men lined up in front of a small Hungarian sandwich shop on Wabash near 7th. I joined the line and at 5:30 this fine Hungarian gentleman invited us in, where we were given the same service any customer might receive. Good soup, then a fine plate of hamburger balls, mashed potatoes, bread and butter and excellent coffee—all I could eat and drink. I wish to publicly thank this fine type of man who with only a small place can give this kind of service to us who are out of and unable to find employment.

May God bless him with an everlasting prosperity and good health.

WORLD WAR VETERAN.

YELPING AT RUSSIA.

Chicago, Sept. 23. — Your editorial writers and so-called cartoonists have of late been particularly vicious in their yelping at the heels of a great, young, virile, gifted people seeking, and in a marvelous manner succeeding, to work out their destiny, to build a better life; pioneering in mankind's future economic and social structure.

You are helping materially to bring closer the next world conflagration, that world war which will inevitably be the forerunner of widespread revolution.

If you were not blind with hatred you would see how you are digging the grave of your class. But no doubt you are fulfilling your function in the large historical process, hastening the day when "Finis" shall be written to the malign power you wield in the affairs of the world.

Need I say that the people I refer to above is that of the U. S. S. R.?

J. P. H.

SUBURBAN LABOR.

Naperville, Ill., Oct. 6.—J. D. M. wrote recently of the menace of people outside of the city of Chicago coming in trainloads to fill places of employment that ought to be filled by the citizens of Chicago. Now, J. D. M., how about contractors coming out from Chicago and taking contracts away from the home contractors, and also bringing their own employés with them, thus depriving our home citizens of work? That is the situation in many of our suburbs. There are people in the suburban towns who need employment also.

MRS. D. K. F.

BREAD.

Evanston, Ill., Oct. 13.—I, too, am wondering when the price of bread is coming down to keep company with the low priced wheat that we hear so much about. In Omaha one buys bread three loaves for a dime.

I suggest that THE TRIBUNE household department publish a few good recipes for making bread, biscuits, corn pone, etc.

STELLA E. JOHNSON.

CO-OPERATION.

Chicago, Oct. 11.—Whereas, We have learned that THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE has instituted proceedings before the Illinois commerce commission to compel the electrification of all railroads which enter Chicago; and,

Whereas, Our organization consists of member improvement associations, consisting of property owners exclusively and numbering approximately 75,000 and chartered under the laws of the state of Illinois to improve, protect, develop, and beautify the south side; and,

Whereas, The action of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE is to be highly commended, since the south side and the entire city will be benefited and the health of the citizenry protected as well as assist the unemployment situation; and,

Whereas, We have learned that the New York Central railroad has spent considerable money for electrification in the east, not voluntarily, but by a court order, and the Pennsylvania railroad contemplates spending considerable money for electrification in the east and that the railroads above named have made no known plans for electrification in the Chicago area and that the city of Chicago is being discriminated against; and,

Whereas, We have learned that the New York, Cleveland and St. Louis railroad [Nickel Plate] and Chicago and Western Indiana railroad are spending millions of dollars for improvement elsewhere and ignoring the city of Chicago and retarding its progress.

Therefore, be it Resolved, That our organization go on record as indorsing the action of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE; that we request and demand that the Illinois commerce commission enter such orders as are necessary to compel the New York, Cleveland and St. Louis railroad [Nickel Plate], Chicago and Western Indiana railroad, New York Central railroad, and Pennsylvania railroad, Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad company, Belt Railway of Chicago, Indiana Harbor Belt Railway company, Chicago Junction Railway company, Elgin, Joliet and Eastern Railroad company, and Baltimore and Ohio Chicago Terminal Railroad company, Pere Marquette Railroad company, and all other railroads and tenant lines entering Chicago, to electrify their service; that the president, officers, and committees be authorized to appear before the Illinois commerce commission or elsewhere to accomplish the purposes of this resolution.

SOUTH SIDE FEDERATION OF IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATIONS, Inc.

ELECTRIFICATION.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—The Chicago West Town Chamber of Commerce, by its board of directors, heartily indorses THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S action regarding abatement of smoke by railroads by electrification.

H. J. KNUDSEN,
Manager West Town Chamber of Commerce.

SOVIET RECOGNITION.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—It gives me very much pleasure to congratulate you on the article written by your correspondent, Mr. Donald Day, in your last Sunday edition, about conditions in Russia. We regret, however, that it was not dedicated to one son of wild Jackass, who is the chairman of our foreign relations committee, but never traveled farther east than Coney Island.

KIDNAPED GIRL'S BODY FOUND IN DENVER PARK

Detective's Child Is Clubbed and Drowned.

Denver, Colo., Oct. 17.—[Special.]—The body of Leona O'Laughlin, 10 year old daughter of City Detective Jim O'Laughlin, who had been missing since Wednesday, was found today floating upon the waters of Berkeley lake.

The girl undoubtedly was a victim of kidnapers and had been murdered. Two wounds were found on her scalp, inflicted, according to Coroner George H. Shotwick, by a steel bar.

"Leona was knocked unconscious, then thrown into the water and drowned," the coroner said after an examination of the body.

Detective O'Laughlin, the girl's father, is seriously ill in St. Joseph's hospital here with ptomaine poisoning. He has not been informed of his daughter's death.

Grudge Crime, One Theory.

One theory entertained tonight was that the girl was killed by some one with a grudge against her father because of his police activities.

Late today Captain of Detectives Clark examined Mrs. O'Laughlin, second wife of the detective and stepmother of the child, and Frank O'Laughlin, a brother. Mrs. O'Laughlin collapsed at headquarters.

There has been discord in the O'Laughlin family, according to police, and some time ago a divorce suit was filed.

Hunt Woman's Kidnaper.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 17.—(AP)—While hunting a second suspect in the kidnaping of Mrs. Alma Wilson McKinley, daughter of a Greenfield, Ia., oil millionaire, police here tonight gained custody of Raymond Rizzo, 21, when they arrested him last night.

Rizzo insisted that he was "just a kid, not a kidnaper." He was seized on the street last night by Detective Homer Burns, who said he fitted the description of the man who held Mrs. McKinley 21 hours and then released her.

Gov. Roosevelt to Take Half Million Life Policy

Trustees of the foundation, which will be beneficiary of the policy, will be present and the governor was expected to address them concerning business conditions and unemployment.

CHICAGOAN'S RICH WIFE WINS DIVORCE ON CRUELTY GROUNDS

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 17.—(AP)—Carrie Cook Pretorius Horix, daughter of Douglas Cook, former millionaire manufacturer of "Cook's Imperial Champagne" and widow of Edward L. Pretorius, founder and owner of the St. Louis "Times," was granted a divorce in Superior court today from Carl Horix of Chicago.

She recited a long story of extreme cruelty on her husband's part. They separated May 27, 1928, Mrs. Horix said, after she had decided she no longer could stand his cruelty and threats against her life.

"He often choked me and threatened to kill me," Mrs. Horix told the court.

Mrs. Horix gave her husband's present address as 2738 Pine Grove avenue, Chicago.

Her testimony was corroborated by her daughter, Edwina Pretorius. Mrs. Horix said no community property existed and she gave her husband's present address as 2738 Pine Grove avenue, Chicago.

Deafness Leads to Divorce.

Reno, Nev., Oct. 17.—(AP)—Mrs. Anna Hoefler Simon was granted a divorce here today from Arthur J. Simon, son of Franklin Simon, head of a New York department store, on grounds of mental cruelty.

Mrs. Simon testified that her husband, although he knew at the time of their marriage in New York in 1924 that she was afflicted with deafness, became irritable and unsympathetic over her affliction.

Wilhelm Ritschel, a painter, took out a license to wed Elanora Havel here today shortly after obtaining a divorce from Belle Zora Ritschel on grounds of mental cruelty. The artist, a native of Germany, came to this country in 1895.

MINERS SEARCH MOUNTAINS FOR LOST CHILD, 3

Round Mountain, Nev., Oct. 17.—(AP)—Five hundred men and boys are combing the mountains in the vicinity of this mining camp in search of 3 year old Lawrence Sullivan, who was lost yesterday afternoon when he wandered away from his uncle's car while it was parked in Jefferson canyon.

The uncle, J. L. Sullivan, a miner, took the child with him while he went on a short prospecting trip about seven miles up the canyon from Round Mountain. He left the child in the car and walked to the top of a hill. When he returned an hour later the child was gone.

Last night the child's cap and shoes were found about a mile from the scene of his disappearance up the canyon.

Fear was expressed that an eagle or mountain lion had carried the child away.

A. F. L. DEMANDS REAL BEER, BUT SHIES AT REPEAL

Organize for War on Labor Injunction.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 17.—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor, in the closing session of its annual convention here today, recommitted itself to the policy of modification of the Volstead act to permit manufacture and sale of 2.75 per cent beer, but rejected resolutions favoring repeal of the Volstead act and the 18th amendment.

The delegates reaffirmed the federation's policy of nonpartisanship in politics and cited proposed legislation against the issuance of court injunctions in labor disputes as a predominating political issue. They urged the election of those candidates for congress who favor abolition of the labor injunction.

The convention heard Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts denounce the national administration for what he described as evasion of the unemployment issue and its failure to publicly recognize the seriousness of the current situation in industry.

Other resolutions adopted included:

Indorsement of the appeal of actors and musicians for support of a popular movement against the mechanizing of cultural arts.

Urging employment of civilian workers on mechanical work for the army and navy.

Protesting modification of the packers' consent decree.

Favoring independence for the Philippine islands.

Housewife Opens Door for Cleaner; Lets In Gunman

A bandit entered the home of Mrs. Clara Rouland, wife of a city fireman, at 6347 Woodlawn avenue, last night and robbed her of $35 and a diamond ring valued at $1,000. Mrs. Rouland was expecting delivery of a dress by a dry cleaner when she heard the robber's knock at the back door. "Are you the cleaner?" she inquired. "Yes," came the answer, and she opened the door to face a man with a gun.

MILLER BREWING CO. PREPARES FOR RETURN OF BEER

Pabst, Schlitz Firms Buy Equipment.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 17.—(AP)—Milwaukee newspapers, conducting a survey today, said that the Fred Miller Brewing company is purchasing new bottling equipment because its officials believe manufacture of 2.75 per cent beer soon will be permitted.

"We would not purchase it we did not feel confident there will be some modification to permit the making and sale of 2.75 beer, W. H. Kraft, manager, said.

Mr. Kraft said he could not disclose how much money the Miller company was spending for the new equipment.

Fred Pabst Sr., president of the Pabst corporation, Wednesday told how his company was spending around $800,000 for machinery and grain stocks in the hope that 2.75 beer will be legalized.

All the breweries in the city, a survey by newspapers showed, are ready to turn out beer at a moment's notice.

Edward Landsberg, president of the Val Blatz Brewing company, commented that "there has been much said recently about real beer coming back, but I am not inclined to make premature statements," he added.

"When beer comes back the Blatz company will be ready to place it on the market at once. We have always kept out plant up to the limit."

The Schlitz Brewing company has maintained its brew house and all equipment in top condition, and needs only to buy additional grain, according to S. C. Abrams, secretary-treasurer.

"I believe beer will be back before 1931 has passed," he said. Schlitz employs more than 300 persons, as against more than 2,000 before prohibition.

Officials of the Adam Gettleman and Cream City Brewing companies said they were "ready."

FOREIGN HIGHWAY BUILDERS STUDY CHICAGO'S ROADS

Streets and highways in and around Chicago were the subject of study yesterday by highway builders and contractors from sixteen foreign countries who are observing American road building methods. A party of sixty-five of the delegates to the International Road congress, which was held recently in Washington, D. C., formed the group, coming here from Cleveland.

The delegation visiting Chicago is one of four now touring the country. During the day the parties travel by bus and at night by train. The Chicago Motor club and the American Automobile association are hosts to the Chicago group which is stopping at the Stevens hotel.

Among the countries represented by the visitors here are France, England, Germany, Holland, Czecho-Slovakia, Austria, Denmark, Spain, Belgium and Brazil. The party will leave for Detroit tomorrow night.

BOOKS

Sandburg Now Gathers Poems for Children

While Envoy Morrow's Wife Writes About Toys.

BY AGATHA L. SHEA.

[Director of children's work for branches of Chicago public library.]

"Early Moon," by Carl Sandburg [Harcourt].

"The Painted Pig," by Elisabeth Morrow [Knopf].

"Pancho and His Burro," by Zhenya and Jan Gay [Morrow].

"Tranquilema's Paradise," by Thomas Handforth [Minton Balch].

"The First Picture Book," by Mary Steichen Martin [Harcourt].

Among the important contributions to the bookshelf of the young readers this fall one finds an offering by a distinguished Chicagoan whose writings, whether prose or poetry, always find many admirers among our young folks.

"Early Moon" by Carl Sandburg is a collection of some sixty of his poems, all of which are characterized by the poet's sense of beauty to be found in the common, homely facts of life.

The short talk on poetry with which Mr. Sandburg has prefaced the book will be for many of his admirers a valuable part of it. The illustrations are by James Daugherty.

For the younger children, those of the picture book age, there also is a book of especial interest called "The Painted Pig," written by Elizabeth Morrow, wife of Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, and illustrated by Count Rene d'Harnoncourt. It is a story of Mexican toys, and particularly of the painted clay pig bank which little Pita and Pedro tried so hard to get from the toymaker.

Two other Mexican picture books are Zhenya and Jan Gay's "Pancho and His Burro" and Thomas Handforth's "Tranquilema's Paradise." The first is a story of two little Mexicans who go to market to sell their turkeys and charcoal and the second is written about the Mexican custom of blessing the animals on a feast day.

The very littlest one of all has also his picture book this year, and it is one that is decidedly his own, for Mary Steichen Martin has given us a delightful picture book for the preschool or nursery age. There is no text whatever, but the very excellent reproductions of photographs of the child's own everyday possessions tell their own story.

The photographs by Steichen are in soft gray tones and are so appealing that one little one to whom the book was shown reached out to pluck the teddy bear from the page.

SAILORS, GALS, GROG SONG OF AUTHORS OF TWO OCEAN STORIES

Why sailors seldom get beyond the waterfront night life of seaports they visit is told in "Ocean Parade" by Fritjoff Michelson and Leon Byrne [McBride], and in "Sailors Don't Care" by Edwin Lanham [Cape-Smith]. Both books, we believe, will startle even the most hardened reader of realistic fiction, though these are claimed to be actual experiences.

The bucko mates and hard slugging seamen spend more time in sailortown dives than they do on deck. Each is more a guide book to the oriental underworld than it is a sea story. They are written by men who admittedly knew nothing about the sea when they started across the Pacific on freighters. Judging from their experiences they know little more now.

"The Wreck of the Dumaru" by Lowell Thomas [Doubleday-Doran] is the story of one of the ocean's most grisly horrors told in ghastly cannibalistic detail by the first engineer who ate his way to safety.

SOPHISTICATED! BRILLIANT! DARING!

WHAT is "White Marriage?" If a mother and a daughter want the same man—what happens? Will the older woman sacrifice the younger's happiness to her own selfish desires?

Read the answer in this novel which moves swiftly through decadent society from Paris to Cannes, Rome and Martinique.

ADVENTURING AMONG NEW BOOKS

BY THE LITERARY EDITOR.

FICTION.

The Redlakes, by Francis Brett-Young [Harper's], is a long, rich tale of an English gentleman, in the manner of the author's famous "Love Is Enough."

The Fool of the Family, by Margaret Kennedy [Doubleday-Doran], tells more about the incomparable Sangers of "The Constant Nymph."

Dance Night, by Dawn Powell [Farrar & Rinehart], is a poignant story of young love and a small town.

The Son of Minos, by David Cheney [McBride], is a tale of passion and bravery in the golden age.

The Men in Her Life, by Warner Fabian [Liveright], is a book about playing with fire by the author of "Flaming Youth."

A Saturday Life, by Radclyffe Hall [Cape Smith], is an early novel, now published in America for the first time, by the author of "The Well of Loneliness."

Fashions in Marriage, by Claude Farrere [King], is a translation of the intriguing work of one of France's most popular novelists.

Salome, by George Sylvester Viereck and Paul Eldridge [Liveright], is a companion volume to the authors' "My First Two Thousand Years"—the story of the Wandering Jew.

Burnt Offering, by Jeanne Galzy [Brentano], is the winner of the 1930 Brentano prize—the story of a simple, tender, frustrated school teacher in a provincial town in France.

Contradence, by Wilson Whitman [Bobbs-Merrill], is a tale of New Orleans at the beginning of the 19th century.

A River Goes with Heaven, by Howell Vines [Little-Brown], is an ecstatic tale of a strip of land in Alabama and a romance.

Pelle the Conqueror, by Martin Anderson Nexo [Peter Smith], is a one volume edition of the famous Danish classics which always has been published in four volumes.

Morals and Moderns, by Elmer Davis [Bobbs-Merrill], is a volume of modern short stories of modern morals.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

The Story of Dwight W. Morrow, by Margaret McBride [Farrar & Rinehart], is the second biography within a few months of one of our outstanding national figures.

Gandhi of India [Macmillan] is a document of the first importance, the autobiography of the leader of his people.

Daniel Webster, by Claude M. Fuess [Little Brown], is an exhaustive biography of the great Dan'l [2 vols.], using all of the latest discovered material, but in no wise a "jazz" life story.

Henry Irving, by Gordon Craig [Longmans], is a keen biography of the great actor by the son of his leading woman, Ellen Terry.

Pauline, Favorite Sister of Napoleon, by W. N. C. Carlton [Harpers], is the life story of "the wickedest, most fascinating, most beguiling of the Bonapartes."

Taking the Curtain Call, by Doris Arthur Jones [Macmillan], is the life and letters of Henry Arthur Jones, one of the most popular playwrights of history.

Sidelights on Queen Victoria, by Sir Frederick Ponsonby [Sears], is an intimate and delightful picture of a woman as well as a queen.

Three Virgins of Haworth, by Emilie and Georges Romieu [Dutton], is a translation of the latest French life of the Bronte sisters.

MYSTERY.

The Manville Murders, by Cortland Fitzsimmons, is about an old family curse, and it is one of the McBride scarlet thread mysteries.

Krakatoa, by Capt. H. E. Raabe [Brewer & Warren], tells of a mysterious adventure in the South Seas. It is by the author of "Cannibal Nights."

The Moonhill Mystery, by Mrs. Wilson Woodrow [Macaulay], has a bright and witty heroine who is on the verge of being held a murderess.

NONFICTION.

The Collected Works of Bernard Shaw [Wise] are the first two volumes of the fine limited edition of Shaw which is to be published a couple of volumes at a time until the set is complete. The first two are: "Immaturity," the first novel of G. B. S., now published for the first time, and "The Irrational Knot."

Range Rider, by Bud Cowan [Doubleday Doran], is the real story of a real cow man.

Rough and Tumble on Old Clipper Ships, by Robert Ramsay [Appleton], tells of their thrills.

Christopher Morley's Book of Days for 1931 [Day] is a combination calendar and diary with delightful sentiments chosen for each day by one of your favorite authors.

The Mound Builders, by Henry Clyde Shetrone [Appleton], tells all about them.

Both Sides of the Street, by Irvin S. Cobb [Cosmopolitan] is a volume of amusing essays.

Helvetia, by her mother [Seymour], a gay tale about the coming of a child to a parent of forty-one.

The Eagle and the Serpent, by Martin Luis Guzman [Knopf], is a vivid chronicle of the Mexican revolution—one should really say revolutions.

Learn or Perish, by Dorothy Canfield Fisher [Liveright], is a small volume of large importance to educators.

Whither, Whither? Or, After Sex, What? [Macaulay] is a general all around spoofing of the future-peeping symposia. It has been predicted that it will be the funny-bonehead book of the year.

The Marks of an Educated Man, by Albert Edward Wiggam [Bobbs Merrill], according to the author of "The New Decalogue of Science."

4 of the world's greatest mysteries, in one volume!

Dogs Wig Wag Friendly Words in These Books

For Authors Interpret Their Sign Language.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Portrait of a Dog," by Mazo de la Roche. [Little-Brown.]

"A Man and His Dog," by Thomas Mann. [Knopf.]

"Jock the Scot," by Alice Grant Rosman. [Minton Balch.]

"Dog Days," by Stewart Edward White. [Doubleday-Doran.]

The fact that Oct. 19-25 is designated as National Dog Week had nothing to do with the writing or publication of these four books about dogs. It gives us an excuse, however, for deserting the more esoteric realms of creative work and recording the joys to be found in this tetralogy of the work of well known novelists. Three of them are volumes of canine reminiscences. The fourth, "Jock the Scot," is a novel with a dog as its hero.

"BUNTY."

Before you leave me flat and go into another column which might seem more literary to you, let me assure you that nowhere in any of their work has any one of these four international literary figures done anything more delightful than these books; nowhere have they written more characteristically. In the case of at least one of them, Mazo de la Roche the peak of her creative writing has been attained.

"Portrait of a Dog" is about a Scotch terrier whose name [like that of my own Scottie] was Bunty. Bunty was a companion, a friend, a real helpmate. Blinded in her youth by some mysterious growth, she lived to a ripe age, more intensely aquiver to life, more a character as the days passed. Miss de la Roche has not only written about a dog, but she has painted a noble and inspiriting picture of life, and the adjustments of courage which it demands.

"Portrait of a Dog" is one of the most beautiful things that has ever been written about man's most understanding dumb servitor. Every one who has ever felt that strange tie of mutual understanding that exists between one's dog and one's inner self will find it a classic. It is certainly the most enchanting thing that has ever been written about that—to me, at least—most amusing and most attractive of all breeds, the Scotch terrier. Her Bunty is my Bunty and S. S. Van Dine's whole kennels full of Scotties and yet she is Bunty de la Roche, an individual. The book is written as if Miss de la Roche were talking to Bunty—a strangely appealing technique.

Another Scotch terrier, Jock, is the subject of the tale which bears his name. Alice Grant Rosman always has had a delightful dog in her novels—you remember them in "The Window," "Visitors to Hugo," and "The Young and Secret."

"Jock the Scot" is a gayish novel about an English village with Jock in his silent way being the resolving circumstance in a village scandal and a village romance. It has the same charm that all of Miss Rosman's novels have. It is, incidentally, dedicated to five dogs of which one is "Bunty of Chicago."

I considered having Bunty write the reviews of these four books and translating it from the Scotch Terrier of B. B., as it were, but the books are too real to be treated flippantly.

Thomas Mann, Germany's greatest novelist, wrote a good many years ago a book called "Herr und Hund." An English translation was published in this country in 1923 called "Bashan and I," and, since its author had not then achieved the Nobel prize and a wide public, "Bashan and I" was neglected. It has just been republished by another publisher under a new title, "A Man and His Dog," with no hint of its previous American publication. But it's the same book—wholly charming, a tender, beautiful essay on the delights of walking with an intelligent dog.

"Dog Days" is a volume of reminiscences of the changing panorama of the lifetime of one of America's best known writers—from the early days of "pattridge" hunting when a good dog actually taught two little boys how to hunt to the present days when a good dog is motor minded.

How Engineer Wrote Novel, Enjoying Task

Irving Fineman Explains Change of Work.

BY ALTA MAY COLEMAN.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Firmly we clutched the coat-sleeve of Irving Fineman, who was surrounded by two hundred and fifty other persons desirous of speaking to this guest of honor at the Savoy-Plaza tea-party, given on Wednesday by Ford Madox Ford and Longmans, Green & Co.

IRVING FINEMAN.

"You, a born New Yorker, graduate of Boston Tech, a practical engineer and instructor in engineering at the University of Illinois," said we, compressing our interview into the space alloted for an introduction. "What put it in your head to sit down and write a novel?"

"It was the immediate result of my discovery that human beings were as interesting as mathematics," replied the author of "A Pure Young Man," winner of a $7,500 prize. Three other rapid fire questions and answers brought the information that when Mr. Fineman completes the novel he commenced in France this summer, he may or may not go to China on an engineering job, he may or may not start another novel, but at some time in the near future he will devote a full year to a tour of the United States, a slow going tour of investigation and discovery.

Lots of other authors were present at the tea: Theodore Dreiser, Dorothy Speare, Robert Coates, Donald Douglas, Mrs. Joseph Pennell, Dorothy Scarborough, William Fitzgerald Jr., William Carlos Williams, Glieb Botkin, Bessie Beatty, and Henry Williamson.

Mr. Williamson, but recently arrived from Devonshire, the England of which he writes in "The Pathway," "The Patriot's Progress" and "The Village Book," had only the preceding day been guest of honor at John Macrae's tea, and this same afternoon was headlined with Miss Alki Diplarakou at Ruth and John Vassos' party in their modernistic penthouse overlooking the Hudson. Pursuing Mr. Williamson thither, we obtained confirmation that he had, indeed, written 37,000 words at one sitting and 20,000 at another. "That's why—" said this tall young man of thirty-four, indicating the gray hairs at his temples. "I started writing, because I was unhappy, plunged into it emotionally, forgot time, food, sleep in my work."

On Friday, Joseph Brewer poured tea,* which quite justified the asterisk on the invitation, in honor of Maurice Dekobra, allotting New York three days on his journey from Paris to Hollywood. "I stay there two months," explained M. Dekobra, "to study how to make a talkie. Then I go to Mexico—to study how to make a revolution."

Iris Barry was another overseas guest at this party, bringing from London a fund of "too, too" stories about Evelyn Waugh. Here, too, were Count Rene d'Harnoncourt, illustrator, and Bertrand Collins, author of "The Silver Swan," whose own particular tea at the Chatham on Tuesday started this sociable week. Mr. Collins' home is in Seattle, but he is a confirmed rambler.

Saturday in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Commodore a testimonial dinner was given to Harry Hershfield, cartoonist and novelist—his "Super City," issued in November is announced as a serious novel. The occasion was Harry's birthday, and we were informed that his mother, who is 72 years old, came to New York from Chicago by airplane to attend. The six hundred guests included a dazzling array of the city's notables: Mayor James J. Walker, George M. Cohan, Charles Dana Gibson, Arthur Brisbane, Heywood Broun, James Montgomery Flagg, John Golden, Lew Fields, Rube Goldberg, and, quite literally, others too numerous to mention.

To the Man Who Knows Its Origin Every Word Presents a Picture

INCISIVE
When you apply the word incisive to speaking, writing, or thinking, do you realize that you are using a word that pictures a sharp cutting instrument? The Latin in (in) and caedere (to cut) were combined to form the verb incidere meaning "to cut into". From the past participle of this verb comes our English verb incise, with the same meaning; and also our adjective incisive, applied to thinking that is acute and expression that is clear-cut and penetrating. The incisive speech of such an orator as Theodore Roosevelt was a keen-edged tool for cutting his message deeply into the minds of his hearers. When we know the origin of the word, what a clear picture we have of its meaning, and how much more accurately we can use it.
This is the way in which you come to understand the background and essential meanings of English words when you look them up in

Let Your Children Perform Helpful Tasks in the Home

By Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans

From a woman of country upbringing comes the following:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: I read your articles every day and get many good suggestions from them.

"I was raised in the country on an honest to goodness farm, the eldest of a big family. Chores were real, absolutely necessary, yet we children were not hurt by them. Quite the contrary. Washing dishes, sweeping floors, making beds, cooking the meals, sewing, mending, washing, ironing clothes, kindling and cook stove wood to bring in, barn chores, the feeding and watering and currying of horses; the care of milk and butter; feeding calves, hogs, chickens; gathering up the eggs; the care of the garden and truck farms, lawn and flowers — all these chores and others were ours from one year's end to another as we gradually grew into them.

"No, we were not hurt or depressed. We enjoyed our playtime when we got it. We had no time or thought or interest for destructive activities. We were never bored by home, for it was ours by right of real work. We had a much greater appreciation of our home and parents than the modern pampered youth seems to have. We had our roots in the home.

"Today mothers could find scores of chores for the children if they would. Let all the children of the household learn to cook and keep the house in order and learn to sew and mend. Many garments should be made at home whether it is needful or not, just for the cultural value. Let there be pets to care for—a pair of birds, gold fish, a kitten, etc.

"If there is room for yard and garden, opportunities are multiplied.

"Real value in vegetable gardening is derived by children in pocket money, health and enjoyment. And any child can be trained to tend a flower garden.

"In other words, the children should be linked up with real life by the necessity of doing chores.

"And above all else, if a child can help to care for a younger child, then indeed is his education on the way.

"I hope I may have contributed some little thought."

There has been a sharp change in the way of living for all of us. So much more is done by machinery, living quarters are so limited, there is so little grass and ground for the average child.

Perhaps we can't follow just the line of action pointed out here, but the letter is full of suggestion. It is fine for children to be able to do, with the actual work of their hands, something that contributes to the life of the family.

FARM AND GARDEN
BY PAUL POTTER

PEONY CULTURE SIMPLE.

Can peonies be transplanted with success, and what is the matter with plants which have not bloomed even though they have been growing two or three seasons? These questions evidently bother gardeners, judging by the inquiries which come to the Farm and Garden Editor of THE TRIBUNE.

S. W. Decker of the floriculture division of the University of Illinois college of agriculture, answers such questions briefly. Transplanting peonies is done with most ease in the fall, using divisions each of which have three to five "eyes," permitting about four foot spaces for later growth and planting in fertile, well drained soils well prepared to a depth of 18 to 20 inches.

Large amounts of readily available fertilizers should not be used as the plants can easily be overfed even though they are gross feeders. With reasonable care peony plants will flower freely even at the end of 10 years. Plants should be set in with the eyes about two inches below the surface, as deeper planting is said to be the cause of failure to bloom for three or four years.

Protection the first year with a straw or leaf mulch is desirable, but the hardiness of the peony offsets any value of covering after the plant is established. Full sunlight is preferred, says Mr. Decker, although he points out that some of the more delicate colored varieties often develop a better color when protected from the midday sun. Plants being prepared for next year and which have bloomed the past season should be cut down close to the ground and the tops burned to destroy fungus diseases.

Food Talk.

"What precautions can I take in cooking to prevent meat and fowl from becoming hard and dry?" is a question often put to us. And it is a question that every cook should have answered for meat is never at its best unless it is sweet and full of juice. All meats have more or less natural juice and the most of it may be retained if the meat is seared properly.

Two practices that have long existed with cooks are entirely responsible for dry meat. One is insufficient or no searing at all and the other is salting too soon.

Some cooks add salt before the cooking is started. The effect of salt on unseared meat is to draw out the juice and the result is dry fibers.

It is important, therefore, to give careful consideration to searing and salting. Put the raw meat into a hot pan and turn rapidly until the entire surface is well browned.

Chicken that is rolled in flour and seared has quite a thick crust so the salt must be added about ten minutes before serving. This also applies to steaks rolled in flour. Thick roasts that require considerable time for the salt to permeate to the center must be salted just after they have been seared. Large roast fowl, such as turkey, goose, and capon, should be salted well on the inside before the stuffing is filled in.

After the exterior is seared, the salt may be sprinkled over the outside surface. If your meats and fowl have always turned out dry, try searing quickly and salting later and see how juicy they are.

FRENCH FRIED SWEET POTATOES.
4 large sweet potatoes.
Deep fat.
Powdered sugar.

Peel, wash, and dry potatoes thoroughly. Cut into lengthwise pieces about one-half inch wide and deep. Wipe pieces dry with a towel. Heat deep fat to 375 degrees F. Put only a few potatoes into the frying basket at one time. Dip the basket into the fat, lifting up now and then to see how the cooking is progressing. Lift basket up to drain off fat. Turn potatoes onto unglazed paper to absorb excess fat. Dust with powdered sugar. Serve hot.

Yield: 4 servings. One serving: Total, 342 calories; protein, 12 calories; fat, 110 calories; carbohydrates, 220 calories.

ORANGE ICE BOX PUDDING.
2 dozen lady fingers.
½ cup unsalted butter.
1 cup powdered sugar.
¼ cup milk.
¼ cup granulated sugar.
1 tbsp. corn starch.
3 eggs separated.
Juice of one orange.
Rind of one-half orange.

Cook in double boiler egg yolks, that have been beaten light, with sugar, corn starch, and milk until thick and smooth, stirring constantly. Remove from fire and cool. Cream butter and powdered sugar and add orange juice and rind. Add to custard mixture. Stir well. Lastly fold in the stiffly beaten whites of eggs and add one-half pint of whipped cream. Line the bottom and sides of the mold with lady fingers, separated and flat side outward close together. Place the filling on the lady fingers and cover with the rest of the fingers. Place in the ice box twenty-four hours to harden. When ready to serve remove to platter and cover with whipped cream, adding one-half teaspoon vanilla and one-fourth cup powdered sugar. Place sections of oranges around platter for garnishing.

Yield: 10 servings. One serving: Total, 328 calories; protein, 18 calories; fat, 146 calories; carbohydrates, 164 calories.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Seeks Store Fixtures.

"I have been struggling for years to get ahead, but without success. Now I have a chance to open a little shop, but I cannot buy the fixtures for it. These are some of the things I shall need—perhaps you can help to get them: A gas range, some small screens to hide ugly corners, chairs, a few lamps, a coffee table, porcelain top table, a small show case, pictures, and a scale for weighing candy.

"MRS. R. S."

Some person who is planning to dismantle his candy shop in the near future could, no doubt, give this ambitious woman much of the equipment which he won't be able to sell. Housewives could supply several of the other articles needed. It is a most deserving case and with a little encouragement and assistance this should prove to be a successful venture.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

One Purse, Two Owners.

I entered a prominent drug store to make a telephone call, but before entering the booth I stood searching the depths of my handbag for a nickel.

Suddenly I heard a scream and a young woman came rushing toward me, crying at the top of her voice that I had her purse.

"That is mine! I left it in that phone booth." And she had a tight hold on it in an attempt to wrest it from me.

The clerks and patrons crowded around and from somewhere a policeman appeared. I had to exhibit the contents of the article in question, including my passport, before she was convinced of her mistake. I know not which one of us was the more embarrassed.

WOMAN'S OR MISS' DRESS.

This model, suggesting the princess type frock, will be smart and useful for general day wear. Circular godets at either side of the skirt provide a graceful swing, and the panel front and back give a length of line and emphasize the snugness of the hips. The neckline is new and charming. A modish silk and wool mixture in cinnamon brown tones with the collar and cuffs of white silk crêpe, the tie of a plain brown; and a navy blue wool crêpe with white faille silk crêpe are either one chic suggestions.

The pattern, 2679, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18 and 20 years and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 4⅛ yards of 39 inch material with ⅝ yard of 39 inch contrasting and ⅛ yard of 32 inch for the tie string.

Tortured With Acid Indigestion for Months. Not a Sign Now

Amazing Prescription, ACIDINE, Ends Gas, Pain, After All Else Failed

"I suffered for months with acid indigestion and gas on the stomach," writes Mr. C. Bedford of Detroit, Michigan. "Couldn't eat a meal without being troubled with gas and pain, also dizzy feeling. I tried all kinds of medicines, but nothing really helped until I took ACIDINE. Got relief from the very start. Now I am entirely well, no pains at all."

In the space of one year thousands of people have bought ACIDINE at drug stores everywhere and are enthusiastic users. They are astonished how this new scientific prescription, ACIDINE, succeeds where other known remedies fail. The reason is that it is entirely different. Contains the marvelous digestant, Japtase. In laboratory experiments Japtase has been tested on certain very heavy, heavy, starchy foods, which cause so much gas of such foods in only 30 minutes! The other ingredients in ACIDINE neutralizing acid, soothe irritated stomach linings, stop gas and headache from acidity. No other known remedy contains this scientific combination to end acid stomach. Physicians are prescribing ACIDINE, and thousands of people have found it the only real relief from acid indigestion, dyspepsia, heartburn, coated tongue, bad taste, dizziness, gas and headache from acidity. Pain goes like a flash.

Don't take chances with acidity and gas that often lead to serious and painful troubles. Get ACIDINE at any Walgreen or Economical drug store today. Watch how quick pain and gas vanish. Smoke, eat and drink what you want. Results guaranteed. If not delighted maker refunds money.

The MURDER at the VICARAGE

BY AGATHA CHRISTIE

SYNOPSIS.

Mr. Clement is vicar of a country village in England. His wife, Griselda, is nearly twenty years his junior. The vicar's young nephew, Dennis, lives with them.

Col. Protheroe, a pompous parishioner, who makes life miserable for his daughter, Lettice, and his second wife, Anne, is expected at the vicarage at 6:15 one evening. At 5:30 the vicar is called to visit a dying parishioner and leaves word for the colonel that he will be late. On returning at 7 the vicar meets Lawrence Redding, an artist who is living in a studio on the vicarage grounds, coming out of the house in an agitated state. The day before the artist and Mrs. Protheroe had confessed to him their love for each other. In his study the vicar finds the colonel dead, murdered apparently. No weapon is found. Dr. Haydock is called, and he says Protheroe has been dead half an hour and summons the police. A note which the colonel started to write to the vicar is headed 6:20. A clock, overturned when the colonel fell forward, stopped at 6:22, but it was always kept fifteen minutes fast.

Lawrence Redding and Mrs. Protheroe both confess to the murder.

Miss Marple, a near neighbor, saw Anne Protheroe go to the vicarage about 6:15 and then to the studio. She had no place to conceal a weapon. Redding came along shortly afterward and joined her at the studio. They came out a little later and walked toward the village.

"Murder by person or persons unknown," is the verdict given at the inquest.

The unfinished note found when Col. Protheroe died is discovered to be a forgery.

Hawes, the vicar's young curate, has been in a highly nervous state since an attack of sleeping sickness. The vicar rushes to him in response to a phone call and finds Hawes asleep, at his feet a crumpled note, which the vicar examines and finds to be the real note left by Col. Protheroe. It is addressed to the vicar and accuses Hawes of misappropriating church funds. The vicar sends for Col. Melchett, the chief constable. They discover Hawes has taken an overdose of sleeping medicine. Dr. Haydock is called, and he has the curate sent to the hospital.

Miss Marple, hearing of Hawes' illness, calls. She tells Col. Melchett and the vicar actually shot Col. Protheroe, and gives her explanation of the mystery. She says that Redding concealed the pistol in a flower pot by the study window, where Mrs. Protheroe had gone, taken the gun, and shot her husband as he sat at the vicar's desk. When Lawrence returned to see the vicar he took the gun and substituted the forged note, hoping that it would look like a clumsy attempt to incriminate Anne Protheroe. It was Redding who planted the note at Hawes' feet, after substituting a deadly drug for Hawes' sleeping tablets, thinking that after Hawes' death every one would concede his guilt. Miss Marple suggests, to prove her theory, that Dr. Haydock tell Redding that a witness saw him change the medicine.

INSTALLMENT LIV.

PROOF OF GUILT.

"The damned scoundrel," said Haydock. "The damned scoundrel! That poor devil, Hawes. He is got a mother and a sister, too. The stigma of being the mother and sister of a murderer would have rested on them for life, and think of their mental anguish. Of all the cowardly, dastardly tricks!"

For sheer primitive rage, commend me to a thoroughgoing humanitarian when you get him well roused!

"If this thing's true," he said, "you can count on me. The fellow's not fit to live. A defenseless chap like Hawes."

A lame dog of any kind can always count on Haydock's sympathy.

He was eagerly arranging details with Melchett when Miss Marple rose and I insisted on seeing her home.

"It is most kind of you, Mr. Clement," said Miss Marple as we walked down the deserted street. "Dear me, past 12 o'clock. I hope Raymond has gone to bed and not waited up."

"He should have accompanied you," I said.

"I didn't let him know I was going," said Miss Marple.

I smiled suddenly as I remembered Raymond West's subtle psychological analysis of the crime.

"If your theory turns out to be the truth, which I for one do not doubt for a minute," I said, "you will have a very good score over your nephew."

Miss Marple smiled also—an indulgent smile.

"I remember a saying of my Great Aunt Fanny's. I was sixteen at the time and thought it particularly foolish."

"Yes?" I inquired.

"She used to say: 'The young people think the old people are fools, but the old people know the young people are fools!'"

. . . . . .

There is little more to be told. Miss Marple's plan succeeded. Lawrence Redding was not an innocent man, and the hint of a witness of the change of capsule did indeed cause him to do "something foolish." Such is the power of an evil conscience.

He was, of course, peculiarly placed. His first impulse, I imagine, must have been to cut and run. But there was his accomplice to consider. He could not leave without getting word to her, and he dared not wait till morning. So he went up to Old Hall that night, and two of Col. Melchett's most efficient officers followed him. He threw gravel at Anne Protheroe's window, aroused her, and an urgent whisper brought her down to speak with him. Doubtless they felt safer outside than in, with the possibility of Lettice waking. But as it happened the two police officers were able to overhear their conversation in full. It left the matter in no doubt. Miss Marple had been right on every count.

The trial of Lawrence Redding and Anne Protheroe is a matter of public knowledge. I do not propose to go into it. I will only mention that great credit was reflected upon Inspector Slack, whose zeal and intelligence had resulted in the criminals being brought to justice. Naturally nothing was said of Miss Marple's share in the business. She herself would have been horrified at the thought of such a thing.

Lettice came to see me just before the trial took place. She drifted through my study window wraithlike as ever. She told me then that she had all along been convinced of her stepmother's complicity. The loss of the yellow beret had been a mere excuse for searching the study. She hoped against hope that she might find something the police had overlooked.

"You see," she said in her dreamy voice, "they didn't hate her like I did. And hate makes things easier for you."

Disappointed in the result of her search she had deliberately dropped Anne's earring by the desk.

"Since I knew she had done it what did it matter? One way was as good as another. She had killed him."

I sighed a little. There are always some things that Lettice will never see. In some respects she is morally color blind.

"What are you going to do, Lettice?" I asked.

"When—when it's all over I am going abroad." She hesitated and then went on. "I am going abroad with my mother."

I looked up, startled.

She nodded.

"Didn't you ever guess? Mrs. Lestrange is my mother. She is—is dying, you know. She wanted to see me, and so she came down here under an assumed name. Dr. Haydock helped her. He's a very old friend of hers—he was keen about her once—you can see that! In a way he still is. Men always went batty about mother, I believe. She's awfully attractive even now. Anyway, Dr. Haydock did everything he could to help her. She didn't come down here under her own name because of the disgusting way people talk and gossip. She went to see father that night and told him she was dying and had a great longing to see something of me. Father was a beast. He said she'd forfeited all claim and that I thought she was dead—as though I had ever swallowed that story! Men like father never see an inch before their noses!

"But mother is not the sort to give in. She thought it only decent to go to father first, but when he turned her down so brutally she sent a note to me and I arranged to leave the tennis party early and meet her at the end of the footpath at a quarter past six. We just had a hurried meeting and arranged when to meet again. We left each other before half past six. Afterwards I was terrified that she would be suspected of having killed father. After all she had got a grudge against him. That's why I got hold of that old picture of her up in the attic and slashed its face. I was afraid the police might go nosing about and get hold of it and recognize it. Dr. Haydock was frightened, too. Sometimes, I believe, he really thought she had done it! Mother is rather a—desperate kind of person. She doesn't count consequences."

She paused.

"It's queer. She and I belong to each other. Father and I didn't. But mother—well, anyway, I'm going abroad with her. I shall be with her till—till the end——"

She got up and I took her hand.

"God bless you both," I said. "Some day, I hope, there is a lot of happiness coming to you, Lettice."

"There should be," she said, with an attempt at a laugh. "There hasn't been much so far—has there? O, well, I don't suppose it matters. Good-by, Mr. Clement. You've been frightfully decent to me always—you and Griselda."

Griselda!

I had to own to her how terribly the anonymous letter had upset me, and first she laughed, and then solemnly read me a lecture.

"However," she added, "I'm going to be very sober and Godfearing in future—quite like the Pilgrim fathers."

I did not see Griselda in the rôle of a Pilgrim father.

Good Morning:

This is an enjoyable bit of foolery, adapted from a French farce. Light as a feather, it is wafted merrily on its way by the breezy exuberance of Monsieur Chevalier.

The Frenchman, impersonating a Parisian waiter who comes into a fortune, has a large time, and you with him. The haphazard adventures of the irrepressible and irresponsible Albert bring joy to your hearts and laughter to your lips. You're especially joyous and laughing when Albert's pal, a kitchen helper in the café where the former waits table, is batting around with the new made millionaire. Paul is the name of the helper. Stuart Erwin, who specializes in comicalities of the gentle, earnest, bonehead type, is Paul—and do you love him! YOU DO!

The picture is well cast throughout and brightly directed. A blonde and a brunette play the principal feminine rôles. The former, Dorothy Christy, is a gorgeous looking creature who knows considerable about acting and wears clothes as well as Gloria Swanson ever did. The latter, Frances Dee, is a nice little thing who works hard.

Photography, sound, sets, etc., are to the good, and there's something nutty doing practically every minute. One regrets the infrequency with which Monsieur Chevalier bursts into song, but, la la, one can't have everything, and, on the whole, "Playboy of Paris" is fun.

Charming quilts can be made from bright colored scraps collected here and there. An expert dressmaker can stitch an allure of modishness into a little last year's frock. The clever housewife achieves remarkable results with all sorts of odds and ends—and a smart motion picture director named William K. Howard has built quite a classy cinema edifice from the chips of a lot of old plots.

"Scotland Yard" keeps nudging at the elbow of memory. It is constantly reminding you of books you've read and movies you've seen. But you'll like it any way, because of the smoothness of the action and the able, likeable folks who attend to the characterizations. Nice sound and photography contribute to your sense of the film's well being.

As to the story—"Scotland Yard" is given a hard nut to crack—and cracks it!—with unusual and humane consideration for the nut.

Edmund Lowe "doubles" effectively in the piece, impersonating now, a crook who is a gentleman and again a gentleman who is a crook. He achieves quite a laudable makeup and, as presented, the characters he portrays are real and appealing. The latter, probably, because the crook is really a man of quality, and the gentlemen, at crises, refuses to be a crook.

Joan Bennett is just as good an actress as, and much more winsome a person than, her more ballyhooed sister, Constance. Though pathetically thin, she is charming to look at, and has a lovely aloofness that indubitably belongs to the grand and not the stage manner. She hasn't much call for versatility in her present rôle, but what she does and what she says ring true every time.

Lumsden Hare is excellent as a shrewd and broad minded Scotland Yard official. Georges Renevant plays a surgeon to good effect. Barbara Leonard has several short but arresting entrances as a nurse, and Donald Crisp, fine all the way through, has one scene that is really brilliantly acted. All other rôles are pleasingly handled.

The picture is more or less exciting and deals out a number of laughs.

See you tomorrow.

X-RAY SHOWS ATOMS AT WORK MAKING ARTIFICIAL SILKS

New York, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Invention of a new X-ray tube which takes "snap shots at atoms" was announced to the New York section of the American Chemical society tonight.

"It opens an almost unbelievably wide field in industrial development," said Dr. George L. Clark, professor of chemistry of the University of Illinois, where the tube was perfected a few days ago.

The new tube takes in one minute difficult pictures that formerly required 100 hours, and in one-fiftieth of a second "simple" pictures that took two hours.

"In studying, for example," said Dr. Clark, "how cellulose is made over synthetically into artificial silks we formerly had to give an exposure of 100 hours, which only showed us the completed process, leaving us in ignorance of many of the intermediate steps that we needed to know most.

"This tube has taken a diffraction picture of cellulose in one minute. Then the next step, addition of sodium hydroxide to start mercerization, has been taken in the next minute. We now can stop the process at any phase and find out what is going on.

"The pictures open an almost unbelievably wide field in industrial development. Their study in artificial silks enables manufacturers to produce fibers of more strength and greater uniformity.

"They are useful in every chemical process, except those changes which take place instantaneously. They are the next thing to motion pictures of atoms."

U. of Illinois Raises Tuition, "Lab" Fees for Medics

Urbana, Ill., Oct. 17.—[Special.]—At the regular monthly meeting of the board of trustees of the University of Illinois this afternoon the tuition and laboratory fees for students enrolling in the college of medicine, located at Chicago, were raised for residents of Illinois as well as for nonresidents.

Heretofore the tuition and laboratory fees for residents of Illinois were $165, but will now be $200. The fees for nonresidents of Illinois formerly were $200 but have been increased to $300.

The board of trustees also accepted formally the offer of the Illinois Press association of eight busts of outstanding newspaper men which are to be unveiled in the Illinois editorial hall of fame during the annual meeting of the Illinois Press association on Nov. 21. Each bust is valued at $2,500.

Busts are of the following editors: Joseph Medill, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, by Oscar Hansen.

Elijah Lovejoy, martyred abolition editor of Alton, by Oscar Hansen.

Victor Lawson, Chicago Daily News, by Lorado Taft.

400,000 Quotations Tell Changing Story of American Language

More than 400,000 quotations gathered from American publications of the last 300 years for use in the compilation of a historical dictionary of the American language now are on file at the University of Chicago.

Prof. Sir William Craigie of England, who was knighted for his work as editor of the Oxford dictionary, is in charge of a group of graduate students who are compiling the quotations.

In explaining the purpose of the dictionary Sir William said:

"These 400,000 quotations indicate the remarkable growth of the American language as distinguished from the English language.

"American inventiveness, combined with strange and rich conditions which faced the pioneers, have brought forth in three centuries of American cultural independence changes of language comparable to the great Elizabethan period of England."

Prof. Craigie added that the new work would be by no means a dictionary of "slang," but would stress new words originated in America and new uses of old expressions. Prof. Craigie and his assistants already have been engaged for four years in the research which he said would take about 50 years to complete. However, he hopes to complete a "usable" preliminary dictionary in the next few years.

Mayor Walker Refuses O.K. on Infant Prodigy's Concert

New York, Oct. 17.—[Special.]—Mayor James J. Walker, acting on a protest by Pietro Ricci, San Francisco bandmaster, refused today to grant a permit for Ruggiero Ricci, 10 year old violinist, to play in a concert tonight at Carnegie hall.

The refusal of the mayor to let the so-called "infant prodigy" play was made after he learned from counsel that the boy's parents opposed his playing in public for profit, and that Frederick H. V. Bartlett, a director of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil company, who had been financing the lad's musical studies, also was opposed to the exploitation of the child and had offered to pay all of his expenses for a thorough education until he becomes sufficiently mature to give concerts.

Parents of the child, the mayor was told, are now seeking to recover custody of him and a 9 year old brother from Miss Elizabeth Lackey of Berkeley, Cal., their guardian.

CHICAGO SYMPHONY OPENS SEASON; WILL PLAY 117 CONCERTS

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Once again the golden season of symphony concerts has arrived. Mr. Stock and the Chicago Symphony orchestra took the stage of Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon to play the first of 117 concerts that are on their schedule between now and the end of next April, some twenty-eight weeks from now.

It is the real beginning of the musical season, this time when strings tune up and trombones raise their brazen arms on high. Then begins the period of fine compositions, of stimulating performances, of everything that makes the hearing of music to rank among the better things of life's experiences. If, from as far away as Leeds, England, a newspaper can say that the Chicago Symphony orchestra is one of the best in the world, as one of the program pages proclaimed yesterday, and base the statement on a talking machine record, there is the greater reason for us, who hear the orchestra constantly at first hand, to say the same thing, and better to think it.

As ever in the beginning of a new season, there were a few changes in the personnel of the organization. The most important changes made since last spring are a new concertmaster, Mischa Mischakoff, and a new principal cellist, David Saidenberg. It is probable that Mr. Stock, a canny person in his estimate of musicians' ability, has filled the two vacancies with two highly competent artists. At least the first violin and cello sections moved with force, accuracy, and the elegance of style that both Mr. Stock and the orchestral patrons demand. In other words, these sections were fully as good as the rest of the orchestra.

Likewise according to custom, the program was drawn from some of the best standard works of the repertoire. Weber's overture to "Der Freischuetz" opened the program. Then came the "Benedictus" by the late Philo Adams Otis, for many years secretary of the Orchestral association, played as a memorial to a man who for sixty years did fine service for the music of Chicago.

The Franck symphony, warm, imaginative, beautifully colored, a stunning performance of Richard Strauss' "Don Juan," and the lively rhythms of Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Capriccio Espagnol," made up the rest of the program, a first class thing of its kind and a persuasive promise that from a musical standpoint Chicago is going to be a pleasant place this season.

Human Ear, Brain, Act Like Telephone to Electric Current

Thought transference, scrambled speech and the translation of mechanical impulses into speech were a few of the media by which Dr. Sergius P. Grace, assistant vice president of the Bell Telephone laboratories, yesterday dumfounded some 1,000 persons attending a luncheon of the Illinois Manufacturers' association at the Stevens hotel. Dr. Grace gave his audience a demonstration of recent electrical developments.

Perhaps the most uncanny event on the program was the transfer of thought through Dr. Grace's finger direct to a man's brain. The scientist spoke into a telephone transmitter and by means of an amplifier what he said could be heard all over the room. While he was talking a part of the current used was stored in a "delay" circuit.

Then, after being stored four and a half seconds, this electrical current was transformed to high voltage and passed into Dr. Grace's body. At this stage Dr. Grace placed a finger against the ear of a member of the audience, who then heard directly in his brain the same sentence which Dr. Grace had spoken into the phone a few minutes before.

This amazing feat was explained as "being due to the ear drum and surrounding tissues being made to act as one plate of a condenser receiver, the resulting vibrations of the ear being interpreted by the brain as speech."

Another event that impressed the audience was the calling of a New York telephone number by the dial system. Howard Blakeslee, scientific editor of the Associated Press, was the first person called. Blakeslee's remarks into the phone were amplified through a loud speaker so they could be heard all over the room.

Dr. Grace gave a demonstration of "scrambled" or "inverted" speech which may be used to make radio conversations secret. This speech is ordinary speech with the frequencies, or tones, reversed so that the high frequencies become low frequencies When put into effect any conversation becomes unintelligible. Newly invented devices convert the "inverted" speech into its original form.

'Marriage? Not for Thinkers,' Singer Declares

Geraldine Farrar Talks from Her Experience.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Geraldine Farrar returned to Chicago yesterday after a two years' absence, sparkling and brimming with energy.

But, looking out at Lake Michigan in the dusk from a window in her room in the Congress hotel, she talked not of autumn but of the spring in 1907 when she first sang in Chicago—sang "Poor Butterfly" in "Mme. Butterfly" at the old Auditorium. She said, "The dear old Auditorium—it's so beautiful. I read about its future as a miniature golf course. It stabbed me."

Then the talk turned quite naturally to love and romance, other quaint subjects. She spent an hour telling why she never had married again after her divorce from Lou Tellegen.

"I am romantic," she said, "but I never married again because—well, a woman, unfortunately, must be completely subjugated, or completely independent.

"I never had time to try being an old fashioned wife. I couldn't afford to. I supported others, I paid for everything, I was in the midst of a career. And I had that awful urge—a curse or a blessing—to do something, the urge before which an artist is helpless.

"A few women who are artists—Schumann-Heink, for example—can be happy married, happy in their motherhood. But in most cases it is impossible. Masculinity is imbued with a lot of vanity. If a woman has a career and any glory whatsoever, her husband is perfectly miserable.

"There is current now among husbands in general an awful resentment against women. It is subconscious, and expresses itself in peculiar ways. All classes of men have it. The only thing they can say about it is that they want women to be womanly.

"Just what being womanly is I've never learned. I like feminine women, and am one. But I am feminist in this respect—I like to think my own thoughts and even express them. I never cared about suffrage—it didn't matter to me whether I ever voted. But no matter how enchanting many aspects of men's vanity are, I don't see how any thinking woman can like being dominated as one must be to be successful in marriage. For that matter, marriage is not for thinking women—or men."

Miss Farrar regretted the passing of an age when men and women took pride in the work of their hands, when a woman cooked and served a meal with infinite care and concern. "What if a grace was said before the family sat down to eat, did it hurt any one?" she asked.

"Yet women are better off today," she said. "Think of how a man used to cherish his wife—and treat her like a perfect child. She never was told what salary he made, or what his income was. That was for him to look out for. Then when he died she often realized that instead of being well off she was penniless and she had to spend the rest of her life visiting relatives until they were tired of her, then moving on to more relatives."

"When young singers come to me now," she added, "I say, 'My dear, you are young and pretty. Try to go in the talkies. You can be a success in five years—then, of course, it is over.' Opera is in a sad way."

Silver Fox Is Popular with Fall Suits

The perennially popular silver fox is appearing these days as an accompaniment to the suits and coats worn by smartly dressed women. The lovely fur neckpiece is especially appropriate with a black and white costume such as the suit Mrs. Thomas G. Wheelock was seen wearing the other day on Michigan avenue.

The suit of a black woolen weave is two piece, with a skirt of the regulation daytime length and a coat belted at the waist and flaring at the hemline, which is fully six inches longer than that of the average suit coat of other seasons. The coat is lined with white satin, which forms the revers and borders the cuffs of the slim fitting sleeves. A small black felt hat, the ubiquitous silver fox neckpiece, suede bag and slippers complete the ensemble.

Mrs. Laird Bell, who comes into town frequently from Hubbard Woods in the interests of her pet charitable enterprises, wears a two piece navy blue suit with a blue felt hat and fox neckpiece. Mrs. Huntington Henry, seen at lunch one day this week at the Woman's exchange, was wearing a black coat with shoulder capes and one of the new tricorn felt hats with a nose veil of black lace. Mrs. Henry also carried a silver fox scarf.

Mrs. Austin Niblack on one of the less chilly days wore a black crêpe dress with two inverted plaits to form a flare in the skirt. The bodice of the dress is trimmed with the newly popular turquoise blue, which forms a yoke set in two pointed pieces at either side of the neckline. The sleeves, from elbow to wrist are also of the same shade of blue. With this dress Mrs. Niblack wears a black vagabond hat and silver fox.

Glossy Hair More Flattering to Face Than Dry Marcels

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY

It is the opinion of a much traveled and keenly observant woman, whose business, too, involves a close study of women, that American girls and women take their marcels too seriously and often. They spoil their faces with that hard set, but correct wave to which they are universally addicted.

"It doesn't matter so much what the young things do," she claims. They can do anything with their hair and, if they are young enough, get away with it. But, thinks the women's observer, older women could add much more youth to their faces if they went in more for gloss and smooth coiffures and less for brittle waving.

"Look at yourself," she says. "Look at yourself before you go to get your wave, while your hair is still what you'd call dirty. There is a gloss in it, due to the presence of oil. Look again when you come out from under the iron all primped for the prince and see how much more clearly the fine lines in the face show up. You cannot but be convinced that a smooth and well oiled coiffure is kinder to the face than the other."

Of course, hair has to be washed and curled for many good reasons. And there is a good deal to the claim that before the hairdressing date one's face is lent a softness from the lubricated hair. Still, the lubricating of the locks can be attended to with clean hair. The hairdresser will even see to it, on demand. He will smooth you down with a brilliantined palm. He'll rub oil in under the wave, if you ask him to grease the scalp a bit. But that touch of gloss is what gives the face a softer expression, no doubt.

And as long as we have to take our finger waves, marcels, or permanents with frequency, we will have to get into the habit of greasing the locks somehow, for the fair face's sake. When the hair is brushed is the best time to apply the gloss. Just a bit on the brush after you have run greased fingers across and around the scalp. Distribute it evenly with hair-brush strokes.

Arts Club Exhibits Show Fine Results of Founders' Methods

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The first exhibition of the Arts club each year for several years has been a review of the drawings and plans executed by students of the Lake Forest Foundation for Architecture and Landscape Architecture. That is another artistic enterprise worthy to be written up side by side with the achievements of Ravinia.

The students are drawn chiefly from the middle west and they are in every case picked men. They come with honors from their own universities. The summer course at Lake Forest simply opens more doors of beauty and information to them.

This year's Arts club exhibition opened yesterday afternoon with the galleries hung in most delightful fashion with pencil sketches and etchings, plans and landscape designs. In the smaller room is the work of several Fellowship men. Apparently there are two scholarships of note offered in the Foundation. The one is the Condé Nast and the other the Edward L. Ryerson, both scholarships being offered in architecture and landscape architecture.

Paul M. Hefferman is represented by an excellent glimpse of New York City, "Lower Manhattan," and a leisurely southern drawl in pencil, "Charleston Street Scenes." The view of the Chicago river with the romance of bridge building hovering over it, by Marvin R. Dobberman, is extremely good. Francis J. Hensel offers a brilliant sketch of Michigan avenue bridge looking south. Otis Will appears to be an unusually gifted artist. His two drawings, particularly the bridge of Florence or Venice, are modern, alive and utterly fascinating.

The problems which have been worked out in greatest detail are those for a memorial park and museum and for a recreation center. In addition to these are a number of interesting plots of various Lake Forest holdings, the Pike estate, the Edward L. Ryerson "Havenwood," the Hamill garage and the De Forest Hulburd house. They are capitally done and of sufficient beauty to attract the eye of those who do not recognize the grounds and buildings which they bear witness to. Among them all one that must not be overlooked is the very clever sanctuary, a tree-house, which is possibly based on the suggestion of Helen Walker's clever Polish husband. He had just such another in his book of designs last year.

The exhibit will continue to November 1.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Little Jean had adored twin brothers so much alike that friends had difficulty telling them apart. Jean, however, had always been able to do so. But one day her mother heard her crying bitterly. On inquiring the trouble, she received this reply: "O, mother, I hit the wrong one!"

M. D.

While out walking with my four year old daughter we met an aged woman with a grind organ. This amused my daughter very much. On returning home she said to her older brother, "Clarence, I saw a truck full of music today."

Surgeon Warns Girls Against Extreme Styles in Modern Footwear

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 17.—(AP)—The flapper was cautioned by Dr. Philip H. Kreuscher of Chicago today to be careful of her footwear and posture as a safeguard of health.

Dr. Kreuscher is vice president of the American College of Surgeons, in session here.

"Among young women," Dr. Kreuscher said, "style and custom have decreed that certain abnormal articles of clothing and footwear be worn, with the result that postural deformities occur which are productive of impaired health.

"Improper footwear eventually interferes with normal gait and posture. The careless postural habits of the present day flapper make for poor and faulty body development.

"A national movement for the development of the body of the youth which encourages out of door life and athletic activities practiced with reason would do much in the prevention of deformities and resultant invalidism."

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Oct. 17.—[Special.]—Mrs. I. Sheldon Tinsy gave a dinner dance tonight for her niece, Miss Elizabeth Munn, the debutante daughter of Mr. Orson D. Munn, and later took her guests to a supper dance in aid of the Association of Day Nurseries.

Mrs. William Thayer Brown of Llewellyn Park sailed today on the Homeric for Europe, where she will spend eight months traveling.

Doris Urges Wife to Give Husband a Little Sympathy

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I have an elderly dependent, my mother, and a 6 year old daughter who is delicate, and a husband grown sick and irritable with his obligations to us all, his failure to save any money, to have any of the gay jaunts he used to have before he married me seven years ago. He says time and again he is sick and tired of married life.

"The child, a little beauty, but also a little spoiled, and more through her father's attentions than mine, irritates him terribly at times, and then he is most ugly to me.

"I'd like to leave him, earn money, and give him back the money he spent on us—give him his golden freedom of which he speaks so often—but there is the little girl. I can't change his views. We have talked and talked.

"He is 40 and much older than I, and he says he must be the wiser. Etc., etc. MRS. D. S. D."

Why the silly talk about giving the man his golden freedom or about getting out of his way? There is no such thing as golden freedom in this world of ours, and the heroic gesture of getting out of a man's way is simply hooey. As for attempting to pay him back for his own assumed marriage responsibilities, that would be wasted philanthropy.

What the household needs, I suspect, is a little rearranging—the child put to bed earlier at night until the man has recovered his nerves. Instead of talking and talking and trying to convert the man's viewpoint to yours, try no talking and a good deal of petting and praising of the husband, who, after all, is supporting your mother along with yourself and child.

Getting on into the forties, it is discouraging to realize that there are no rainy day savings, nothing financial to show for the years of work. Be a little more understanding of the psychological unrest that comes upon some men at this age.

Perhaps the happiest solution of all would be for you to take a hand at earning, too. Part time work, if you can get it. It is not the best time right now to make the suggestion, I know, with the unemployment crises in the country. But show you willingness to help this way and assure your husband that when things pick up you will help save with him.

Applause Sure, but the Show Will Be Snappy

BY THALIA

Unlike the performers in professional theatrical productions, the cherines and danseuses in the Service club's annual musical show, "Snappy Service," to be presented on the Civic Opera house stage this evening, can rest well assured that their audience will think they are perfectly wonderful.

No matter if one of the "ponies" misses a step, or the scenery falls over at a crucial moment, or any of the other minor catastrophes that usually characterize amateur stage affairs occurs. The fond grandparents, parents, the uncles, aunts and cousins present will be bound to applaud vociferously in spite of all. Each actress will have a group of admirers to whom she is THE STAR of the performance. And, withal, the revue will be a sound financial success, filling the Service club's charity coffers with the proceeds from box and ticket sales, and from the cabaret ball to take place at the Drake hotel following the revue.

There are to be solos, ensemble numbers, skits, and choruses, all in simulation of the approved Broadway spectacle style, with glitteringly lavish costumes and settings. This year's debutantes, who have been rehearsing for the last month, to appear include Florence Otis, Betty Offield, Barbara and Dorothy Senn, Katherine and Jeanne Street, Winifred Wheeler, Evelyn Bouscaren, Lucy Stone, Leila Withers, Lucie Jacobs, Gloria Griffiths, Helen Howell, Anne Ashcraft, Ann Elizabeth Walsh, Mary MacCaghey, Jane Martin, and Emily Battelle.

Evidence that the social season is finally getting under way could be seen in the large attendance at the Arts' club tea yesterday afternoon to open the exhibition of the Foundation for Architecture and Landscape Architecture. The president, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, who arrived yesterday from New York, came straight from the train for a brief look at the exhibit and promised to come back later.

Other early arrivals were Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick and Mrs. Francis Johnson, Mrs. Lewis Louer, Miss Agnes Foreman, Mrs. Alfred Martin, Mrs. Frederick Murphy, Mrs. Alfred Bowes, Mrs. Edward Leight, Mrs. Augustus A. Carpenter, and her daughter, Mrs. Stuart H. Otis.

Tea was served in the large gallery at a long lace covered table with yellow tapers in bronze candelabra in the center. There was a huge urn of yellow roses at each end. Among those who took turns pouring were Mrs. Edwin Clark, Mrs. Frank Hixon, Mrs. Charles Schweppe, Mrs. Clyde M. Carr, Mrs. Duncan Hodges, and Mrs. Shreve Badger.

The American Opera society is to hold its fall luncheon at the Congress hotel on Oct. 30. The David Bispham Memorial medal will be presented to 4 composers of American operas, which will make a total of 33 awards of the medal since its establishment in 1923.

Mrs. Eleanor Everest Freer, chairman of the award committee, announces that the recipients of the honor will be Pietro Floridia for the opera "Paoletta," Karl Schmidt for the opera "Lady of the Lake," Mary Carr Moore for "Cost of Empire, or Narcissa," and Charles S. Skilton for "Kalopin." Mrs. Freer has spent the greater part of the summer investigating new or recent operas, and in her report states that she has eight composers to recommend for future awards.

A program consisting of excerpts from "Paoletta" will be given by a group of young singers, accompanied by Alexander MacFadyn. Miss Emily Larned is president of the society this year.

Mrs. Charles Howells Coffin of Winnetka is to give a debut tea for her daughter, Miss Irene Coffin, at her residence this afternoon from 4 to 7 o'clock.

Mrs. Murry Nelson of 44 East Elm street will give a tea this afternoon at her residence for Miss Amelia Sears. Mrs. C. J. Hambleton and Mrs. William E. Parsons will assist at the tea table.

Charles B. Pike and his brother, Eugene Pike, set forth on Thursday for a session of duck hunting in southern Illinois. Mrs. Pike was forced to remain behind because she broke a wrist last Saturday. The Pikes are planning to keep their Lake Forest residence open for another fortnight before coming in to their apartment at 1100 Lake Shore drive.

Mrs. John D. C. Towne has returned to Chicago for the winter and has taken an apartment at 242 East Walton street.

Mrs. Leslie Wheeler is back from Aiken, S. C., having gone there with her two boys to see them established in prep school for the winter.

Mrs. Tiffany Blake of 1301 Astor street went to Champaign, Ill., yesterday to attend a meeting of the board of trustees of the University of Illinois, and today goes on to be a member of one of Robert H. Allerton's famed house parties at his country place at Monticello.

Mr. and Mrs. Le Grand Cannon of 6733 Paxton avenue are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter, Louise Carolyn, yesterday morning at St. Luke's hospital. Mrs. Cannon is the former Miss Helen Louise West, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy O. West.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 17.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hoover has gone to the President's camp on the Rapidan to join her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hoover Jr., who will leave shortly for Asheville, N. C. There they have leased for six months a small bungalow on Sunset mountain. Eight years ago William Jennings Bryan passed a summer in the house.

Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, sister of the Vice President, gave a tea today in honor of the officers of the American Society of Industrial Engineers, holding a conference in Washington, and their wives. She was assisted by Mrs. Albion Noyes Doe of Jackson Heights, L. I.

The ambassador from Mexico, Señor Don Manuel C. Tellez, is back from Jacksonville, Fla. He was accompanied by Señor Don Carlos Barrera, secretary of the embassy. The minister of South Africa, Mr. Eric Henrik Louw, gave a dinner tonight.

Mrs. David H. Kincheloe, wife of the new associate justice of the court of customs, gave a dinner tonight. She soon will join Mr. Kincheloe in New York.

The assistant secretary of the navy, Mr. Ernest Lee Jahncke, will have as his guests tomorrow at the Navy vs. Duke university football game at Annapolis the assistant secretary of the treasury and Mrs. Walter E. Hope, Miss Marion Hope, Mr. Stanton Jahncke, Lieutenant Commander T. Dewitt Carr, and Lieut. William E. Erskine. Among the debutante group to attend the game will be Miss Margaret Calvert and Miss Eleanor Calvert, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Calvert Jr.

CHICAGOANS SAILING

New York, Oct. 17.—[Special.]—Ford Bentley of Chicago was a passenger on the White Star liner Homeric, sailing tonight for Cherbourg and Southampton. Other Chicagoans to leave port for European points were Mrs. Hubert Burnham and Miss Cherie Burnham, Miss Ruth B. Kimball, Mrs. Carolina Meyer, Mrs. F. M. Peter, and Miss Jane Peter.

Special Services Today Honor Bishop Stewart's Rectorate in Evanston

Special services today terminate the twenty-six year rectorate of Bishop George Craig Stewart at St. Luke's Episcopal church, Evanston. At a recent meeting of the vestry of that church, Bishop Stewart, who became coadjutor of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago in June, offered his resignation to take effect on St. Luke's day. That occurs in the church calendar on Oct. 18.

A reception tonight at the church rectory closes Bishop Stewart's leave taking ceremonies which consist of three celebrations of holy communion this morning with Bishop Stewart officiating. The reception tonight has been arranged by the vestry and various societies of the church under the leadership of T. T. Lyman, warden of the parish.

Bishop Stewart was elected rector emeritus of the church, and the Rev. John B. Hubbard was appointed priest in charge until the election of a successor to Bishop Stewart. The Rev. Mr. Hubbard will be assisted by the present clergy staff consisting of the Rev. Gardner A. MacWhorter and the Rev. James E. Charles. No names of possible choices of the vestry for the rectorate have been revealed. It has been announced, however, that a wide search—reaching as far as England, it is said—is being made by a special committee of the vestry.

Tomorrow Bishop Stewart will be the guest of honor in his former parish. He will celebrate solemn eucharist at 11, in the morning, administer baptism at 3 in the afternoon and preach the sermon to the national convention of the Girls' Friendly society at 4 and speak to the Gamma Delta society at 6:30. Bishop Stewart will continue to live at Evanston in the rectory of St. Luke's church.

52 INJURED IN EXPLOSION LAID TO GAS OR REDS

Los Angeles Factory Building Wrecked.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 17.—[Special.]—A terrific explosion, caused either by leaking illuminating gas or, as some fire and police experts suspect, by an explosive planted by communists, blew up the twelve story Capitol Garment building at 7:26 this morning, just four minutes before the advance shift of 1,200 men and women was due at work.

The explosion injured 52 persons, some of them employés who had already entered the building. Some of those injured may die. Estimates of the property damage varied between $1,000,000 and $3,000,000.

The automobile of the police anti-communist squad, which had been stationed in front of the building almost constantly for three days as a result of threats in a garment union strike, was destroyed by the blast.

Dozens Trapped in Building.

Flames immediately engulfed the building, and all fire apparatus in the downtown area was rushed to rescue dozens of persons entrapped on upper floors.

Fire Chief Ralph Scott said his men found no evidence of a leak in illuminating gas, but two officials of the Cloakmakers' union stated that women workers had complained that they smelled illuminating gas ever since Monday.

Lieut. William Hynes, in charge of the police communist squad that watched the place, declared it would have been impossible for any one to have planted a bomb in the building last night.

Police Chemists Ray Pinker and Spencer Moxley, however, said their analysis of bits of plaster, linoleum, glass and other debris, indicated traces of T. N. T. or some other high explosive.

Eyewitnesses' Story.

Hyman Schulman, proprietor of a garment shop in the building, told officers that the explosion occurred when he turned the switch controlling the burglar alarm system.

Schulman's shop was on the fifth floor, where damage was greatest.

SCIENCE UNVEILS TEXT OF SECOND ANDREE DIARY

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Prof. Theodor Svedberg, the Upsala expert who has been attempting to make readable the second diary left by the arctic explorer Salomon August Andree, announced today he had succeeded in making one-third of the fragmentary text legible. Prof. Svedberg said he had performed the work by using the visible spectrum and ultra red light.

Prof. J. G. Anderson, speaking on behalf of the government's Andree committee, said the part now deciphered deals with the life of Andree and his two companions on White island beginning in October, 1897, and contains notes regarding the nature of the frigid spot and preparations for a winter camp.

Plunges 14 Stories to Death as Scores Watch

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 17.—[Special.]—While a score of workers in office buildings watched helplessly, Mrs Roberta Buehler, widow of a former head master of Hotchkiss school at Lakeville, Conn., plunged to death from a fourteenth floor balcony window of the Bellevue-Stratford hotel today. Depression resulting from the death of her husband in 1924 was believed to have been the cause. Mrs. Buehler sat for several minutes upon the stone ledge before leaping, and hotel employés were racing to her room.

Unusual Value at

$13.95

It's bound to "go over big" with the boys, because it has all the features that they insist on in a leather coat—large shawl collar of wombatine (dyed sheepskin), warm wool plaid lining, deep pockets. And the price, if we're not mistaken, will have a strong appeal for the purse that pays the bill. Sizes 8 to 18 years. Very specially priced at $13.95.

Fifth Floor, Wabash.

SHOE CANDIDATE

$10

For Football Games For Street, Office And Informal Wear

An early poll of fashion-wise women shows that this suede oxford in black or brown is decidedly among the elect. It's trimmed with baby alligator, which gives it a briskness of manner. With its continental heel, it's absolutely correct with the smart ensemble. And it's moderately priced and an exceptional value.

Third Floor.

SILK FROCKS

Which Come in The Four Outstanding Fall Colors

$17.50

And besides, this frock has many unique features. First, there's the soft cowl neckline, which is accented by a pert boutonniere of leather flowers.

Then there's the broad hipband, which is drawn into a sash in the front, while an opening in the back discloses a white bodice with a row of small buttons. In sizes 14 to 38, and in colors:

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 17.—Part of the answer to the problem of whether Notre Dame can go through another season unblemished on the gridiron will be answered tomorrow afternoon in the hollow of the new $750,000 stadium formally dedicated last week at the expense of the Navy middies.

The answer will come from the heavy, seasoned embryo engineers of Carnegie Tech, who either will fold up to perpetuate the tradition that Notre Dame is almost unbeatable at home or will fulfill the predictions of Knute Rockne, the strategist of the Fighting Irish, that his youths are three touchdowns weaker than their foes of the sorrow.

Gloom Serves a Purpose.

The feeling, despite Rockne's gloomy attitude, is that if Notre Dame loses at all it will be one of those slim margins which answer nothing as to the superiority of either eleven. Mr. Rockne's gloom, it should be understood, serves a purpose.

That Rockne might believe as he talks was indicated this afternoon when he handed his players their final lesson in how to halt the famous plunging Karcis and the frail but dodging Eyth. Rockne, wearing civvies and apparently disregarding his year old ailments, walked out on a field swept by a frigid breeze and for a few minutes enacted the rôle of a Carnegie quarter back. He called the Tartans' pet plays in a shadow scrimmage against the first string varsity. He wanted to impress on the latter just what they should expect tomorrow when they see certain preliminary maneuvers in the Scots' back field.

Wary of Passing Attack.

Seemingly, Rockne fears the Carnegie passing attack which is known to be intricate and effective. Not only the Scots' backs but the ends as well must be watched as throwers of the oval. He has been stressing this part of the offense all week, so possibly he is not as much concerned about Karcis' plunges as he indicates. A year ago when Notre Dame whipped Carnegie, 7 to 0, Karcis did nothing of consequence. Rockne may believe that he can employ the same method against the powerful Lithuanian tomorrow.

Some of Rockne's professed fears may be due to the fact that Carnegie, as it will be made up tomorrow, is two elevens in one. Rockne has enjoyed this unique distinction for several years, and is candid enough to admit it is an advantage. Now the Scots are coming up with a first team and a set of shock troops. The latter are a bit shy in the line, but the four back field men are proclaimed to be as skilled as the first varsity quartet. Last year Armentrout was the biggest grief against Notre Dame. This year he is one of the second stringers.

May Start Shock Troops.

Rockne is anticipating the regular Carnegie line and the second string back field at the start of the game. Possibly he gained this information from self-appointed scouts who watched the Scots work out this afternoon at Elkhart. As for his own layout he isn't so informative. He wants everybody to think he might open up with the eleven regulars. The belief is that he will start off with the shock troops and make the change to the first varsity as soon as he detects signs of Carnegie's strength.

That Carnegie can't be taken lightly by anybody is proved by the fact that six of the eleven regulars are playing their third year. There are five other three year men who have been supplanted by younger talent. This, of course, indicates Carnegie's strength.

Eighth Meeting on Gridiron.

While Rockne hasn't mentioned much about his own offense, undoubtedly he has a pretty fair idea that it will function fairly well, possibly to the extent of three touchdowns. He doesn't talk about it, but he has a very complicated pass attack of his own. Then there is Joe Savoldi, who hasn't shaved for a week because he thinks whiskers make it easier to slide through the line. Savoldi will function as plunging full back, but he also is fairly adept as a flank runner, so must be watched closely.

Tomorrow's meeting of the Scots and Irish will be the eighth. Of the seven already played, Notre Dame has won five.

Miss Collett and Miss Van Wie Meet Today for U.S. Golf Title

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 17.—(AP)—Glenna Collett moved one step nearer her objective—a fifth women's national championship—today with a five and three victory over Helen Hicks, 19 year old Inwood, N. Y., star, in the semi-finals of the national tournament.

Defender of her title and favorite of the crowd, Miss Collett tomorrow will face Virginia Van Wie of Chicago in the 36 hole final. Miss Van Wie fought her way to the last bracket with a 2 and 1 victory over Mrs. O. S. Hill of Kansas City, tournament medalist.

While a gallery of nearly 2,000 persons thrilled to her long tee shots and well executed approaches, Miss Collett strode over the rolling fairways of this difficult layout to post 38, one under par, for the first nine. She finished with a swarm of birdies that had her four under standard figures when the match ended on the 15th.

Hits Long Drives.

Miss Hicks, most brilliant of the younger players, found herself taking second to Miss Collett in shots from the tee today. Outdriven by many yards most of the time, the Inwood girl was continually pressing—she played more second shots out of the rough than is usually the case. She had a 42 for the first nine.

From the first hole to the last, Miss Collett was superior. She won the first two holes with pars four and five respectively and was never threatened. She won the third with a birdie 3, but lost the next hole to a par 4.

The next three holes were halved in pars and Miss Collett made it 3 up again with a birdie 5 on the 8th. Miss Hicks won the 9th with a par 3 to cut her rival's lead to 2 up at the turn and her birdie 4 took the tenth to make the count 1 up for the defending champion.

Miss Van Wie Steady.

After that it was Miss Collett's show. She won the eleventh with a birdie 3, captured the 12th with a par 4 and after halving the next hole in par 5, won the 14th and 15th with birdies to clinch the match.

Her finish on the 140 yard 15th was a drive seven feet past the pin and she holed the putt, Miss Hicks meanwhile sending her tee shot into a trap but recovering nicely for a six foot putt and a par 3.

Neither Mrs. Hill nor Miss Van Wie exhibited remarkable golf but the latter was the steadier. Usually a fine short game player, Mrs. Hill was either weak or strong with her irons.

The match was close all the way, with Miss Van Wie holding a 2 up lead at the turn. She made it 3 up at the 10th and the next two holes were halved. Miss Van Wie made it 4 up with a par 5 on the 13th but just when she seemed to have the situation well in hand her opponent rallied to make things interesting again.

Mrs. Hill won back the 14th with a birdie 5 and cut her opponents' lead to 2 up when she took the 15th with a birdie 3. The next two holes were halved in birdie fours and par fives, respectively, Miss Van Wie coasting out with the scores.

FINALISTS

VIRGINIA VAN WIE GLENNA COLLETT.

Michigan and Ohio State in 27th Battle

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Columbus, O., Oct. 17.—Tonight this metropolis is the mecca of Michigan and Ohio State alumni, for on the morrow these rival universities will celebrate their twenty-seventh football festival. Seventy-two thousand, from the vantage of the steeply banked, double decked tiers, will watch the annual rites on the green sward of the bowl below.

The scarlet and gray of Ohio and the maize and blue of Michigan, prominently displayed in business houses and on the campus, advertise the interest which tonight permits no other topic. Michigan's athletes, commanded by Fielding Yost and Harry Kipke, arrived this morning. In the afternoon the players unlimbered on the stadium practice field and were followed immediately by the Buckeyes under the direction of Sam Willaman and Don Miller.

Canvas Protects Field.

Michigan's squad reached town just after the hazy, warm days of Indian summer had departed before an autumnal rain. But by midafternoon the sun broke through the gray blanket of clouds, although the temperature continued to fall. The rain will not affect the playing field, for it is protected by huge canvas layers which will not be removed until an hour before game time.

Ten thousand Wolverine adherents, accompanied by Michigan's bandsmen, will arrive in the morning on eight special trains to leaven the majority of Ohioans who profess complete faith that the Buckeyes will win a third consecutive triumph over Michigan.

Ohio has slight cause for glory in the records of 26 years of competition, for it has won only five times since

Kane, Mandell's Former Manager, Dies at Petoskey

Petoskey, Mich., Oct. 17.—(AP)—Eddie Kane, for nearly a quarter of a century a prominent figure in the world of sports, died in a hospital here tonight of pneumonia after a five day's illness. He was 42 years old.

EDDIE KANE.

Most of his managerial career was allied with the boxing arena, with Mike and Tommy Gibbons and Sammy Mandell, former lightweight champion, his most famous protégés. He broke with Mandell after the bout of last summer in which Al Singer won the title. Before invading the boxing game Kane had managed Jake Schaeffer and Willie Hoppe, two of the most colorful and most successful exponents of professional billiards.

He is survived by his father, Frank Kane of Washington, D. C., and a son, William, 20 years old, of Chicago. Funeral arrangement. have not been made, but burial probably will be in Washington, D. C., where he was born.

DEATH SHOCKS MANDELL.

Sammy Mandell, who was in Chicago last night, said he was shocked by Kane's death.

"While we parted because of business diffefences we remained good friends," Sammy said.

Kane became Mandell's manager nine years ago when the Rockford fighter was beginning to attract nationa' prominence as a title contender.

Under Kane's supervision Mandell won the lightweight championship. He held it for four years until dethroned by Al Singer, present title holder. Mandell became dissatisfied with Kane as manager shortly after his bout with Tony Canzoneri at the Chicago stadium a year ago. They parted ways after Sammy lost his title.

Striving to avenge a 12 to 6 defeat handed their predecessors in 1926, a hard driving Florida football team meets the University of Chicago on Stagg field this afternoon. It will be the first of three intersectional contests for the Maroons, Mississippi and Princeton visiting the Midway the next two successive Saturdays.

Charley Bachman is reputed to have assembled a power house this year, Auburn and North Carolina State having been turned back in impressive fashion. Consequently the Gators are heavy favorites in the tussel this afternoon, though the Maroons are a much improved team over the outfit that took a 34 to 0 licking at Madison last Saturday. Intensive work on blocking and tackling this week is reported to have worked wonders with the Midway eleven.

Gators Outweigh Maroons.

The terrific heat last week-end has been ascribed as the main reason for the huge Wisconsin score, as there were no Maroon reserves to plug in when the starting lineup wilted. Today's snappy weather will eliminate that element and give Chicago fans a chance to see just what talent the squad contains.

The Gators have a heavy squad, and though Coach Stagg has mustered his heaviest men to balance the starting Florida forwards, the southern backs will outweigh the Maroons by sixteen pounds a man. That advantage in driving power will have to be overcome, if at all, by the Maroon flanker attack which was used but seldom at Madison because the Cardinals hogged the ball most of the time.

New Men to Start.

Stagg is starting two new men in the line, due to their suprising performances last week. Manelkis, a powerful sophomore, will be at one guard and Reiwitch, a reserve tackle the last two years, will get the call at the tackle opposite Trude. Stagg is holding two utility men out to shoot them in at the first signs of weakening. Horwitz has been groomed to play either guard, tackle, or end, while MacKenzie can do relief work at guard or full back.

Florida alumni and graduates of southern universities desirous of sitting in one group are advised to buy their tickets at gate 7 on the south side of Stagg field.

Suarez Whips Kaplan for Fifth Straight Triumph

New York, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Justo Suarez, South American sensation, won the fifth straight victory of his North American invasion tonight by gaining the decision over Louis [Kid] Kaplan, former featherweight champion, after ten rounds of mediocre battling in Madison Square Garden. There were no knockdowns. Suarez weighed 137½ pounds; Kaplan, 135.

Detroit Eleven Stops West Virginia, 23 to 0

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 17.—(AP)—University of Detroit's football team stopped the West Virginia Mountaineers' line plunges tonight and scored three touchdowns and a field goal to win, 23 to 0.

WILL THE WILDCAT STAY ON TOP?

Cold Day, but a Hot Game's Badger-Penn Grid Forecast

BY HARVEY T. WOODRUFF.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Oct. 17.—Temperature in Madison today was one degree lower than the record for the last fifty years. There were occasional snow flakes. Forecasts for tomorrow are for continued cold with a strong wind, which will make sheepskin coats and blankets for the feet advisable at Camp Randall stadium.

This coldness, however, represents only the temperature and not the hopes or confidence of Badger alumni who will gather for homecoming and the first intersectional football contest ever played against the University of Pennsylvania, whose gridiron representatives, faculty chaperons, and camp followers arrived on a special train shortly after the luncheon period today.

Wisconsin spirit for this fray is different from any we ever have observed before. We have known Badger confidence even to the point of braggadocio. We have known Badger depression to the point of criticism of every one concerned with the coaching or athletic department, but we have with us today, ladies and gentlemen, a quiet confidence in an eleven with material as good or better than any within the last decade.

Badgers to Stick with Team.

It expects a victory despite the acknowledged prowess of the Quaker invaders. It is not a confidence, unless we are mistaken, which will desert the eleven if the unexpected happens in what is regarded as the first real test of Badger strength for 1930.

Even Gloomy Glenn Thistlethwaite, never an optimist, is hopeful, and talks about his eleven and its prospects. That is difficult to believe, for Glenn never has been and never will be loquacious.

So there is a different spirit in Madison. Badgers have said goodby to gloom and gloomy forebodings and have taken the tack that without confidence there can be no victory. Fraternity politics, rumored here in years past, is absent. There is a pulling together, inspired by Athletic Director Little, which promises to give all that

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 17.—Whatever happens tomorrow, when Illinois' football team meets the Northwestern Wildcats in the annual homecoming game in Memorial stadium here, somebody is going to be surprised. The unexpected is certain to happen for the simple reason that nobody seems to know just what to expect.

The Illini, while hopeful, certainly aren't predicting victory, and the Wildcats, following their triple stroke of misfortune, aren't overconfident, although they are far from conceding or even expecting defeat. The Illini, still untested against a strong team, are the unknown quantity. They themselves don't know what to expect when they go up against the Purple veterans tomorrow. About all they know is they have a football team.

Illini Still a Mystery.

How good the Illini are is still a mystery that should be pretty well solved by this time tomorrow evening after the Illini have displayed their knowledge of the game against the Purple, who at this time are the strongest contenders for the Big Ten championship.

Some 50,000 are expected to see the homecoming battle, which will be the twenty-fifth meeting between the schools. While the crowd will equal that which saw the homecoming game of two years ago, when Illinois beat Northwestern, there will still be plenty of seats available for late comers.

Even Coach Bob Zuppke isn't sure, or at least he says he isn't, what his team, made up largely of sophomores, can do or will do tomorrow.

Zuppke isn't putting out any bear stories. His squad, with the exception of Red Owen, end, and Capt. Olaf Robinson and Arthur Schultz, full backs, is in good physical condition, and even this trio will be able to play tomorrow. Zuppke thinks he has a pretty fair first string back field, but the bright side of the picture stops there.

Beyond that he won't say much. The light line which he will send against Northwestern's seven veterans contains four sophomores, and only one letter man, and what they will do under fire against the heavier Purple forward wall is purely problematical. In his back field, he will have two letter men, Robinson and Pete Yansukus, with Ernie Chattin, reserve quarter back of last year, and Gil Berry, the sensational sophomore half back, assisting them.

They Want to Make Team.

"They might be a good football team and they might not," Zuppke said. "They started off slow against Iowa State and they looked better against Butler, but we don't know how good Iowa State and Butler are. These boys aren't thinking about winning tomorrow. They haven't got that far. Right now they're still thinking about making the Illinois football team. Later on, maybe, they'll think about winning."

Against this team Northwestern will send nine letter men, although three of its stars, Reb Russell, Harry Kent, and Capt. Bruder, will not be in the lineup, ineligibilities and smallpox having removed them. Vaccination of the rest of the squad may or may not have affected the ability of the Wildcats, but whether it has or hasn't doesn't make much difference to Illinois.

"We aren't thinking about their vaccinations," Zuppke said. "The boys don't have time to think about those things. They're trying to remember their plays."

Give Illini Chance.

Outside of the Champaign Country club, where the team retired today to run through signals and get away from the homecoming crowd which is filling up the hotels and rooming houses, the idea seemed to prevail that Illinois has a chance to upset the Wildcats, if the green Illini line performs adequately. The Illini first string back field is fast and shifty and Illinois supporters are counting on Berry and Yansukus to get away if the line can hold long enough for them to get started.

Illinois supporters are not discounting the Purple strength because of the loss of Bruder. They point out that Bruder was not in the Ohio State game and the Purple seemed to function well enough then, and they expect to see it at top strength again tomorrow.

The Northwestern squad with its band and some 10,000 supporters will arrive tomorrow morning on special trains, which will carry the bulk of the homecoming crowd from Chicago.

ARMY FANS YELL 'BEAR!' AT STORY OF HARVARD ILLS

Crimson Stars Reported Out of Game Today.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., Oct. 17.—Harvard and the Army will meet at football again Saturday for the sixteenth time, but there should be no element of surprise in this, as the contracts for the game were signed before some of the players who will take part in the contest had emerged from high school.

However, the situation is fraught with doubt and misgivings on both sides. The Harvards were filled with foreboding because two star back field men, Mays and Devens, are out of repair, and several colonels of the Army detachment, gathered at the University club to discuss various matters, including football, wagged their heads and said Harvard could not be as soft an enemy as the reports in the press would have them believe.

They Spoiled Albie's Afternoon.

Devens and Mays, in collaboration with Barry Wood, the quarter back, and Barney White, the full back, had frustrated Albie Booth of Yale last year as sophomores, and the year before as freshmen, and the four of them, operating together, were looked upon as a remarkably fine back field. Mays, however, has not been able to take part in any varsity game thus far this year, and White will be taking the field with the varsity for the first time.

Dr. Tommy Richards, physician and surgeon to the Harvard athletes, a wee mite sensitive about his professional name, took occasion to resent the notion, encouraged by certain elements of the press, that the ailments of his patients had been exaggerated or imagined as propaganda to mislead the Army, and offered his official reports on the boys for examination by a neutral committee of experts. And Arnold Horween, the coach, who is now serving his fifth and last season in that capacity, remarked gloomily that the casualty reports were only too true. Mays may be sufficiently strong to play some part of the game, but Devens is not only definitely but positively out.

Visitors Inspect Field House.

Both teams took some exercise on the stadium field this afternoon, following which the cadet squad entrained in fat omnibuses and retired to a country club to pass the night. The numerous visitors presently were conducted through the new Harvard field house, a combination athletic plant, warehouse for athletic goods, and field hospital, which has been erected between May and September of the present year, following the fire which destroyed the old one.

The field house, rising unexpectedly on a plot of ground which was devoted to some bald tennis courts a year ago, has been donated by Clarence Douglas Dillon, a New York stock broker and alumnus, on the spur of a very excited moment. On the night of the fire which destroyed the old one last spring, and while the firemen were still squirting water on the embers, Clarence Douglas Dillon Jr., the student manager of this year's football team, telephoned his father in New York and said: "Pop, the field house has burned down."

Pop Buys 'Em a New One.

"Tell them to build another one and charge it to me," said Clarence Douglass Dillon Sr., and the plant was placed in operation in September and charged to him.

The Army team has been coached in a somewhat more lively and deceptive style of football in this the first year of Maj. Ralph Sasse's tenure as coach than was taught at West Point during the régime of Capt. Biff Jones. In fact, there has been a new deal generally in football at the academy with the departure of Capt. Jones, Frank Wandle, the trainer, and the two back field stalwarts of the previous three years, Red Cagle and Johnny Murrell.

Maj. Sasse adopted the so-called double wing back type of play and there is much mysterious jargon being spoken about A and B formations, executed by Kenneth Fields, formerly of the University of Illinois; Edward Herb, late of Colgate, and Cyril Lenzelter, who played a short football career at Carnegie Tech and took part in a victory over Notre Dame a couple of years ago.

Crickard Replaces Mays.

On the Harvard side, John Crickard had been named in place of Mays at left half and John Schereschewsky in Devens' position at right half. Then, at right end, Vahan N. Moushegian, an Armenian youth from Lowell, Mass., a factory town, was selected in place of Robert Ogden, who was ailing, too.

No substitute was needed, however, for Victor Harding of Chicago, the left end, although he was internally injured in last year's Yale game and was saved only by an emergency major operation that night. Dr. Richards removed Harding's spleen on that occasion, but the young man reported back for football this year, insisting that the operation had been just what he needed to fit him for serious football.

Camp Prince Wins After Stretch Duel

BY FRENCH LANE.

It will be a long time before the race patrons at Hawthorne forget the duel between Jockeys George Woolf and D. Trivett in the Southmoor purse yesterday.

Trivett was riding Sister Mary, the favorite. Woolf was in the saddle on Camp Prince, the second choice. As they headed into the stretch only heads apart, with both colts running straight and true in the heavy going, it was evident that something was to happen.

From the head of the stretch home, two jockeys never fought more fiercely. At times it seemed that Woolf and Trivett were doing everything but clouting each other on the chin.

Camp Prince Catches Up.

Sister Mary was racing on a dry strip in the middle of the track, and an eighth from home she had a length's advantage. Coming up on the outside was Woolf on Camp Prince, which had the more speed and stamina. He rushed up until he was on even terms with Sister Mary.

Then the duel began. Sister Mary bore out as Camp Prince came upon the outside. Whether Jockey Trivett caused her to bear out was something not even the judges were able to determine. She bore out until it seemed that Camp Prince's chance of going on past her was a hopeless task.

But Camp Prince, in the last few jumps, overcame the interference and went on to win by half a length. Sister Mary was a half length in front of Try It for second place.

The race engaged some of the best western two year olds and Camp Prince, despite racing wide all the way, ran the six furlongs over the heavy track in the surprising time of 1:15 4-5. In the mutuels he paid $8.00 to win, $3.76 to place, and $2.86 to show. Sister Mary paid $4.70 to place, and $3.38 to show. Try It was at $3.64 to show. Camp Prince is owned by John Marsch of Chicago.

Two Long Shots Win.

Despite the difficult track conditions the favorites did fairly well all afternoon. Two real long shots won, however. One was John Lowe's Hold On, a daughter of On Watch-Hold Me. She headed a good band of platers in the mile and a sixteenth fifth race and in the mutuel betting paid $21.50 to win. Ben Rosenheim's Portmanteau finished second, the son of The Porter giving up the struggle in the final strides after leading into the stretch. Jodhpur was third, while the heavily backed Annan and Ultimate Vote finished far back.

Junior C. captured the seventh race andpaid $22.58 to win, $9.92 to place and $3.72 to show.

Conservationist Starts War on Hawks and Crows

BY BOB BECKER.

Just about the time that the big fall migration of hawks began to send thousands of these birds of prey across the Canadian boundary line into the United States, Jack Miner, famous conservationist of Kingsville, Ont., issued another broadside against the predators to urge a reduction in their numbers.

Miner, whose bird sanctuary at Kingsville has become nationally known, said that "we have ten times more hawks and owls than we need."

It is these predators, he stated, which are responsible for the fact that the cardinals, scarlet tanagers, goldfinches, swallows, native sparrows, thrushes and hundreds of other "loving, cheerful, winged creatures," have not increased as they should during the last few years. "We have altogether too many birds of prey. It's time to reduce their numbers.

There isn't any doubt but the combination of crows [the black pirates that destroy the eggs of thousands of song and game birds each year], hawks, owls and rolvng house cats inflict a terrific toll on our bird population. Whereas sportsmen devote millions of rounds of ammunition to the hunting and killing of game birds, but little shooting in the course of a year is aimed at the birds which are stealing from our game bird supply.

Keepers of game refuges, a few crow clubs and some farmers and estate owners, who are "bird minded," help in this fight against vermin but, comparatively speaking, the effort is not enough to help much except in specific areas of farm country.

ST. PATRICK PREP ELEVEN DEFEATS WEBER TEAM, 33-0

St. Patrick defeated Weber High, 33 to 0, in a Catholic league game at Logan Square yesterday. It was St. Patrick's second league victory. The smaller Weber line failed to hold the St. Patrick back field, which scored all of its points on line plays, including points after touchdown. McGinty, Birmingham, Jordan and Turro starred for the winners, while Rath and Juscyk featured for Weber. Lineup:

Cold Day, Hot Game Badger, Penn Forecast

Compare Team to 1928 Eleven.

Wisconsin adherents of 1930 choose to liken their eleven to that of 1928 which began its big games with a 22 to 6 victory over Notre Dame, unexpectedly was held to a 19 to 19 tie by Purdue, then won all other games until its final against Minnesota, when the Badgers' loss of the ball with one yard to go yielded a 6 to 0 victory for the Gophers. On a percentage basis Illinois, which lost to Michigan but had no ties, was awarded the championship that year. That is the nearest Wisconsin has been to first place since 1912, when the title was conceded.

Pennsylvania tomorrow corresponds to the Notre Dame obstacle of 1928. But if victory elects to roost with the Quakers, these different spirited Badgers anticipate no such result as last year, when an unexpected reverse came from Northwestern in which the ill fated Capt. Bruder was the main factor. Thereafter the Badgers went haywire and did not recover until late in the season.

Penn Reported Powerful.

Against these hopes, this confidence, Pennsylvania has something to say. Wisconsin scouts report a better team at Pennsylvania than last year. They say Capt. Gentle and Masters are two of the best backs in the country. They report a defense to which Wisconsin is not accustomed—linemen crouching low and surging forward in what is known in football as a "blind charge," with ends seeking not to tackle but to smash interference, and depending on secondary defense. These scouts say Penn is powerful and dangerous.

When Coach Lud Wray of Pennsylvania was introduced to western newspaper men here, there was no standoffishness of the effete east about him. His nickname indicates his democracy, for he labors under the baptismal handicap of J. R. Ludlow Wray. He invited us to Penn's final practice with nothing to conceal, not even the lateral passes or the "hidden ball" stuff which once aroused murmurings at Champaign.

After Wray's pupils had taken their final outing, Thistlethwaite, no longer Gloomy Gus, took the Badgers on to the field for final signal practice and dummy scrimmage. Then all was over until tomorrow, for the two squads did not figure at the big bonfire on the lower campus, where dry goods boxes garnered from unsuspecting merchants shot flames nearly 100 feet high into the coldest October weather of fifty years.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 17.—[Special.]—Dressed in heavy uniforms, the Minnesota and Indiana football squads ran through their final signal drill last night in the bitter cold. The thermometer was down to 24 above when the athletes worked out and there was no promise for improvement.

Tomorrow's game will be Minnesota's first start in the Western conference. Lloyd Stein, center, and Dillon, left end, did not take part in the Gophers' final drill, Teeter and Anderson replacing them respectively. Anderson has not played since the opening game of the season.

Pat Page led his Indiana squad into Minneapolis this morning and took the stadium field to warm up before the Gophers appeared. The Hoosiers seemed confident, but they made no claims for a victory. The drastic change in the weather promised to cut the attendance to less than 25,000.

OREGON AGGIES MEET STANFORD ELEVEN TODAY

Palo Alto, Cal., Oct. 17.—[Special.]—Oregon State Aggies, selected by Chicago Shriners to represent the west against West Virginia, representative of the east, at Soldiers' field, Chicago, Thanksgiving day, arrived here today and will meet Pop Warner's Stanford eleven tomorrow.

Stanford trounced the Oregon eleven last year. Ralph Buerke, Peoria, Ill., senior, playing his third year for Oregon State, will pilot the team at quarter back. Henry Hughes, a Hawaiian, and Harold Moe will start in the halves, and Frank Little at full.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Oct. 17.—Coach Noble Kizer and 35 of his Purdue Boilermakers are in this town tonight, more or less ready for the 26 mile joursey tomorrow which will carry them to Iowa's over-adequate new stadium, where in the afternoon they will appear as part of Iowa's only Big Ten football show of the season.

Mr. Kizer was discovered this evening to be in the pessimistic mood usually affected by football coaches, only more so. He seems on the level with it, which is reasonable seeing as what happened to the Western conference champs last Saturday, when they came out the little end of the horn in the matter of scoring, 14 to 14.

Must Conserve Resources.

Mr. Kizer says, among other things, that it places his team in a hell of a spot to have to play a team that has only one conference game where- as Purdue must conserve resources for three more Big Ten clashes on successive Saturdays, Wisconsin, Illinois and Chicago being the immediate dish concocted for the Boilermakers, to say nothing of the all unimportant Indiana show later on.

"We know that Iowa is prepared to shoot the works against us," the said Mr. Kizer said, "while we've got to save much of our strategy and can take no chances on playing any of our men who are not in tip top physical condition.

"Our scouts report that Iowa is far from being as weak as their defeats by Oklahoma Aggies and Centenary would indicate. We're set for an inspired attack and we're going to cope with the situation on that basis."

White Comes Along.

The Boilermakers brought along Jack White, their star quarter back, but it is said he will not play unless all the other Purdue quarter backs are carried out on stretchers. Ed Moon, veteran end, did not make the trip because of an ankle injury, and Richard Bateman, Moon's main understudy, also was left at home because of injuries. Paul Moss, a sophomore who showed up well in the Michigan game, also is ailing and won't be able to start in tomorrow's game.

Back over at Iowa City Coach Burt Ingwersen continued to put on his impersonation of Job in the big sack cloth and ashes number. Burt used to be, next to Pat Page and the recently departed Doc Spears, the sweetest crooner among the Big Ten blues singers. But now that he apparently has something about which to sing blues, he doesn't sing any more. Fact is in three days in these parts we haven't seen Burt when he didn't have a big smile on his face.

When Mr. Kizer sees this smile he probably will be scared no little until he realizes that Mr. Ingwersen's cheerfulness probably is a part of the Iowa act, which is known as "Love thy neighbor." Har! har!

Jensvolds to Start.

Purdue knows and respects the Jensvold twins, both of whom will start tomorrow. And scouts have spoken well of Hickman, a sophomore halfback, who will not start, but will have plenty of work. Curiosity, however, is so far as the Purdue boys are concerned, is centered on one Warrington, the Estherville marvel, who has been kept under cover thus far by Coach Ingwersen.

And, speaking of Warrington, we ourselves rather suspect that he's counted on as an ace in the hole. The minute we lit in Iowa City Wednesday we started to hear about Warrington; but, although we grilled Ingwersen repeatedly about the young man, the only thing the coach would say was that "Warrington is a young fellow from Estherville." Which was not news because we already knew that Warrington was from Estherville, but couldn't see what light that threw on his football talent.

The entire student body at Iowa, as well as many of the townfolk, tonight joined in a big pep session which included a great bonfire.

Watwood Near Recovery; Leaves Hospital in 10 Days

Johnny Watwood, White Sox center fielder, who incurred a skull fracture when he was hit on the head with a ball thrown by Pat Malone, Cub pitcher, in the fifth game of the city series at Wrigley field, last night was reported near recovery at the Mercy hospital. According to hospital officials, Watwood will be able to leave in ten days.

Leach Floors Moore in 2d; Knocks Him Out in 7th

Gary Leach, Gary, Ind., middleweight, knocked out Jimmy Moore, New York Negro, in the seventh round of a ten round bout last night at the Olympic arena, 22d street and Lenhard avenue. Leach knocked Moore down for a nine count in the second and had him down twice before he landed the finishing punch in the seventh.

Froebel Prep Team Beats Spring Valley Eleven, 28-0

Gary, Ind., Oct. 17.—[Special.]—Froebel of Gary won its fifth straight game of the season with a 28 to 0 triumph over Hall township of Spring Valley, Ill., here tonight. The defeat was the most decisive Hall township has taken in several years. One year ago the two teams played a scoreless tie.

MOON MULLINS—THE LIGHT THAT FAILED

Wildcats vs. Illini.

The Wake would omit Northwestern-Illinois from the usual weekly forecast, except such omission might be construed as a straddle. At this distance one does not know Northwestern's condition. Even with Bruder out, our tendency would be to pick Northwestern on experience, although we expect Zuppke to hav a formidable aggregation for his late games.

So we resorted to the telephone. We found Coach Dick Hanley was at the "wailing wall," with Northwestern's chances only a "prayer" through substitutions and vaccinations. Before he was through we almost were wailing ourself. Hanley said he would accept defeat rather than play boys feverish from vaccination. That also was the dictum of the medical department.

The situation is unfortunate for Illinois as well as Northwestern. If the Illini win, they will not receive full meed for a victory which might be the same if Northwestern were at full strength. Under present circumstances it 's a guess on condition.

Washington and Oregon.

Washington and Oregon will attract interest in this section because of Jimmy Phelan, coach of the Purdue 1929 Big Ten champions, and Dr. Spears, late of Minnesota. In the conference Phelan could not overcome the power of Dr. Spear's Gophers. On the coast, Washington has been beating easily teams which troubled last year. Oregon's chances were not improved by a transcontinental journey to meet Drake at Soldiers' field.

New Orleans' Loyola Beats Chicago's, 25-0

New Orleans, La., Oct. 17.—[Special.]—Playing inspired football, Loyola of New Orleans tonight defeated Loyola of Chicago, 25 to 0. Arnaud Lopez and Monk Zelden each scored twice for New Orleans, but their touchdowns were due in a large measure to the brilliant broken field running of Joe Tetlow who repeatedly brought the ball up to the Chicago goal.

In addition New Orleans played a tight defensive game. The Ramblers were not able to make a single first down until late in the third quarter, and their final total was only 3. Two came through some wild passing in the last period.

Ployhart, Smith ,and Furchess were outstanding for the Chicago team. The lineups:

DE PAUL ELEVEN SCORES 13-7 WIN OVER ST. MARY'S

Winona, Minn., Oct. 17.—[Special.]—A 25 yard pass coupled with a 15 yard dash by Dea and a blocked punt, both early in the third quarter, gave De Paul university a 13 to 7 victory over St. Mary's college here tonight. The game was played in below freezing temperatures and the first half in a blinding snowstorm.

Both teams struggled without much gain in the first half, but in the opening of the third period Steffin passed to Dea, who ran over for the first counter. Steffin kicked goal. A few minutes later Cherue blocked a St. Mary's punt and two plays later Steffin ran 15 yards through the entire Winona team for a touchdown. The attempt for extra point failed.

St. Mary's then opened an offensive which culminated when Huennekins passed to Haas for the score. Both teams resorted to an aerial attack with De Paul's passing game being the best.

Stadium Fight Card for Oct. 24 Called Off

Inability of Jimmy Slattery and Tommy Loughran, both former light heavyweight champions, to be ready Oct. 24, and the commission's veto of an application for postponement until Oct. 27 yesterday necessitated the cancellation of the Chicago Stadium's card next Friday night.

Michigan and Ohio State in 27th Battle

the series began in 1897. Two times, a scoreless tie in 1900 and a 3 to 3 tie in 1910, the teams have battled to no decision. On nineteen occasions Michigan has won. Except for 1898 and 1899, and a lapse of five years, 1913 to 1917, inclusive, the teams have met annually.

Will Use Same Lineup.

With one exception, Bill Carroll, replacing Stuart Holcomb at left half, Ohio will depend on the men who faced Northwestern last week. Capt. Wesley Fesler will start at his position on the right flank of the line, although he suffered a serious wrist injury at Evanston.

Although unable to scrimmage this week, Ohio has practiced strenuously to prepare for Michigan's end running, forward passing attack. Scouts have reported that if these efforts are successful, Michigan will be defeated. Harry Newman, Kipke's quarter back and best passer, is said to be the offensive key and Ohio linemen are expected to hurry his forward passes to assist Carroll, Horn, Hinchman, Varner, and Center Nasman, who will cover the receivers.

Despite reports that Michigan will start Miller and Purdue at tackle instead of Auer and Samuels, Ohio believes these regulars will be in condition. However, it is conceded that Williamson will fill Norm Daniels' spot at right end. Auer, Samuels, and Daniels made the trip and will be in uniform.

CHICAGO HOCKEY PLAYERS HALTED AT CANADA LINE

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 17.—[Special.]—Five Canadian hockey players, members of the Chicago Blackhawks, who were stranded in Winnipeg, Manitoba, tonight, unable to enter the United States because of immigration laws barring persons classed as "skilled help," will be admitted to this country within a few days, dispatches from the United States department of labor said.

The Blackhawk players, as well as many other hockey stars who are under contract to American teams, will be put in the same category with foreign actors, boxers, and musicians, who generally are allowed to enter the United States for stays of six months. Secretary James W. Davis announced.

Listed as "Skilled Help."

Several days probably will be required for the players to file official appeals to Washington. They were halted at the border today because their passports listed them as "skilled help," a class of workers barred under the immigration laws of the United States.

Those in the party were Art Somers, center, and Harold [Mush] March, Earl Miller, Johnny Gottselig, and Duke Dutkowski, all forwards. They will report to the Blackhawks for training at Tower, Minn., as soon as their border difficulties are solved.

Others in Same Fix.

Among other hockey players who will meet the same delay when they seek to report to American teams are Jimmy Creighton and George Hay of the Detroit Cougars; Jack St. John of the Kansas City Playmors; Carl Berg, Freddy Metcalfe, Alex Wood, and Frank Ingram.

Charlie Gardiner, Blackhawk goalie, and two of his mates, Lolo Couture and Dick Irvin, were successful in gaining entrance to the United States while the immigration bars were lowered.

REQUIREMENTS OF PREP ATHLETES LEFT UNCHANGED

The legislative commission of the Illinois High School Athletic association, in a meeting last night at the Sherman hotel, unanimously rejected the proposed amendment to increase the scholastic requirements of athletes from 15 to 20 credit hours each semester. One reason why many of the members voted against it was that they thought it would not be approved at the annual meeting of the association as a whole.

Chicago high schools already have the 20 credit hour requirement. C. C. Willand, principal of the Wendell Phillips High school, and A. W. Evans, principal of the Tilden High school the two Chicago representatives at the meeting, did not cast their votes.

NEVERS RETURNS TO CARDS' LINEUP AGAINST BEARS

The Cardinals' professional football team will return to Chicago today to hold its final workout for the game tomorrow with the Bears at Comiskey park. The Cardinals have played four games against eastern opponents in the American Professional Football league during the last twelve days.

The Bears, with a team that differs considerably from the 1929 eleven, tomorrow will be seeking to avenge their 40 to 6 defeat at the hands of the Cardinals last year.

Ernie Nevers, plunging full back, will be in the Cards' lineup against the Bears. He did not start in the Newark and Providence games because of an injury received early in the season. Nevers scored six touchdowns as his contribution to the Cardinals' victory over the Bears last year.

Bullet Baker, speedy Cardinal half back injured in the game against Portsmouth, will be ready to start again as will Howard Maple, former Oregon State all-American quarter back.

NEW YORK Millionaires go to Anton Nihleen's little shop at 30 West 47th Street because they think he is the greatest Bootmaker in the World.

We went to Nihleen, just like any ordinary Millionaire, because it is our policy to reproduce for you the best Styles made by the Best Bootmakers in the World.

We paid $50 for the Original of Nihleen's Millionaire's "Brogue", and if you want to indulge in the luxury of owning a $50 pair of shoes, we think it is a good place to go. But if you want the exact reproduction of this $50 Style for $6.60, there is no other place you can go, except a Regal Shoe Store.

Others talk of "copying" expensive Styles, but as far as we know, we are the only shoe concern that tells you where we purchased the Original Model and what we paid for it.

And we bought 42 pairs, so we can show you the Original $50 Model side by side with the Regal Reproduction in every Regal Store today.

The original was made from Gallun's Norwegian Calfskin and in the Regal Reproduction, we are using this same identical leather from the same tanner.

Last, Leather, Pattern, Design and every Style Detail is exactly the same—from the size of the perforations on the tip to the steel V plate in the heel.

But there isn't any secret about it. Nihleen has one little shop on 47th Street, New York and there are 84 Regal Stores in all the principal cities, from New York to San Francisco.

It is the Purchasing Power of a National Institution. It's the Volume in all stores that makes this Value possible in every Regal Store.

CHICAGO STOCKS NOW NEAR YEAR'S BOTTOM LEVEL

Support Is Lacking as Prices Decline.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The market went through another period of liquidation yesterday which brought prices back again to around the year's bottom level. Modest gains laboriously rolled up earlier in the week went under the knife for some severe paring.

On the Chicago Exchange business was not heavy but earnest sellers clearly dominated the market. The support offered was not equal to the job of protecting hard earned gains. Record low marks were not uncommon in the closing list, but most of the active favorites had a fraction or so between them and their year's bottom when the trading ended.

Majestic Shares Drop.

Majestic Household, which has perched around 17 for the last few days, tumbled 3 points than retrieved a fraction. The 21,000 odd shares that changed hands represented the largest turnover for any single issue. Grigsby Grunow was scaled down a fraction, but the close found it still slightly above its record low of 5¼.

Middle West Utilities which ordinarily gets as efficient support as any stock on the board was down an even point and the final sale was made at the day's lowest price.

Commonwealth Edison also closed at its low for the day which was 10 points under Thursday's final quotation. Insull Utility broke 2¼, Cities Service 1¼, and Missouri Kansas, after making a new low recovered a fraction to close at its previous bottom quotation of 10.

Among the specialties Electric Household broke through to 31 and Ontario Manufacturing cut its previous low by a point.

Bendix and Borg Warner were scaled down 1½ and 1 points respectively, while Auburn, on a 100 share transaction, fell 2 points.

News of the dividend omission by Art Metal Works brought out 1,000 shares of the company's stock, which sold a fraction under the previous price of 6. Last quarter the company paid a dividend of 25 cents on the common stock which was a reduction from the previous quarterly rate of 75 cents a share.

Sales Improve.

Louis V. Aronson, president, said that the action was taken notwithstanding the company's favorable financial position and its ability to pay a dividend if directors had considered it wise to do so. Sales of the company, he stated, showed a definite improvement in the latter part of August.

Gardner-Denner company yesterday reported net income for the nine months ended Sept. 30 of $730,368 after all charges. After provision for the preferred stock the income was equivalent to $3.24 a share on the outstanding common stock. In the corresponding period last year the company earned net profit of $1,133,900, which was equivalent to $5.20 a share on the common stock then outstanding.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—(AP)—A little easier tone prevailed in the raw sugar market today and prices showed a decline of 1 point. Raw futures were irregular, but in the main a little easier, with final prices 1 to 4 points lower. Approximate sales, 66,750 tons. Prices follow:

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

It is the belief of wheat traders that low prices discount a large part of the bearishness, but until there is a better foreign demand or serious damage to the Argentine and Australian crop, combined with a certainty that Russia is through exporting, there is not likely to be any decided sustained upturn in values. Receipts at American markets are light and are largely offset by a comparatively limited demand, and until the decrease in supplies becomes more pronounced the disposition is to go slow on both sides of the market.

Active traders in corn expressed the belief that the market has been well liquidated and holdings have passed into stronger hands, which, it is said, makes a better technical situation and brings more support. It is noticeable that a few of the largest buyers of corn are said to be selling wheat futures, presumably as a hedge. The country movement is unusually large at this season of the year, Chicago getting on an average of 20 cars a day the greater part of the week. Most of the corn, however, goes to industries.

Broomhall's reports from Australia indicate that with favorable weather from now on the commonwealth could harvest a crop of 200,000,000 bu of wheat against 123,000,000 bu last year. The Australian visible supply is 9,800,000 bu, against 11,000,000 bu a week ago. Australia has assumed an important position in the world wheat situation in recent years and with Argentina and Russia are considered dominating factors.

BUTTER AND EGGS

Butter futures advanced on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, while egg futures lost fractionally at the close. Statistical news during the day tended to help the markets firm up somewhat, but there were conflicting reports received which worked to hold the deliveries in a fairly narrow range. November butter closed at 34¾@34½c, up ⅛@⅜c, and December at 35¼c, up ¼c. November eggs closed at 21½c, off ¼c, and December at 22½c, off ¼c. Sales: Butter—November, 99 cars; December, 129 cars. Eggs—November, 121 cars; December, 41 cars. Receipts: Butter—5,514 tubs; eggs, 4,100 cases. Prices follow:

CASH·GRAIN N·E·W·S

Foreigners are taking a little Manitoba wheat from day to day, but the amounts are inconsequential in comparison with the quantities available. Sales of 300,000 bu were reported in all positions. No. 1 hard winter at the gulf is quoted at 1½c over Chicago December for last half October loading.

Milling demand for wheat in the local market shows no signs of falling off, with shipping sales of 52,000 bu. Sales of corn were 125,000 bu; oats, 54,000 bu; rye, 9 cars, and barley, 4,000 bu.

Offerings of cash wheat in the Chicago sample market were limited. The basis was steady with No. 1 red 3@8¼c over; No. 2 red, 7@7½c over; No. 1 hard, 1⅜@2c over; No. 2 hard, 1@1½c over; No. 1 northern, ½@1c over, and No. 2 northern, December price to 1c under.

Clear and cold weather over the corn belt is expected to increase the movement of new grain, but there was practically nothing offered to arrive. New No. 4 mixed sold at 74c; No. 3 yellow, 76½c; No. 5 yellow, 72½@73c; No. 6 yellow, 70¾@71c, and sample grade at 67@70c. Basis on old was steady to ¼c higher. Premiums as compared with December follow: No. 1 and No. 2 mixed, 4@4¼c; No. 1 yellow, 4¼@4½c; white, 11½@11¾c; No. 2 yellow, 4@4½c; white, 10¾@11c; No. 3 mixed, 3@3¼c; yellow, 3¼@3½c; white, 10@10½c.

Official receipts of grain at Chicago Friday: Wheat, 12 cars; corn, 136 cars; oats, 22 cars; rye, 1 car; barley, 16 cars.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Cotton goods demand was slightly quieter today, but was still steady in gray and printed goods. Burlaps were unchanged in price with a fair amount of inquiry reported for spot goods. Holidays in raw silk markets in Japan led to quiet here. Spring silks are being shown more freely. Interest in the wool goods division centers around spring openings of dress goods and coatings. Delustered yarns of rayon, in fine deniers, are being tried out in the hosiery trade in conjunction with some large producers.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—COTTONSEED OIL was quiet today with trading almost entirely local. Old contracts closed 20 points higher to 5 lower and new unchanged to 10 points lower. Sales were 800 barrels in old contracts and 1,350 in the new. Prime crude, 6.12½c; prime summer yellow old, spot, 7.50c; October, 7.60c; November, 7.35c; December, 7.45c. New: December, 7.16c; January, 7.35c; March, 7.36c; May, 7.45c.

JUDGE C. G. NEELY, EX-CHICAGOAN, DIES AFTER CRASH

Funeral services for former Circuit Judge Charles G. Neely, who died on Thursday night after an automobile accident in Selma, Cal., Tuesday, will be held at Claremont, Cal., on Monday.

JUDGE CHARLES G. NEELY.

Judge Neely, who was 75 years old, had lived in California for several years. In 1887 he was appointed first assistant state's attorney in Cook county and several years later was elected to the Circuit bench, serving until 1905.

He then became a professor in the Chicago Kent college of law and later joined the faculty of Pomona college at Cairemont, Cal. He also was vice president of a bank there.

He was returning from a visit to the home of a daughter at Fresno, Cal., at the time of the accident. Another daughter, Mrs. Allan J. Carter, of 830 Monticello street, Evanston, left last night to attend the funeral.

Judge Neely's widow, three daughters and seven grandchildren survive. Judge and Mrs. Neely celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Sept. 11.

Memorial Rites Today for Priest Killed in Airplane

Memorial services for Father Philip De Lon, who was killed in an airplane accident in Alaska last Sunday, will be held at noon today at the Holy Family church at Roosevelt road and Blue Island avenue. Solemn high mass will be celebrated by the pastor. Father De Lon was superior of the Alaskan missions. He and Brother George Feltes, Jesuit missionary in Alaska, stopped here last July en route from New York to their missionary field in a new plane.

Top yesterday, $8.85; average, $8.00.
Estimated receipts at Chicago today, 300 cattle, 8,000 hogs, and 7,000 sheep.

Another higher market for hogs yesterday brought prices to the highest level since the middle of last week. The general average price advanced 25c at $9.75, being only 10c under the highest day since September 22.

Prevailing quotations are 50@90c above the close of last week, packing sows showing the most gains. The latter are $1.60@1.65 above the low day of the season, established two weeks ago, while the general average has gained 85c in that time. Top hogs reached $10.25 yesterday.

Small packers, city butchers and shippers scrambled for stock at the new advance and only 1,000 per hold ers remained at noon. Shipments from Chicago at 7,000 were second largest for Friday in some time.

Monday Hogs Bid $10.15.

Buyers were willing to pay $10.15 for medium and weighty hogs for Monday's delivery, bidding that figure for 210@310 lb averages on the "to arrive" market yesterday. However there were no offers at that price.

Trading in future months was steady, October mediums bringing $9.6o, while December heavy sold at $8.80. December light and mediums were being offered at $8.90@8.95 at the close, but the highest bid was $8.75. January heavy were also bid $8.75.

Yesterday's meager supply of 2,000 cattle sold slowly at about steady prices, although quality was lacking and few sales were made above the $9.00 line. Medium to good 1,062@1,247 lb averages topped the market at $11.50.

Most cattle at the close of the week were 25@40c below a week ago, although a few top notchers were as high as at any time since early in June. Cows and heifers were strong, some showing 15@25c gain compared with a week ago. Calves were steady yesterday, but show losses of 50c to $1.00 for the week on light weights. Stockers and feeders were slow and weak to lower.

Colorado Lambs Bring $8.85.

A bulge of 25@50c in the market for fat lambs yesterday carried top Colorado range stock to $8.85, the highest of the week and 55c above the high point on Tuesday and Wednesday. Top natives to packers brought $8.50 at the close. Offerings were below trade requirments, and, with short supplies reported at all points, competition was brisk for practically all classes.

Aged sheep regained 25c of the recent loss. Yearlings were scarce and firm. Feeding lambs met good demand at strong prices, best grades selling at $7.00@7.25.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 300 cattle, 8,000 hogs, and 7,000 sheep, against 360 cattle, 10,770 hogs, and 3,314 sheep on the previous Saturday and 285 cattle, 7,490 hogs and 1,500 sheep a year ago.

Probable receipts of hogs at Chicago for next Monday are estimated from 37,000 to 54,000. W. T. Reneker marked 54,000; F. B. Orb, 48,000; C Southwick A. G. Welhener, R. W Trotter, and W. G. Olson, 45,000; F. Knutsen and G. Brittain, 44,000; F W. Young, 43,000; E. S. Waterbury and R. W. Thorne, 42,000; J. M. Waters, 41,000; S. Lund, H. Turner, and G. W. Chandler, 40,000; W. C. White, 39,000, and F. M. Sherwood, 37,000.

Trico Dividend Meeting.

Directors of the St. Louis and San Francisco railway are scheduled to meet on Nov. 5 to act on dividends due on the preferred stock at that time. Despite the fact that current open market prices for the common stock might be regarded as discounting a probable cut in the $8 rate, there is a disposition in local circles to look for the declaration of the regular quarterly payment of $2 a share at that time. At current levels the stock offers a return of better than 11 per cent.

Celotex Preferred Soars.

Celotex preferred, at the inactive post, closed at 25 Thursday, opened a point higher yesterday and then rose to above 34. The company is being reorganized and, presumably, insiders heard of something good affecting the senior issue.

Southern Railway Prices.

Better prices for Southern railway reflect the assurance of dividend maintenance for the remainder of this year, at least, and, if earnings improve somewhat, of next year as well. Eventually Southern railway will retire its preferred stock issue.

CHICAGO BOARD OF TRADE STOCKS

Selling pressure carried stock prices on the Board of Trade to lower levels late yesterday. A feature was the drop of 5 points in Electric Bond and Share to 52, a new low, with 1,000 shares sold. Allied Mills, which has been fairly firm of late, dropped to a new low, 6¾.

RAILROAD NOTES

All trains on the Overland route of the Chicago and North Western railway to San Francisco will go across the new $12,000,000 Suisan bridge of the Southern Pacific over Suisan bay between Benecia and Port Costa from now on. A saving of from two to four hours on freight shipments and from 35 to 30 minutes on passenger trains will result from the opening of the bridge.

A petition has been filed with the interstate commerce commission asking reconsideration of the recent order drastically reducing grain rates in western territory by the Northern Pacific, Great Northern, St. Paul, and the Oregon-Washington Railroad and Navigation company.

Hearings in the self-instituted investigation by the interstate commerce commission into possibilities of coordination of motor bus operations with railroads have been set to commence at St. Louis Nov. 17. Nationwide hearings will be held in principal cities.

10 POINT RANGE IN COTTON

Narrowness in fluctuations yesterday, the range being only 10 points, with prices unchanged to 4 points lower in New York and New Orleans and unchanged to 6 points lower in Chicago, illustrates the character of cotton speculation, which is down to the lowest of the season. Liverpool was 5 to 9 points lower at the close with spot sales of 5,000 bales. Apprehension of killing frost over the belt created uneasiness and covering by shorts.

Hester's report on spinners' takings for the week showed 351,000 bales against 364,000 bales last year. Into sight movement for the week was 747,879 bales against 994,493 bales last year and since Oct. 1 aggregates 2,029,801 bales against 2,287,784 bales a year ago; since Aug. 1 5,310,350 bales against 5,551,629 bales last year.

Spot cotton was unchanged at 10.20c in New York, 10.10c in New Orleans, 10.20c at Galveston and 10.05c in Houston. Prices follow:

60 ACRE TRACT IS ADDED TO THE PALOS PRESERVE

Property Is Purchased to Fill In Gap.

BY AL CHASE.

Sixty acres in Lemont township were purchased yesterday by the forest preserve district trustees from Domin Hardwig for an indicated $48,800. This latest acquisition will fill in a gap in the large Palos preserve. The property just acquired is surrounded on three sides by forest preserve property. It is bounded on the north by Archer avenue and is just west of and adjoining the line between Palos and Lemont townships.

Aaron W. Mandel, retired, formerly of Mandel Bros., has sold his twelve room residence at the northwest corner of 68th street and Constance avenue, lot 75x125, to Dr. James P. Molloy Jr. for an undisclosed consideration. Mr. Mandel has moved to Gulfport, Miss., where he expects to make his permanent residence. Glatt & Price represented both parties.

Chicagoan to Build in New York.

Walter Ahlschlager, Chicago architect, has leased twenty-three floors of a twenty-four story building which he is to erect at the northwest corner of 41st street and 6th avenue, New York City, opposite Bryant park. The building will be named after the firm which has leased it. Mr. Ahlschlager states the total investment in land and building will be $2,350,000. Wreckers will clear the site beginning Dec. 1.

Vartan V. Pedian, oriental rug dealer, has leased the entire ground floor of the premises at 4920-24 Sheridan road from Gustave W. Cramer for a term of years at an undisclosed consideration. Mr. Pedian is remodeling the building and installing a new front.

H. W. Croxton & Co. were brokers.

Louis and John G. Wittbold, trustees of the Wittbold realty trust, have sold the vacant northeast corner of Touhy and Kostner avenues, in Tessville, to Thomas E. Thompson, a manufacturer, for an indicated $25,000.

Realty Man Leases Theater.

Joseph Sandman, real estate broker, has leased the New Apollo theater at 1536-42 North Crawford avenue from Alex Hlepas for twenty years, beginning April 1, 1931, at an annual rental of $8,000 the first ten years, then $8,400 for five years, and $9,000 for the balance of the term. The 1,200 seat playhouse is now closed. It will be redecorated and acoustically treated for talkies.

The trustees of school district No. 72, in Niles Center, have added to the school property at the southeast corner of Carpenter road and Howard street, in that suburb, by purchasing two lots on the east and two on the south. This gives the school property a frontage of approximately 200 feet on both Carpenter and Howard. About $4,500 per lot was paid for the property just acquired. There is an old time country school on the corner, built more than half a century ago. A new and modern school is contemplated within a few years. Henry L. Wells was attorney for the school district.

FOREIGNERS BUY LARD

Foreign and domestic buying of lard was said to be the largest of the season, as announced by one of the large packers yesterday. One order for 25,000 boxes, equaling 1,030,000 lbs., was sold to the continent, in addition to other good sized lots for shipment abroad. At the same time cash lard was said to be easier and trade in futures was not heavy, with prices 5 to 10c lower.

Hog values and the market for products did not act in unison as hogs closed 15 to 25c higher, with smaller receipts at western packing points than a week and a year ago. Liverpool lard was unchanged to 6d lower and export clearances 1,166,275 lbs. Bellies were nominally unchanged and light offerings. Prices follow:

100 GALLONS OF GASOLINE

WITH ANY USED CAR PURCHASED

Here is the sale of sales. We need extra room for more trade-ins, so we drastically reduced the price of every used car in our stock. In addition, we will give every purchaser who buys today or tomorrow a 100 gallon gasoline book good at any Standard Oil Station in town.

DODGE COUPE. An ideal car for the business man. Has good tires and many extras. $45.

ELCAR SEDAN. Has side mounts, snubbers, heater, trunk, bumpers, etc. Splendid all-around condition. $95.

PACKARD TOURING. Looks and runs better than many open cars selling for three times the price. Many extras, $125.

HUDSON COUPE. Exceptionally clean throughout and the finish has not a mar on it. Runs fine. Has shutter front, driving light, spare time, bumpers, etc. $145.

FLINT SEDAN. Beautiful finish and attractive blue mohair upholstery. Has bumpers, heater, spare tire, etc. $145.

STUDEBAKER SEDAN. Std.-6 with thousands of miles of unused transportation. Appearance is attractive. $145.

PAIGE SEDAN. Was in storage for 17 months, so it's tonnotch in every respect today. 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, bumpers, driving light, spare tire, etc. $195.

STUDEBAKER SEDAN. Big Six 7 pass. with heater, snubbers, spare tire, bumpers etc. Has expensive mohair upholstery. Runs fine. $195.

ERSKINE SEDAN. Late model 6 with 4 whl. brakes, shock absorbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. The upholstery appears unworn and the original finish sparkles like a dollar. Has a sweet running motor. $295.

NASH COACH. 1928, with new tires, shock absorbers, bumpers, etc. Will give low car satisfaction today. $345.

WILLYS-KNIGHT CABRIOLET. A conv. 6 with rumble seat. This is a sporty car with a snappy performance. 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. $345.

PEERLESS SEDAN. It's a late model! Painted a beautiful blue. The mileage is low. Equipped with 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. The motor is excellent. $345.

ESSEX COACH. A late model that's de luxe in every respect and looks as though it might be direct from the factory. 4 whl. brakes, new tires, and many extras. $350.

STUDEBAKER DICTATOR. 4 pass. Victoria. Was oiled and greased every 500 miles so it is in wonderful shape. Appearance is very attractive, and the equipment includes 4 whl. brakes, shock absorbers, spare tire, etc. $350.

PACKARD CLUB COUPE. A 5 pass. that will please the most exacting buyer. The blue finish has not a mar on it and the upholstery is protected by seat covers. Equipped with 4 whl. brakes, trunk, wood tires, snubbers, driving light, etc. $350.

BUICK VICTORIA Mast. 6. The blue finish is bright and shiny and the motor is all. Very fully equipped. $385.

PONTIACH COACH. Late model, 4 whl. brakes, shock absorbers, spare tire, bumper, etc. The last word in snarkling performance and active appearance. $385.
